HOOVER SCORES HOUSE IN RENEWING APPEAL FOR BALANCED BUDGET

Blames 'Fear and Alarm' That Prevail in Land on Body's Actions.

SURPRISE MESSAGE AROUSES CONGRESS

Reed Says Nation Needs Mussolini Type of Leadership.

LEWIS TRAINS FIRE ON 'LITTLE CABINET'

Rainey Terms President's Stand First Speech in His Campaign.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover sent a surprise message to Congress yesterday, one that contained both a rebuke and an appeal. Using strong language, the President blamed the House of Representatives for the "fear and alarm" that prevail in the land, and again pleaded for a balanced budget.

"The imperative need of the Nation today," the President said, "is a definite and conclusive program for balancing the budget. Uncertainty is disastrous."

The message, landing at the Capital after the House had wrecked the economy bill and while a Senate committee was wrestling with a battered tax bill, caused outbursts of oratory in both chambers.

Reed Startles Senate.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, startled the Senate with this statement:

"If this country ever needed a Mussolini, it needs one now.

"I am not proposing that we make Mr. Hoover our Mussolini. I am not proposing that we should abdicate the authority that is in us, but if we are to get economies made, they have to be made by some one who has the power to make the order and stand by it."

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, who earlier in the day had offered a three-ply plan for the economic recovery of the world, one calling for disarmament, settlement of the reparations problem and restoration of silver, gave Reed a chance to retract.

Repeats Leadership Stand.

Referring to Reed's remark about the need of a Mussolini, Borah said, "I wonder whether the senator wants that statement to stand?"

"This country needs courage in public office," said Reed.

Whereupon Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, arose from his seat, and, looking directly at Reed, shouted:

"I deny, sir, that we need a Mussolini. Democracy is good enough for me. It ought to be good enough for you, sir. Democracy has led us thus far upon our path of success, prosperity and glory. * * * Democracy will ever rise, and we need no Mussolini and no dictator."

Raps "Little Cabinet."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, became angry for the first time this session, and heaped ridicule on members of President Hoover's "little cabinet"—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke and the others.

Lewis called them the "fife men and drummers of the Hoover brigade," and he accused them of traveling

Text of Hoover Message Urging Balanced Budget

The following is the text of the President's message to Congress:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I should not be discharging my constitutional responsibility to give to the Congress information on the state of the Union and to recommend for its consideration such measures as may be necessary and expedient, if I did not report to the Congress the situation which has arisen in the country in large degree as the result of incidents of legislation during the past six weeks.

The most essential factor to economic recovery today is the restoration of confidence. In spite of the unquestioned beneficial effect of the remedial measures already taken and the gradual improvement in fundamental conditions, fear and alarm prevail in the country because of events in Washington which have greatly disturbed the public mind.

The manner in which the House of Representatives rejected both the revenue program proposed by the Treasury and the program unanimously reported by the committee on ways and means; the character of the tax measures passed; the action of the House which would increase governmental expenditure by $132,000,000 for road building; the action further to enlarge expenditures in nonservice connected benefits from the Veterans' Bureau at the very time when the House was refusing to remedy abuse in these same services; the virtual destruction of both the national economy program proposed by the executive officials and the program of the special House committee on economy; the failure of the House to give adequate authority for early reduction of Government bureaus and commissions; the passage of legislation by the House placing burden of impossible execution upon the Federal Reserve System over the protest of the Federal Reserve Board; the threat of further legislation looking to uncontrolled inflation—have all resulted in diminishing public confidence and offsetting the constructive, unified efforts of the Executive and the Congress undertaken earlier in the year for recovery of employment and agriculture.

I need not recount that the revenues of the Government as estimated for the next fiscal year show a decrease of about $1,700,000,000 be-

NORRIS BACKS ROOSEVELT AS LONG CONCURS

Nebraskan, G.O.P. Bolter in 1928 Campaign, Will Repeat.

LOUISIANA IS HELD SURE FOR GOVERNOR

New Yorker's Managers Are Reported Viewing Garner as Vice President.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, who jumped from the Republican fold in 1928 to support Alfred E. Smith against President Hoover, gave assurance last night he would follow the same course this November if Franklin D. Roosevelt is the Democratic nominee.

The Republican insurgent leader said: "The Chief Executive has not done anything he said he was going to do. History has demonstrated that I was right in opposing him four years ago."

He spoke after Senator Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, had quoted him in Atlanta as urging the Louisiana delegation to support Roosevelt and pledging his support if the New York Governor is the Democratic choice.

Roosevelt Managers Elated.

The promise of support from the Western senator was received as happy tidings among the Roosevelt managers who had seen their candidate beaten twice in the last few days, once in Massachusetts by Mr. Smith and in California by Speaker John N. Garner.

Meantime, in New York, Roosevelt spokesmen were interpreted as considering offering Mr. Garner second place on the ticket with Roosevelt.

They believe the New York Governor will lack only about 100 votes of the 770 needed to nominate when the convention convenes, and Mr. Garner now has 90, including California's and those of his home State, Texas.

The possibility of the Democratic House leader accepting such a proffer was discounted, however, by his friends here.

Speaking Own Views.

Senator Connally, of Texas, emphasizing that he was speaking only his own views, said he believed that Mr. Garner would prefer to be Speaker rather than Vice President.

"If the Roosevelt people are out to give him the Vice Presidential nomination, it shows they have got cold feet," Mr. Connally said.

In the House, a close Texas friend of Mr. Garner's pointed out that the Speakership was considered the sec-

Is Taken After He Fails to Return Money to Mrs. E. B. McLean.

SEIZED IN HIS AUTO BY JUSTICE AGENTS

Averred He Felt Certain He Knew Abductors, Attorney Says.

UNABLE TO POST BOND OF $100,000

Declines to Discuss "Deal;" Was Not Surprised at His Arrest.

(Associated Press.)

The world-wide search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was echoed dramatically yesterday in the arrest of Gaston B. Means on a charge of obtaining $100,000 on false representations that he could obtain the child from his abductors.

Department of Justice agents arrested the former Justice Department investigator after a secret inquiry into allegations that he had been paid the money by Mrs. Edward B. McLean, wife of the publisher of The Washington Post.

Mrs. McLean said in a statement through her attorney, Albert W. Fox, that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the kidnaped child, knew of her activities, but that they were kept secret from her closest friends.

The weird negotiations conducted by Mrs. McLean, her attorney said, led her to Aiken, S. C., where she met Means and a rough-looking individual armed with guns, who represented himself to be one of the kidnaping gang.

Went to El Paso, Tex.

She was told, her attorney added, that it would be necessary for her to go to El Paso, Tex., as the baby was in Mexico. Arriving there, Fox continued, she was informed there had been a hitch in the plans and she would have to return to Washington and reestablish contact with the gang.

Later, after additional demands for money had been made and Mrs. McLean was ready to pawn some of her jewelry to raise additional funds, her attorneys learned of the negotiations, Fox said, and put a stop to them.

A demand was made upon Means to return the $100,000, Fox added, and he was given until last Monday to do so. Upon his failure, attorneys for Mrs. McLean went to the Department of Justice and told the story, Fox said. Arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday, Means, who served more than three years in the Atlanta Penitentiary for accepting a bribe and for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, pleaded not guilty.

Leo A. Rover, United States district attorney, demanded that bail be fixed at $100,000, saying his information regarding Means' "past activities leads me to believe that if the bond is not set he will not be here."

Commissioner Turnage set next Tuesday for a preliminary hearing and Means was placed in jail on his failure to make bond.

Means was a perspiring but other-

BORAH HITS UNEQUAL GOLD DISTRIBUTION

Says Recovery Is Impossible on Present System; Asks Silver Restoration.

(Associated Press.)

Three pathways to the economic recovery of the world were charted in the Senate yesterday by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee in a denunciation of international leadership and "timidity of governments."

Disarmament, settlement of the reparations problem and restoration of silver were demanded by the Idaho orator, his powerful voice booming a challenge to the rulers of the world.

Borah's frank discussion of economic and international problems held a crowded Senate intent through most of the usual lunch hour. Unheralded, however, the speech was made before half-filled galleries.

His unruly hair falling over his forehead, Borah warned that a failure of the Geneva Disarmament Conference would have world-wide effects and discourage investors.

He pointed to a restlessness of the masses everywhere at the failure of governments to meet the problems, adding, "I do not know how long the people will be willing to carry the burden they are now carrying."

Denouncing "gold mentality," Borah called upon the American Gov-

ARMAMENT HOLIDAY REJECTED IN SENATE

Years' Suspension of U. S. Military Construction Asked by Frazier.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday rejected a proposal for a year's suspension of military and naval armament construction.

The proposal was offered by Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, as a substitute for a bill to build the Navy up to treaty limits.

The Frazier resolution would have declared such a suspension to be this Government's policy.

It also would have provided that the United States call the attention of the present Geneva Disarmament Conference to the action and take such other steps as may be necessary to obtain international agreement to such a truce.

Trimmed, like its predecessors, of millions of dollars, a $386,794,000 War Department appropriation bill yesterday was reported to the House.

Committee in Illinois Backs Lewis for 1932

Springfield, Ill., May 5 (A.P.).—U. S. Senator James Hamilton Lewis was indorsed as a Democratic candidate for President by the State central committee today. Senator Lewis was the only Democratic presidential candidate on the Illinois primary ballot last month.

Thomas F. Donovan, jr., of Joliet, chairman of the committee whose reelection was regarded as certain, said every one regretted the lack of indorsement for Lewis by the State convention. The resolution was in the convention, but was not submitted, he said.

Premier Undergoes Second Operation

MacDonald to Rest Following Surgeon's Work on Right Eye.

London, May 5 (A.P.).—A surgeon's knife today removed Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald from international and domestic politics for a period of six weeks. An operation to relieve glaucoma, an ailment which might eventually lead to blindness, was performed on his right eye. Four months ago a similar operation was performed on the left eye.

It was officially announced that today's surgical treatment had been carried out successfully. But it will be necessary, the physicians said, for Mr. MacDonald to rest at least six weeks. He expects to be able to return to his duties in time for the Lausanne reparations conference in June.

The operation was performed at 4 p. m. in a nursing home, where the prime minister went last night after presiding over a cabinet meeting and visiting the king at Buckingham Palace.

Oklahoma City Oil Drilling Is Halted

Murray Employs Martial Law to Safeguard Property and Life.

Oklahoma City, May 5 (U.P.).—Gov. W. H. Murray late today employed his favorite resort, martial law, in his crusade to regulate oil operations.

A sweeping mandate applicable to oil activity within the city limits halted all drilling. Besides restricted zones, an area of Capitol Hill, south suburban district, where most of the oil activity is located, was declared closed. The order was issued upon receipt of a report of a special committee that any considerable advance of drilling would endanger, by fire hazard, millions of dollars' worth of city property as well as human life.

WOMAN KILLED AND 8 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Another Woman in Serious Condition After Cars Collide Head-On.

Mrs. Lucy Cullen, 58, of 307 B street northeast, was fatally injured and eight other persons were hurt when the two machines in which they were riding collided head-on at Twenty-second and Otis streets northeast yesterday afternoon.

The injured are:

Richard Roberts, 53, and Mrs. Dora Roberts, 58, both of 2211 Kearney street northeast, and Elizabeth O. Cullen, 32, daughter of the dead woman and also driver of one of the machines. Mrs. Roberts was said at Sibley Hospital last night to be in a serious condition with internal injuries and face lacerations.

In the other machine, driven by Catherine Cuskey, 17, five persons, all from Lancaster, Pa., were injured. They are the Cuskey girl, lacerations about the face, hands and legs, condition not serious; Mary Bennawalt, 16, face lacerations, not serious; Katherine Bennawalt, 18, lacerations about the hands, not serious; Henry Dennis, 15, lacerations about the head, not serious, and Pauline Hoff-

Court Ruling Aims At Smoke Screens

Rum Car Driver Gets Six Months in Assault With Intent to Kill.

Rumrunners who use smoke screens in Maryland are guilty of assault with intent to kill, the Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro, Md., decided yesterday in sentencing William Jackson, of Washington, to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Heretofore, the maximum penalty for using a smoke screen was a fine of $50. Last year three men who had tried to escape police in this manner were charged with assault, but they broke jail and have not been recaptured. Jackson is the first man to be indicted and sentenced on an assault charge arising from the smoke equipment.

Jackson was arrested some time ago by Policeman Oscar Beall after a chase through clouds of smoke. Eleven cases of alleged liquor were in the car, but charges of possession against Jackson have not yet been tried. He was indicted for assault with intent to kill and assault and battery, and pleaded guilty when arraigned yesterday.

SENATE UNIT BOOSTS INCOME TAX RATES

Former Stand Repudiated; Action Expected to Add $100,000,000.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Bedeviled by every interest which has demanded a budget-balancing tax bill but strenuously objected to taxes aimed directly at their particular profits, the Senate finance committee yesterday wielded the big stick of increased taxes on the less articulate general public.

By a vote of 11 to 7 the committee repudiated its former action on income tax rates and put a new schedule, based on the 1922 rates, in the changed and rechanged tax bill for which no member or group of the committee would assume responsibility.

The latest individual income tax schedule decided on by the committee jumps the present rate of 1½ per cent to 4 per cent on the first $4,000. A normal tax of 8 per cent was levied on incomes above $4,000. The present

Embassies Only Oases Here, Dry Official Says

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Excluding the embassies, there isn't a bar in operation in Washington to the best of the knowledge of Howard Jones, assistant director of prohibition enforcement, he said here today.

Jones discounted a map of the city, published by the Crusaders, antiprohibition organization, and purporting to list a large number of speakeasies. He said the dots on the map only indicated where arrests had been made on liquor sales charges and the location of transient bootleggers.

WARDEN IS FIGHTING FALL RELEASE PLANS

Asserts Fine Must Be Paid; Officials Here Sure Orders Will Be Obeyed.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., May 5 (A.P.).—Warden Ed Swope, of the New Mexico Penitentiary, balked today at releasing Albert B. Fall Sunday upon orders of Attorney General Mitchell.

Swope contended the former Secretary of the Interior, who is completing a Federal sentence, should remain in prison until he takes a pauper's oath that he is unable to pay a $100,000 fine, or his freedom is authorized by President Hoover or the Federal parole board.

The warden, however, had not yet received instructions from the Department of Justice. Officials in Washington said they would be forwarded probably tomorrow and the department expected the orders to be obeyed.

Swope contended the Attorney General is not empowered to order the release until the requirements of the commitment papers have been met. The papers specify, he said, that Fall shall be confined in the penitentiary "until this fine is paid."

The elderly former Cabinet member, convicted of accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, in the leasing of naval oil reserves, has stated he is unable to pay the fine, which was imposed in addition

Doctor Convicted Of Slaying Mother

Leniency Urged by Jury in Seattle in Murder of Woman, 81.

Seattle, Wash., May 5 (A.P.).—Dr. Albert G. McKeown, Seattle dentist, was convicted of second degree murder late today for the slaying of his 81-year-old mother, Mrs. Rhoda McKeown. Leniency was recommended by the superior court jury of four women and eight men which returned the verdict.

Mrs. McKeown, who went from her home in Muscatine, Iowa, to be the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, was beaten to death in the basement of his residence March 1.

The State charged the dentist slew her because she "demanded a financial readjustment which would prevent him from inheriting all her estate." Dr. McKeown pleaded temporary insanity. He denied monetary matters supplied the motive. The conviction carries a statutory sentence of from ten years to life imprisonment.

Choir and Sanctuary Opened Auspiciously at Cathedral

Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Wilson and Many Others Prominent in Social and Spiritual Life Attend Festival Service.

By ELISABETH E. POE.

The prayers and labors of a multitude of cathedral builders reached a glorious fruition yesterday when the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral was opened for public worship in a festival service which put into commission for "Christ's service" this House of Prayer for all people and spiritual power house in the Capital.

Nearly 35 years before, the foundation stone of the cathedral had been laid with impressive rites in the presence of Theodore Roosevelt, then President, and a vast assemblage. Yesterday's service was to have been signalized also by the presence of the Chief Executive, but last-minute affairs of state prevented President Hoover from attending, although he sent Mrs. Hoover, a gracious ambassador and one who has given real service to the cathedral as honorary chairman of its national women's committee, to represent him.

Near Mrs. Hoover sat Mrs. William Howard Taft and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of other Presidents, and leading the long list of national notables present was Vice President Curtis, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and five members of the President's Cabinet besides a number of senators and representatives. The United States Supreme Court was represented by Justice Pierce Butler and Mrs. Butler and Justice Harlan F. Stone and Mrs. Stone.

In token of the friendly interest of other nations in the opening of a great Cathedral in the Capital of the United States, four ambassadors, Ambassador Paul May of Belgium, Am-

Huge Parade at Apple Fete Is Witnessed by 125,000

Queen Shenandoah Is Prominent in Closing Features of Blossom Festival at Winchester Featured by Historical Pageant in Honor of Washington.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 5.—With historical pageantry reminiscent of the bygone days when the Indians roamed the vale of the Shenandoah, then a wilderness, and later when George Washington surveyed the territory and represented Winchester as a State burgess, the ninth Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival was brought to a glittering close here today with more than 5,000 people participating in the final events, honoring Queen Shenandoah IX, a collateral descendant of the first President.

While the "Trail of the Pink Petals," 6 miles in length, wended its way through the historic streets of the city, 125,000 people lined the sidewalks and cheered avidly the various divisions of the parade.

Beginning with a glorification of the new Washington, Queen Shenandoah IX, Miss Helen Ames Washington, of Overbrook, Pa., more than 50 floats and several score bands and drum and bugle corps marched hand in hand in final tribute to the "Father of His Country" and the blossoming of 11,000,000 apple trees in the Shenandoah-Potomac-Cumberland apple belt, which includes the States of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia. Headed by the Overseas Drum and Bugle Corps, of Washington, D. C., Queen Shenandoah IX and her royal court of 35 princesses from as many States and the District of Columbia followed in cloth formation, seated on their all-very white chariots. The queen was the "Lady of the Hour," receiving the plaudits of the multitude as she paraded the town.

TYDINGS HURLS DRY LAW TAG AT HOOVER

Galleries Noisy as Fervent Plea Is Made for Tax on Legalized Beer.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was called upon in the Senate yesterday by Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, to state his views on prohibition before the tax bill is passed and it is too late to tax beer.

He said Secretary Hurley and Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, had indicated President Hoover would agree to "some sort of wet or modification" platform, while Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee had said the party would remain dry.

"It is rather a sad commentary on democracy," Mr. Tydings said, "that with a great question like this the President of the United States is absolutely silent.

"No man in the country knows whether he is going to be for a continuation of this glorious experiment or advocate some change.

Fess Ignores Question.

"Is there any one in this chamber who can state how the Chief Executive stands on this question?"

Mr. Fess, sitting at his desk, reading, apparently paid no attention to Mr. Tydings.

Mr. Tydings said the finance committee was struggling to raise sufficient taxation, "while bootleggers grow rich, was planning to tax automobiles, radios, theater admissions and gambling."

"We can do that but we mustn't touch the sacrosanct ring of law violators," Mr. Tydings said. "Taxes on beer alone would raise $500,000,000 and make all these nuisance taxes unnecessary. I don't want to hear after this session is over that the Chief Executive has come out and said he favors modification.

Galleries Applaud.

"If he is going to, now is the time and not on the deathbed, because it will be a deathbed repentance after we have sandbagged industry for $1,200,000,000 instead of getting half of that from beer."

The galleries applauded and Vice President Curtis warned against a demonstration when Mr. Tydings said:

"It is my belief that if the Anti-saloon League, so called, which wields some power in certain parts of this country, and in my State along with the others, could be put on a boat and sent to the North Pole for about a year, Congress would repeal the eighteenth amendment within 24 hours."

Raising his voice above the applause Vice President Curtis said, "There will be no demonstrations from the gallery."

Wonders at Patience.

"If a vote could be had in secret here and in the House," said Mr. Tydings, "it wouldn't last until sun down—this farce we call national prohibition.

"I wonder at the patience of our people.

"We sit here with this farce all around us.

"Here in Washington five times the number of people have been arrested for drunkenness than in preprohibition days. The police record shows over 1,000 raids in the Capital of the Nation. Three of them found liquor on Government property.

"Every household serves cocktails and all the time the people are crying for less taxation."

Mr. Tydings insisted there is not one man "who can say where the Chief Executive stands on the question."

"Where is the leadership if on a question of this magnitude and importance we get only silence from the White House?"

Referring to prohibition enforcement as a farce, he said it is marked by graft, "even reaching up to the judiciary;" by bribery, corruption and gangster control of cities.

Ambassador to Testify.

"There is not a spot in the United States," he said, "where liquor can not be purchased. Yet this industry, illegal though it is, is not taxed a dollar."

He said some Republicans have gone out "to curry favor with the voters," and hint that there will be a wet plank in the next Republican platform but that any such prospect was denied by Senator Fess, of Ohio, of the national committee.

John M. Morehead, American Minister to Sweden, is expected to appear Tuesday before a Senate committee considering prohibition bills. He will explain the Swedish liquor control system.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, committee chairman, declined to comment on the calling of Mr. Morehead.

low the fiscal year 1929 and inexorably require a broader basis of taxation and a drastic reduction of expenditures in order to balance the budget. Nothing is more necessary at this time than balancing the budget. Nothing will put more heart into the country than prompt and courageous and united action in enacting the legislation which this situation imperatively demands, and an equally determined stand in defeating unwise and unnecessary legislation.

Most expeditious action is necessary if the revenues, appropriations, economy legislation and a balanced budget are to be attained before the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1 next.

The details and requirements of the situation are now well known to the Congress and plainly require:

1. The prompt enactment of a revenue bill adequate to produce the necessary revenue and so designed as to distribute the burdens equitably and not to impede economic recovery.

2. A drastic program of economy which, including the savings already made in the executive budget of $369,000,000, can be increased to exceed $700,000,000 per annum. Considering that the whole Federal expenditures, except about $1,700,000,000, is for uncontrollable obligations, this would represent an unprecedented reduction. Such a program, to accomplish its purpose, must embrace the rejection of all measures that increase expenditures unless they be for undoubted emergency; the reduction in appropriations now pending below the figures submitted in the executive budget on December 9 last; a reconsideration of the legislation covering those economy projects which require repeal or amendment to the laws; and an effective grant of authority to the executive to reorganize and consolidate and eliminate unnecessary Government bureaus and establishments.

Reduction of Direct Appropriations.

In the category of appropriations within the authority of the appropriation committees those committees have given some months to devoted consideration of the executive budget, which, as I have said, in itself carried a reduction of $369,000,000 below the expenditures of the current year. Considering the situation in the country and a study of the results so far attained by the committees, together with a review by the executive officials, I am convinced that, subject to the inclusion of conditions mentioned later, a reduction of at least $230,000,000 below the executive budget can be made in the supply bills (of which some $70,000,000 or $80,000,000 may be the subject of deficincy bills at the next session). In order to effect these economies, to preserve the efficiency of the Government, and to assure the humane treatment of Government employes, authority must be given to meet emergencies which may arise from such close budgeting by the transfer of not to exceed 15 per cent of any appropriation to any other appropriation within the same department, provided no apropriation is increased more than 15 per cent, but subject to the approval of the Director of the Budget; and to suspend the leave with pay so that the five-day week and its equivalent to salaried employes can be installed where necessary.

With the reduction proposed in the original budget, together with the further reduction here proposed, it will be necessary to discharge 50,000 to 100,000 employes, unless we divide the remaining work of the Government amongst the whole of its employes just as has been done in industry. I know of nothing more inhuman in the present situation than for the Government to add to the pool of unemployment and destitution when it is entirely unnecessary and can be provided against by the same measures which were undertaken by industry at the request of the Government itself nearly three years ago.

Special Economy Legislation.

In the category of further economics which can only be made by changes in laws which would give authority to the Executive and the appropriations committees, many items were proposed by executive officers of the Government, and some portion of them were embodied in the bill presented by the special economy committee to the House of Representatives. Less then $30,000,000 direct and definite savings were covered in the bill which finally passed the House. Many of the indeterminate and indirect savings in that legislation can not be realized until late in the new year or after that.

Many of the recommendations which were rejected by the House of Representatives should again be considered. Aside from the economy proposals affecting employes which are here included in the above discussion of the supply bills, there are opportunities to increase the direct savings provided for in the House economy bill from $30,000,000 to from $130,000,000 to $150,000,000, plus many indeterminate items which would result in further economies.

These savings would be over and above the amounts of savings referred to in the direct appropriations. Without going into the merits or demerits of the proposals, they do represent the correction of abuses and the curtailment of unnecessary functions of the Government and embrace items that can be dispensed with during the present critical period.

Consolidation of Bureaus.

In the category of economies that can be made by consolidation, reorganization, and elimination of the less necessary bureaus, commissions, &c., the authority given in the measure passed by the House of Representatives is so restricted that it can not be made effective until late in the next fiscal year. In order to expedite this economy, I earnestly recommend that the Executive be authorized to proceed immediately in the consolidation of public works, and personnel, partly provided in the House economy bill, public health, merchant marine, conservation, education, munitions manufacture, Army and Navy hospitals, aviation fields, and other specific Army and Navy activities which may advantageously be consolidated for the purposes of economy and more effective administration. The savings to be made are indeterminate but very considerable. If made by Executive action within the above direction from the Congress they can be made promptly.

Conclusion.

The imperative need of the Nation today is a definite and conclusive program for balancing the budget. Uncertainty is disastrous. It must be in every sense a national program. Sectional, partisan, group or class considerations can have no place in it. Ours is a government of all the people, created to protect and promote the common good, and when the claims of any group or class are inconsistent with the welfare of all, they must give way. Various groups and sections of the country have brought insistent and delaying pressures to bear for the adoption or rejection of various projects which would yield great economy and revenue. They have not realized that sacrifice by all groups is essential to the salvation of the Nation. They have not recognized the gravity of the problems with which we are confronted. They apparently do not know that by their actions they are imposing losses on members of their own groups and sections through stagnation, unemployment, decreased commodity prices, far greater than the sacrifices called for under these suggestions. The Government can not be dictated to by organized minorities. Such action will undermine all popular government. I know that these actions do not reflect the will of the country, and I refuse to believe that the country is unable to reflect its will in legislation.

In conclusion, let me urge the national necessity for prompt and resolute and unified action, keeping constantly in mind the larger aspects of the problem and that the necessity for these measures is born of a great national emergency. If such a program should be agreed to by the leaders and members of both Houses it would go far to restore business, employment and agriculture alike. It would have a most reassuring effect on the country.

Police patrols and private motorists rushed the injured persons to Sibley Hospital, where all except the Hoffman girl were treated. The latter was treated by Dr. Rush W. Conklin, 3100 Twentieth street northeast. Mrs. Cullen died shortly after 6 o'clock.

Police indicated last night that Miss Cuskey and Miss Cullen would be held for the action of the coroner's jury. No witnesses to the accident had been found at a late hour last night, and none of the principals could advance any theory as to the circumstances leading to its occurrence.

The party from Lancaster had been on an educational tour here along with a party of fellow students at the Lancaster Catholic High School. They were en route to the Franciscan Monastery at Fourteenth and Quincy streets northeast and had gotten off the direct route when the accident occurred.

Police were told by several of the injured persons that the accident occurred too suddenly for them to say just what caused it. Most of the passengers in the two machines—which were badly wrecked—said the first they knew of the accident was when they were revived at the hospital.

Miss Cullen is an employe of the Library of Congress as was her mother, while Mr. Roberts is connected with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Hyattsville Woman Dies When Auto Overturns

Mrs. Elizabeth Gruver, 50 years old, of Queens Chapel road, Hyattsville, Md., was instantly killed yesterday morning when the automobile in which she was riding left the Little River turnpike about 4 miles west of Fairfax, Va., and overturned. The car was driven by her 19-year-old son, Alan. Her husband, Ira K. Gruver, her daughter, Majorie, 16, and Miss Elizabeth Cage, of Brentwood, Md., also were passengers. The party was on the way to the apple blossom festival at Winchester.

Mrs. Gruver, who was on the rear seat of the sedan with her husband and daughter, was thrown from the car. Dr. E. S. Waring, of Fairfax, who arrived a few minutes afterward, pronounced her dead with a broken neck.

NEPOTISM AROUSES 'FOLKS BACK HOME'

Members of Congress Get Flood of Letters Asking About Charges.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Incoming mail in Congress contains many letters from constituents asking senators and representatives whether they have relatives on their official pay rolls.

Seldom has a condition aroused such Nation-wide interest among voters as the disclosures concerning the family pay roll racket. Instances reported by the United Press in the last few days indicate the condition reaches into the pay rolls of the most eminent members of both houses and down to the humblest newcomers and is fairly prevalent in both parties.

Scarcely a congressman apparently has escaped questioning by his constituents. Some have been attempting to check on each other, but, since the current pay rolls are confidential, they have met with no success. The practice is becoming a campaign issue in numerous States and congressional districts. Washington correspondents of newspapers in many sections are being besieged by their home offices for information about specific senators and representatives.

Constituents Deeply Stirred.

The bill to abolish the employment of relatives introduced by Representative Mitchell (Democrat), Tennessee, and the earlier voting down of a similar amendment to the economy bill proposed by Representative Mouser (Republican), Ohio, have further created general interest in this method of using public funds.

Letters to senators and congressmen indicate constituents are deeply stirred by disclosures that their hard-earned taxes, wrung sometimes at considerable sacrifice to families of limited incomes, are being spent on wives and children of congressmen, many of whom do no work.

"This expose of the waste and wanton luxury voted to themselves by our Washington servants for years and years past, and continued at this critical period of our national life, deserves bitterest denunciation, contempt, scorn and punishment," declared Clarence E. Woods, of Sidney, Ill., in a letter to one congressman.

This critic pointed out to the congressman that it cost the farmers of his district 75,000 bushels of corn "to pay your salary and that of your more or less useless clerks."

Congressman Asked to Explain.

One congressman shown as having his wife on the pay roll while living at one of the most expensive hotels in town, is explaining the situation to his constituents by saying that his wife works in her room at the hotel and that, anyway, he can't live in Washington on the salary he gets unless his wife also is earning money. Congressmen draw $10,000 a year, $5,000 additional for clerk hire, $12a for stationery, and 40 cents a mile for the distance to their homes to cover traveling expenses.

There is a sharp clash between the general viewpoint in Congress and that of the country over the employment of relatives. The practice has many defenders in Congress. But the one point kept foremost in the correspondence from taxpayers out in the country is that a $10,000 job is something pretty good in these times and that for a congressman to put on a wife or other relative, especially if the person does no work, at a salary of as much as $10 a day, is displaying an indifferent attitude toward expenditure of public funds in a time when money comes hard.

For instance, just before this correspondent went into one office to inquire about an absentee clerk who is paid $25 a week, two young constituents of the congressman in question had come in asking for help in obtaining work. Their funds were practically gone. That is an occurrence in almost every senatorial and congressional office at some time or other.

Former Cash Register Leader Dead.

Dayton, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—William C. Powell, 45, former executive secretary of the National Cash Register Co., ended his life by shooting today. He was affiliated with the National Cash Register Co. official family for many years, but resigned about one year ago.

House Group Postpones Action on Birth Control

(Associated Press.)

Consideration of birth control legislation was deferred indefinitely yesterday by the House ways and means committee. Behind closed doors Acting Chairman Crisp laid before the committee a bill to legalize the distribution of birth control information and said that Representative Hancock (Democrat), North Carolina, the author, desired hearings.

Strenuous objections were raised. Finally the opposition, led by Representative McCormack (Democrat), Massachusetts, won out and the matter was postponed to an unknown date.

NEW SHOALS BILL IS PASSED IN HOUSE

More Liberal Leasing Plan in Latest Measure Sent to Senate.

(Associated Press.)

One of the annual congressional chores was performed yesterday by the Democratic House in passing another Muscle Shoals bill and sending it to the Senate.

Again the plan to dispose of the $140,000,000 Alabama properties contained a Government-operation provision, twice the chief cause of presidential vetoes.

The standing count on final passage was 183 to 132. A few minutes earlier an effort by administration Republicans to eliminate the Government-operation alternative was defeated by a 200-to-149 record vote.

Last year the House ballot on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, later vetoed by President Hoover, was 216 to 153.

But the 1932 plan, introduced by Representative Hill (Democrat), of Alabama, contained more liberal leasing provisions. Further, it halts Government control of the power at the switchboard instead of authorizing the building of transmission lines.

The Hill bill creates a Government board of three to lease the nitrate plants. If no private contract is obtained in eighteen months it directs the board to begin operation, though a lease may be written at any time thereafter if a satisfactory bid is received.

Chairman McSwain of the military committee, who directed the bill's passage, described this section as "a little thin slice of Government operation in between two nice juicy slices of private operation."

to his sentence of a year and a day in prison.

Counting time allowed for good behavior, Fall's prison sentence expires Sunday. He was committed July 20 last.

The customary procedure in the case of Federal prisoners unable to pay fines is for them to take a pauper's oath and serve an extra 30 days.

Attorney General Mitchell, in announcing in Washington he would order Fall's release Sunday, explained that a $100,000 judgment stands against the former official for the fine and that legal steps can be taken to collect if Fall is able to pay in the future.

Department of Justice officials, in Washington said Fall had been committed on an order of the department's prison bureau and it was only logical that he should be released at its command. They said the Federal parole board did not have jurisdiction.

SON OF 'T. R.' URGES VETERANS' FUND CUT

Visits White House and Asks Hoover to Place Issue Before Nation.

(Associated Press.)

A plea that President Hoover take a determined stand for a reduction in veterans' compensations, and place the issue squarely before the entire Nation, was lodged with the Chief Executive yesterday by Archibald Roosevelt, son of the former President.

Representing the National Economy Committee, he called at the White House personally to place a letter of protest in the President's hands. He charged that in the present payments "a vast legalized racket has been foisted on the people."

Meanwhile, cash payment of the $2,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus remained an unsolved problem before the House ways and means committee.

The group discussed the issue in general terms yesterday, but most of its two-hour executive session was spent on other matters. It was agreed, however, to take up the Patman bill for consideration today, and Acting Chairman Crisp predicted quick action "one way or the other."

Himself a veteran, Roosevelt contended in his letter that $450,000,000 could be saved "without injustice" through limiting compensations strictly to those whose injuries resulted directly from their war service.

Under present payments, he asserted, approximately a quarter of all the revenue received from the entire country was being expended for the benefit of less than 1 per cent of the people.

In an additional statement left with the President, he said: "The subservience of our Government authorities to the minority group receiving this subsidy—the flinching from any real effort to reduce this $1,000,000,000 expenditure—is a direct cause of the depreciation of the dollar in international exchange."

Asked what Mr. Hoover's reaction had been to his suggestions, Roosevelt replied the President had "seemed interested."

Congress Session May Be Extended

Garner Sees Adjournment Delayed Until After Party Conventions.

(Associated Press.)

Concern that Congress may not be able to adjourn before the political conventions was expressed yesterday by Speaker Garner, after a conference with Senate leaders.

The Texan said there was no doubt the House would finish its business before the first convention—the Republican, on June 14—and that Senate leaders, both Republican and Democratic, had told him there was some serious doubt the Senate could get through in time.

The Democratic convention will be held June 27. Suggestions already have been considered for a recess from June 11 to July 4, but definite determination of the adjournment problem will not be possible until the tax and economy bills go through the Senate.

Lumber Official Held in Fraud.

Pine Bluff, Ark., May 5 (A.P.).—Ray McIntyre, head of the McIntyre Co., Inc., lumber factory here, was arrested late today by Federal authorities on a charge of using the mails to defraud, contained in an indictment returned at Mobile, Ala., in connection with lumber shipments from Arkansas and Louisiana to England.

HOOVER CRITICIZES HOUSE IN NEW APPEAL ON BUDGET

around the country "slandering" Congress.

On the House side, Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, referred scornfully to the President's message as "the first speech in his campaign for reelection."

The President's message read like an indictment; and most of the counts were aimed at the House. He attacked the House for the tax bill it passed and for the "virtual destruction" of the economy program.

Other "counts" were the passage of the $132,000,000 road bill, passage of the bill granting pensions to widows and orphans of veterans, failure to economize by curing "abuses" in the veterans' service, passage of the Goldsborough "stabilization" bill, and the "threat of further legislation looking to uncontrolled inflation"—meaning, presumably, the bonus bill.

All these, the President said, have "resulted in diminishing public confidence" and "offsetting" the reconstruction program which he and Congress put through earlier in the year.

Asks Wider Authority.

Asserting that the authority given him by the House to reorganize Government bureaus was so restricted that action could not be taken until late in the next fiscal year, the President asked that he be authorized to proceed immediately on the task.

In the conclusion of his message the President, though not using the word, uttered a plain warning against lobbies. "Organized minorities," he said, had wielded such pressure as to block plans for reducing expenditures and raising new revenue.

He appealed to Congress to reflect, not the will of organized minorities, but the will of the country as a whole. If it does, he concluded, a program could be agreed on that would go far to restore business, employment and agriculture.

Robinson Criticizes Method.

After the message had been read in the Senate the Democratic leader, Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, said that he agreed with President Hoover on the need of balancing the budget, but why, he asked, did not the President submit some "specific suggestions" instead of merely delivering a lecture.

One reason there has been difficulty in balancing the budget, Robinson said, was that, Secretary of the Treasury Mills, in first submitting an estimate of the probable amount of revenue, had guessed wrong by $500,000,000.

Senator Reed described the "cloud of lobbyists" that had descended on the Capitol to block economies and new taxes. Congress, he said, had demonstrated that it lacks the courage to resist these lobbies.

Attacks Lobbies.

After suggesting that the country needed a Mussolini, Reed said:

"Leave it to Congress, and we will fiddle around here all summer trying to satisfy every lobbyist, and we will get nowhere."

The Democrats, though some of their leaders have been critical of the House, regarded the Hoover message as a political document, and Representative Rainey probably will treat it as such today.

In the House debate yesterday, Rainey charged that the President's recommendations had come after the House had acted on the economy bill.

Representative Bertrand G. Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, retorted that there was "not a single recommendation in this message which has not been made heretofore." Snell added that the Republicans in the House have stood more solidly for economy than have the Democrats.

Discussion on Newton.

"Who got us into this condition?" yelled a Democrat, and his cry was echoed by several others on that side of the aisle.

Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, the Democratic whip, asked Snell if it was true that a "Secretary to the President" had appeared in the House to lobby against a provision that "would have saved $500,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year."

McDuffie said he meant Walter Newton.

"As a former member of the House," said Snell, "he had a perfect right to the floor."

Snell, however, denied that he knew anything about Newton soliciting support against an economy provision.

WHITNEY'S FIRM HIT BY SENATE ADVISOR

David Stock Charges Sale of German Reparation Bonds Was Irregular.

(Associated Press.)

The purchase of German reparation bonds by the firm in which Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, is a member to support the market while the bonds were being sold was criticized yesterday in a statement by David Stock, assistant counsel for the Senate banking committee.

Emphasizing that he was speaking as an individual and not as official of the committee, Mr. Stock compared the action of Mr. Whitney's firm with manipulation of the market, which he pointed out Mr. Whitney said was a violation of stock exchange rules.

Mr. Whitney testified in the committee's stock market investigation that his firm bought $9,200,000 of German reparation bonds on the order of a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan, which was selling the bonds to the public.

"It is difficult to see wherein the support of a security at a price higher than it would ordinarily go to, in order to sell it to the public, differs from the manipulation of a bull market pool which has the same purpose," Mr. Stock said.

"If the bonds are worth what they are sold at, why should they be supported? If a group of lead pencil manufacturers should get together and conspire to sell their product at a certain price, they would be held to have violated the Sherman anti-trust law. Yet over 1,000 bankers combined in this syndicate of German reparations bonds for the very same purpose."

Mr. Stock said "the time has come for the investment bankers of this country to realize that they must accept another step in the evolution of the ethics of their profession in the face of the overwhelming public demand."

ARMAMENT HOLIDAY REJECTED IN SENATE

the big regular supply measures found it had been sheared some $24,569,000 below budget estimates by the appropriations committee. Its total is $58,978,000 less than that carried in the War Department bill for the present year.

The measure reached the House floor just after the passage of an emaciated economy measure, whose estimated savings had been cut from $210,000,000 to $42,000,000.

The War Department bill, however, brought the amount slashed by the Democratic controlled appropriations committee from supply measures to $160,000,000, with only the second deficiency bill remaining to be reported.

In addition, the House concurred in the Senate cut of 10 per cent below the figure first approved and may go along with other similar Senate reductions.

The bill submitted yesterday was ready to be reported six weeks ago, but the committee feared that the $24,000,000 saving might be eliminated in view of the tension over the Sino-Japanese clashes. Other appropriation bills were taken up and reported until the committee felt that the $24,00,000 cut was safe.

Looking about for ways to save money, the committee decided both efficiency and economy would be increased by eliminating about 2,000 officers from an active list of 12,000. This was depended upon to keep $3,814,823 in the Treasury. Generally speaking, the officers to be put on the retired list are those most advanced in age in each grade.

Other estimated savings included suspension of fourteen-day training pay for organized reserves, $5,555,000; a cut of $3,576,000 in the allotment for the Panama Canal, curtailment of the transportation of troops and officers, $3,219,000; Militia Bureau, $1,645,000; citizens' military training camps—which are to be suspended entirely for one year—$2,603,624, and a $2,109,000 reduction in the amount asked for organized reserves.

A lump sum of $80,000,000 for improvements of rivers and harbors and $32,000,000 for Mississippi flood control is included in the $105,444,000 for nonmilitary activities.

Carnegie Peace Budget Cut.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace today approved a budget of $687,848 for the fiscal year ending in June, 1933. The figure, it was reported, is the lowest budget for the endowment since 1929, and compared with last year's budget of $799,370. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler was reelected president of the trustees.

METHODISTS OFFER RECOVERY PROGRAM

5-Day Week Part of Plan; Birth Control Support Is Considered.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 5 (A.P.).—A five-point program designed for immediate application to current economic conditions was approved today by a joint meeting of the committees on industrial and social relations of the Methodist general conference.

Approval of the program marked the first definite action on the board of bishops' declaration for immediate and drastic reorganization of the relations between capital and labor. The program was submitted by the Chicago conference.

Before being acted upon by the general conference it must be approved by the parent body.

The plan calls for a system of economic planning in industry which would equalize production with consumption; unemployment insurance and old age pensions; abolition of child labor; a five-day week, and the application of funds now spent on armament to industrial purposes.

Sentiment crystallized in another subcommittee for favorable action on a proposal for uniform divorce and marriage laws as a means of curbing "divorce mills."

The same committee received but did not discuss a memorial recommending Methodism adopt the same stand on birth control as that taken recently by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The council favored dissemination of birth control information by competent physicians to married persons.

Discussion on the proposal, scheduled for today, was postponed.

The main committee approved a message to world Methodism calling for a million-dollar campaign for the support of missionary, philanthropic and educational activities of the church.

The drive is to be conducted between May 15 and May 30.

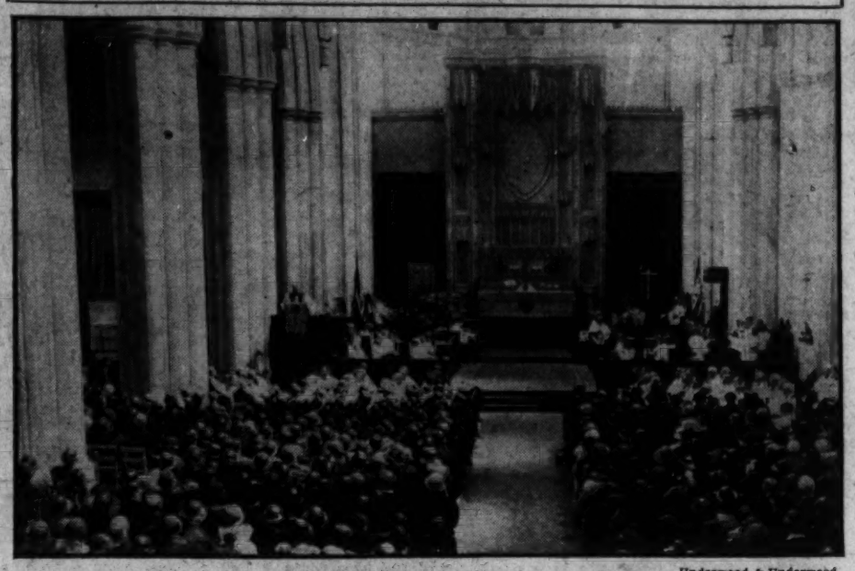
CROWDS AT FIRST SERVICES IN CATHEDRAL



Underwood & Underwood.

The first services to be held in the main body of the Washington Cathedral at Mount St. Albans. Bishop James E. Freeman, under whose direction much of the construction has been done, is shown delivering the sermon.

MANY AT CATHEDRAL RITES

bassador Paul Claudel of France, Ambassador Friedrich W. von Prittwitz of Germany and Ambassador Giacomo de Martino of Italy were present. Other diplomatic representatives present were Minister Fabio Lozano of Colombia, Minister Sesotris Sidarouse of Egypt, Minister Halvard H. Bachke of Norway, Minister Horacio F. Alfaro of Panama, Minister W. Bostrom of Sweden, Minister Pedro Manuel Arcaya of Venezuela and Minister Otto Wadsted of Denmark.

The members of the Cabinet and their wives who attended the opening service were: Attorney General William DeWitt Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Mrs. Brown, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Mrs. Adams, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde and Mrs. Hyde, and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce.

Among the senators who attended were: Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey; Senator Hugo L. Black, of Alabama; Senator Edwin S. Broussard, of Louisiana; Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida; Senator Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois; Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; Senator Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire; Senator George McGill, of Kansas; Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire; Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah; Senator Paul L. Townsend, of Delaware; Senator Frederic C. Walcott, of Connecticut; Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana; Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, and Senator John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin.

Members of the House.

Members of the House of Representatives at the services were: Representative A. Piatt Andrew, of Massachusetts; Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania; Representative Sol Bloom, of New York; Representative Clark Burdick, of Rhode Island; Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee; Representative John L. Cable, of Ohio; Representative Cyrenus Cole, of Iowa; Representative William R. Coyle, of Pennsylvania; Representative Robert Crosser, of Ohio; Representative Arthur M. Free, of California; Representative J. Charles Linthicum, of Maryland; Representative James S. Parker, of New York; Representative Hatton W. Sumners, of Texas; Representative Henry W. Watson, of Pennsylvania, and Representative Lindsay C. Warren, of North Carolina.

That Washington Cathedral may prove a "talisman" in effecting the ultimate unity of Christendom, to promote the cause of world peace and to rehabilitate the Nation from the present depression through a fresh affirmation of the elemental imperatives of religion was the hope expressed by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, in a stirring sermon at the festival opening service.

"The building of this temple here at the Capital of our republic," he said, "fulfilling as it does a high hope and expectation of George Washington, is a monumental work that at such a time as this must have a deep and far-reaching significance. It is the eloquent symbol of a nation's hope and aspirations, the visible witness to a faith that, in our better hours, is indispensable to our peace and security."

Satterlee Paid Tribute.

Bishop Freeman paid a high tribute to the late Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, first Bishop of Washington.

The service consisted of inspiring hymns and prayers containing a patriotic and thanksgiving keynote. Sung by the cathedral's choir of 40 men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster, two hymns, "Jerusalem the Golden" and "For Thee, O Thee Dear Country," were sung at the processional. The service was a celebration of the Holy Communion with special prayers of thanksgiving for the founders and benefactors of the cathedral and a prayer for country, church and cathedral.

Long before the hour set for the opening service hundreds of persons had gathered in the cathedral close. The seats available for the general public were quickly occupied and the remainder of those who could not gain admission to the cathedral itself grouped themselves on the Pilgrim steps below the south transept, where loud speakers had been placed.

The procession was led by a sturdy boy crucifer holding aloft the golden cross given to the cathedral by the Emperor of Abyssinia. After him came another crucifer, this time with the Star-Spangled Banner held high, and then, pacing two by two and singing as they came, were the choir boys and the men of the cathedral choir.

Later came the bishops and clergy, many of them wearing their doctorate hoods, thus adding more color and, for the most part, the lay members of the procession in academic gowns, many also embellished with collegiate hoods denoting various degrees.

Nine Bishops in Procession.

Nine bishops and more than 100 clergymen of the Episcopal Church, together with a score of ministers of other religious denominations, participated in the procession. The bishops included the Right Rev. William Lawrence, retired Bishop of Massachusetts; the Right Rev. H. L. Burleson, assistant to Presiding Bishop Perry, whom he represented; the Right Rev. Almon Abbott, Bishop of Lexington; the Right Rev. Thomas C. Darst, Bishop of East Carolina; the Right Rev. Philip Cook, Bishop of Delaware; the Right Rev. Walter Mitchell, Bishop of Arizona, and the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, retired Bishop of Pennsylvania and now warden of the College of Preachers.

In the procession also marched, in their academic gowns, presidents of universities in Washington and Maryland, the Cathedral architects and the lay members of the Cathedral Chapter and Council. Among the members of the chapter and council were Undersecretary of State Castle, former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania; Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton to England and Germany.

Under the Rev. Edwin B. Niver, librarian of the College of Preachers, as marshal, the first group in the procession was composed of clergy of non-Episcopalian denominations and included the following: The Rev. Earle Willfley, the Rev. W. L. Darby, the Rev. H. H. Harmon, the Rev. F. B. Harris, the Rev. A. J. McCartney, Rabbi Abram Simon, the Rev. J. R. Sizoo, the Rev. James H. Taylor, the Rev. R. W. Brooks, the Rev. J. C. Copenhaver, the Rev. J. Hillman Hollister, the Rev. Frank S. Niles, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy and the Rev. Clifford H. Jobe.

Presidents of Universities.

Next were the presidents or delegates of universities, including Dr. Lucius C. Clark, of American University; Dr. C. H. Marvin, of George Washington; Dr. W. Gerry Morgan, of Georgetown; Dr. R. A. Pearson, of Maryland, and the Rev. Dr. D. Butler Pratt, of Howard.

Chaplain George B. Kinhead, of the College of Preachers, was the marshal of the next body of the procession, which consisted of the following Episcopal clergymen from out of town: The Rev. Sherman Brown, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. W. R. Bowie, New York City; the Rev. Herman Ebert, the Rev. H. R. Freeman, Troy, N. Y.; the Rev. C. H. Goodwin, Charleston, S. C.; the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. W. H. Minnis, the Rev. J. A. Mitchell, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. W. J. Morton, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. T. K. Nelson, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. O. S. Newell, Yonkers, N. Y.; the Rev. A. C. Powell, Baltimore, Md.; the Rev. Malcolm S. Taylor, Greenville, S. C.; the Rev. Henry Baldwin Todd, Waterbury, Conn.; the Rev. H. W. Van Copenhaven, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. F. P. Willis, Croom, Md.; the Rev. R. W. Woodroofe, Detroit, Mich.; the Rev. A. C. Zabriskie, Alexandria, Va.; the Rev. Devall Gwathmey, Wytheville, Va.; the Very Rev. C. Sparling, Lexington, Ky.

The Rev. C. E. Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, headed the following group of the clergymen of the diocese of Washington: The Rev. Jabez Backus, the Rev. C. R. Barnes, the Rev. A. A. Birch, the Rev. Alfred Cheetham, the Rev. E. A. Christian, Mr. Clark, the Rev. Guy H. Crook, the Rev. Sydney K. Evans, chief Navy chaplain; the Rev. J. P. Gibson, the Rev. H. C. Goodman, the Rev. R. F. Hall, the Rev. William H. Helgham, the Rev. E. A. Lemoine, the Rev. Paul G. Linaweaver, Mr. Marshall, the Rev. R. C. Masterson, the Rev. Nelson MacConomy, the Rev. William R. Moody, the Rev. T. F. Opie, the Rev. F. Alan Parsons, the Rev. M. M. Perkins, Mr. Ridenour, the Rev. J. L. Showell, the Rev. J. C. M. Shrewsbury, the Rev. R. B. Stevenson, the Rev. R. J. Shores, the Rev. George G. Shilling, the Rev. E. M. Thompson, the Rev. Ronalds Taylor, the Rev. Frank Thompson, the Rev. H. A. Woolfall, the Rev. Francis Yarnall.

Second Group of Clergy.

The Rev. A. J. Wilder, rector of St. Andrew's Church, was marshal for a second group of diocesan clergy, who were the following: The Rev. C. S. Abbott, the Rev. G. W. Atkinson, the Rev. F. I. A. Bennett, the Rev. Dr. F. J. Bohanan, the Rev. Clyde Brown, the Rev. T. J. Brown, the Rev. Henry T. Cocke, the Rev. C. K. P. Cogswell, the Rev. Dr. F. Ward Denys, the Rev. Edward Douse, the Rev. G. W. Dow, the Rev. Edward Gabler, the Rev. G. C. Griffith, the Rev. H. A. Griffith, the Rev. M. B. MacBryde, the Rev. William L. Mayo, the Rev. Henry C. Parkman, the Rev. John J. Queally, the Rev. C. F. Sontag, the Rev. F. Bland Tucker, the Rev. F. C. J. Vurpillot, the Rev. J. E. Williams, the Rev. Mr. Wright, the Rev. Alvin L. Wills, the Rev. C. M. Young.

Council—Dr. Warren P. Laird, C. F. R. Ogilby, David A. Reed and A. B. Trowbridge.

Architects—Philip H. Frohman, E. Donald Robb and H. B. Little.

Standing committee—H. T. Nelson.

Cathedral lecturer — Dr. Marcus Benjamin.

Cathedral Chapter—A. B. Houghton, George Wharton Pepper, Dr. W. C. Rives, Col. R. V. Fleming and W. R. Castle.

With the Rev. Albert H. Lucas, headmaster of St. Albans' the National Cathedral School for Boys, as marshal, next came the honorary canons of the cathedral and the cathedral clergy.

The honorary canons were the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, the Rev. C. T. Warner and the Rev. George F. Dudley.

Cathedral Clergy.

The cathedral clergy were Canon Joseph Fletcher, Canon Arthur B. Rudd, Canon Anson Phelps Stokes, Chancellor G. Freeland Peter, Canon Precentor W. L. DeVries and the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean.

Canon E. S. Dunlap was the marshal for the bishops in the final group of the procession, consisting of Bishop Lawrence, Bishop Burleson, Bishop Abbott, Bishop Darst, Bishop Jett, Bishop Rhinelander, Bishop Cook, Bishop Mitchell, Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to the Bishop of Washington, and Bishop Freeman.

The service, which consisted of the celebration of the Holy Communion, took place in the sanctuary at the historic Jerusalem altar which was given to the cathedral by all the dioceses of the Episcopal church and was built of stones from the quarry which supplied the material for Solomon's Temple. The Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, who has been a member of the cathedral clergy for nearly 30 years under three Bishops of Wasington, was the celebrant at the service, assisted by the Rev. W. L. DeVries, precentor, as gospeller, and by the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, chancellor, as epistoler.

The service and sermon were broadcast over a Nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

Following the service the annual meeting of the National Cathedral Association, composed of 15,000 persons from every State of the Union, who make annual contributions to the building of the cathedral, was held in Whitby Hall, a building of the National Cathedral School for Girls.

At the second service of the day held in the choir and sanctuary an equally large congregation was present and choral evensong was sung. The service was arranged for the members of the National Cathedral Association which held its annual meeting in the cathedral close yesterday.

PASTORS VISIT COAL MINES IN KENTUCKY

Four New York Clergymen Investigate Area Whence Students Were Ejected.

Pineville, Ky., May 5 (A.P.).—Conditions in the southeastern Kentucky coal fields, whence New York and Arkansas students recently were ejected on attempted investigations, were quietly viewed and studied today by four New York clergymen.

The clergymen are members of a group of 21 churchmen who signed a petition calling for a congressional investigation of charges of lawlessness and violation of civil liberties in Bell and Harlan Counties. They are the Rev. Reinhold Niebuhr, C. Rankin Barnes, William B. Spofford and Cameron Hall. They visited Southern Mining Co., at Insull, Ky., 23 miles east of here.

Hastily View Mine.

There the ministers, bare headed and in shirt sleeves because of the hot sun, hastily viewed the mine, went into the dust-filled tipple, but declined an invitation to visit miners' homes or take a ride up the mountain on an incline.

The visitors were taken on a trip through Bell and Harlan Counties as guests of Mayor J. M. Brooks and Pineville and Middlesboro pastors.

Returning to Pineville, the churchmen declined to comment on conditions as found in their investigation so far.

"Any statement at this time would be prejudging the case," Mr. Niebuhr said. All, however, commended the hospitality of Pineville officials and citizens.

Visit Welfare League.

They visited the offices of the Pineville Welfare League and the Red Cross, where relief was being distributed to several score miners and their wives. They also interviewed W. J. Stone and J. H. Taylor, Pineville attorneys, who represent National Miners Union organizers charged with criminal syndicalism.

The New York clergymen plan to return to New York Friday. Their purpose here, as announced, is to determine whether or not a thoroughgoing study should be made of the area by the Senate or other organizations such as the Federal Council of Churches.

Fascisti of America Will Hold Meeting

American Fascisti, Order of Black Shirts, will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Knights of Pythias Temple, 1012 Ninth street northwest.

The Rev. C. G. Epps, Baptist evangelist, will give an address against communism and atheism. He also will give his version of how communism and atheism are taught in the schools, colleges and churches. Col. J. S. Nunnally and Holt Gewinner, adjutant general of the Fascisti, will speak on the present bills pending before Congress and the effect their passage would have on the American people.

ARGENTINA IS URGED TO RENEW RED TRADE

"Deplorable Effects" Cited on Dropping of Soviet Commerce.

Buenos Aires, May 5 (A.P.).—Argentina, which last fall raided and expelled the Iuyamtorg, South American trade organization of Soviet Russia, was asked today to resume trade relations with the Soviets for the benefit of its own trade.

Augusto Bunge, Independent Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, introduced a bill last night for a renewal of trade relations. The discontinuation of commerce with Russia, he said, had had "deplorable effects" on Argentine economy.

The Iuyamtorg was expelled under the former provisional government of the late Jose F. Uriburu.

Senor Bunge cited the large quantities of hides the Iuyamtorg bought and the subsequent improvement in prices. Until 1927, he added, the only buyers of Argentine hides were Americans, who resold them to Russia at a 10 per cent profit.

He also referred to the offer of the Soviets to sell gasoline and oil at low prices, involving a huge trade. This offer was annulled by the expulsion of the Iuyamtorg, he said, and the market was left in the hands of the Standard Oil Co.

The bill was sent to the committee.

Peru's Gold Outflow Stopped.

Lima, Peru, May 5 (U.P.).—The unusual outflow of gold from Peru which was increased over the week-end by rumors that the Peruvian monetary unit, the sol, would be declared incontrovertible has been stopped, the newspaper El Comercio stated today. The Central Reserve Bank, the newspaper declared, bought $130,000 in United States money between Saturday and Monday afternoon and sold only $6,000. Yesterday the bank bought only $1,000 and sold nothing.

Work on Dam May Halt.

Balboa, Canal Zone, May 5 (U.P.).—The Army appropriations bill, if passed, may necessitate a halt on construction of Madden Dam in the Canal Zone, Gov. Harry Burgess said today. The reduced appropriations for the zone may make this necessary, he said, despite the Government's theory that additional funds for the dam can come from reserve funds of the Panama Railroad. Burgess said he did not know of any way in which this reserve could be so used legally.

U. S. Imperialism Denounced.

Santiago, Chile, May 5 (U.P.).—A resolution denouncing United States imperialism in Mexico, Central America and the Antilles was adopted today by the Latin-American Workers Council. The resolution urged that the Spanish-speaking nations of the Western Hemisphere band together to halt the United States "dollar policy."

Graf Zeppelin Arrives.

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 5 (U.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin was moored here at 5:30 this morning, concluding a commercial flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany.

BORAH ATTACKS UNEQUAL WORLD GOLD DISTRIBUTION

ernment to take the lead in an international conference looking to the restoration of silver.

He warned that Rome did not fall from a lack of wealth, but because of a "defect" in its administration.

Turning to reparations, Borah clapped his hands for emphasis and warned they would "destroy Europe" unless they are settled.

"I venture this opinion," he said, "that unless armaments are reduced so that burden is lifted, unless reparations are settled so that Europe can start on economic recovery and unless silver is restored to the place it occupied prior to 1925, to restore to some extent the purchasing power of one-half the world, there will not be any ready return to prosperity."

The Idaho senator began with a statement that "when a man is lying on his bed with a broken leg and gangrene is setting in, he needs a doctor."

Then turning to the Geneva conference, he said it is now generally believed that it "will not accomplish anything of great moment in the way of reducing armaments."

Asserting that the leading nations are now devoting 75 per cent of their budget to wars, past and present, Borah said:

"I do not know or anything so calculated to discourage investors as the knowledge that the burden of armaments is not to be lifted, but increased.

"We must not be unmindful of the fact that the masses everywhere, including our own country, are becoming restless.

"We do not accomplish things generally in this country by revolution, but there can be no doubt of a general feeling among the peoples that the governments are not meeting the task before them."

Sees Failure at Lausanne.

Predicting failure of the Lausanne conference, Borah said:

"It must be apparent to all that unless those who hold in their hands the reins of power, who represent government in Europe, can grapple with the problems and work to a common solution, the conditions in Europe will be beyond the power of human language to express."

Of the monetary problem, Borah said the United States and France have about 70 per cent of the world's gold, adding:

"I don't know how to pay the gold indebtedness of the world so long as the gold is held by two nations.

"Debts must be paid either in gold, in kind, or in services.

"While I am a believer in the protective tariff, it is obvious that our tariff will not permit payment in kind. There is no opportunity to render payment by services."

"We are up against an impossible situation unless there can be a large supply of money," Borah continued.

He then called attention to England's departure from the gold standard six months ago today.

"Dire prophecies were heard before that occurred," he added. 'It is the only bright spot today on the horizon. That great nation which was committed to the gold standard since 1849 departed from it and it is the only nation today that seems to be on the road to recovery.

"All of that seems proof of the fact to me that there must be some relief from this gold mentality."

Borah asserted that half the world is accustomed to silver and does not use gold, have a banking system or employ checks. He said monetary difficulties began in 1925 when an effort was started to put silver countries on the gold standard.

The result had been a flow of gold into France and the United States, he said, in the midst of which there was "an effort to deprive one-half of the human family of the money to which it had been committed for 3,000 years."

"I can not understand," he continued, "why it would be unsafe or unsound to restore conditions as they were before 1925. It would not attack the gold standard.

"We have vast wealth, but Rome had as much wealth when it fell as when it was at the height of its power. It was not poverty that caused her fall. It was a defect in the administration of wealth.

"How are you going to restore prosperity to the people of the United States, the Orient or the world generally, on the monetary base we are now using?"

Hits Unsound Policies.

Borah said in this country alone the total indebtedness was $140,000,000,000, nearly 90 per cent of which is payable in gold and contracted prior to 1929. Based on commodity prices it is now nearly double what it was, he added.

"We are always reminded," he continued, "that our national wealth is $400,000,000,000. The fact that we have this national wealth is proof positive that the policies under which the national wealth is being administered are unsound."

Recalling the Senate's adoption of a resolution requesting President Hoover to call an international silver conference, Borah said, "the United States has made no real sincere effort to bring about an international conference on the subject."

"And that's the trouble of the situation," he roared. "The timidity of governments to take hold of the question, which is sinking the people into utter degradation."

House Leader Approves Paying Debts in Silver

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Somers of the House committee studying silver has concluded conditions would improve if foreign nations were granted limited privilege to pay their debts to this countrty in that metal.

The New Yorker proposed yesterday in a resolution to let the President accept before July 1, 1936, silver payments at the rate of 1½ fine ounces for each dollar owed.

The silver received by the United States would be coined into dollars and silver certificates issued against them.

J. M. Carson May Defend Aviator in Florida Trial

Miami, Fla., May 5 (A.P.).—A prominent Florida attorney gave promise today that he would consider defending Capt. W. N. Lancaster, noted British flier, who is imprisoned here on a charge of murdering Haden Clarke, fiance of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, the Australian aviatrix.

Mrs. Keith-Miller had a long conference with James M. Carson, long prominent in legal circles and politics of South Florida, and in the end he said he would give serious consideration to her entreaties that he become defense counsel for her flying partner of five years.

MEETING ON JUSTICE ENDS WITH BANQUET

Message From Secretary Doak Is Read; Ruth Bryan Owen Speaks.

By JAMES WALDO FAWCETT.

The American Conference on Institutions for the Establishment of International Justice closed with a banquet last evening at the Mayflower Hotel. Representative James M. Beck presided and the principal speakers were Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Theodore G. Risley, who brought a message from Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, and Dr. Elon H. Hooker.

Secretary Doak, discussing "The International Phases of Labor," wrote that the welfare of labor had been only recently recognized generally as a world problem of major importance. He reviewed the steps by which students of international affairs have come to vision the labor aspect of the new age of intensified industry, mass production and related problems. He said: "The labor provisions of the Versailles peace treaty as finally adopted, and in large part the influence of American thought, placed the most forcible emphasis possible upon the idea of justice to labor as a basis for international justice."

The influence of differing labor standards in the field of international industrial competition, the actual overlapping of interests between States as regards certain phases of labor activities, and the importance of proper labor standards as a factor in world peace Secretary Doak listed as three points to illustrate the significance of the Versailles principle to the proper conduct of the world's affairs.

Peace Within Is Important.

"Peace between the nations," he said, "is more commonly contingent than we realize upon peace within the nations. No nation can really be in a state of internal peace unless the great body of its laboring population has reasonably good living standards and feels that it is getting a square deal, and a nation which is not thus internally at peace is in a state of mind which easily breeds friction with other nations.

"In spite of the present depression, world-wide in its scope, the United States over a number of years has been able to establish a higher living standard for its workers than probably any other country in the world or in history.

"To abandon it would be not only unfair to labor, it would also be to create a condition of dissatisfaction and unrest which might easily lead to friction with other nations."

Affirms Her Faith.

Mrs. Owen affirmed her faith in the possibility of a warless world. She said: "I have faith. I do not think there is any real reason why we should feel discouraged. I believe that if we would only apply to world affairs the idealism of American Government and history we would find the solution of our international problems. I see two signs for hope and courage—the viewpoint of women and the attitude of youth.

"Women are articulate now and have power now as they never had before, and they believe that the diplomats might just as well assemble around a table to settle the differences of nations before as after war. Youth has a new perspective. Our children belong to a generation to say what is in its heart and to build the dreams that youth always has had. I think we ought to try to focus the fine training we give our young people in schools; we ought to try to center it on civics and civic duty."

Dr. Hooker praised American institutions as models for the world.

"If this century," he said, "is to continue one of unsettled conditions and governmental upheavals, then, when the peoples of the earth are tired of it all and realize that force begets force and repression creates opposition, may not the world look to the orderly institutions of freedom in our country for that example of national and international well-being which shall make possible a permanently organized world? May not our wisest contribution lie in the perfection of our own institutions and the fitting of them to a changing world without allowing their fundamental strength to be undermined? * * *"

He advocated withdrawal from Europe. The future of the United States, in trade and commerce, he declared, lies to the West and South. He said we should offer no advice to Europe; offer no money to Europe; cancel no European obligations, public or private, and do all we can to keep an open commercial door in the whole Pacific area.

Edward C. Wynne Speaks.

At the morning session of the conference, Edward C. Wynne, assistant chief of the historical division of the Department of State, spoke on "The Department of State as a Peacemaker." He said in part:

"When Secretary of State Hughes declared in 1922 that 'it should always be remembered that the department which deals with our foreign relations is the department of peace,' one can say that he proclaimed the principle objective of the Department of State, namely, the maintenance of peace.

"In its efforts to achieve this objective the department has taken a leading part in the adoption and the development of certain major policies which are now on the agenda of most of the foreign offices of the States, members of the family of nations. Among these major international policies may be mentioned the promotion of treaties of arbitration and of conciliation, conferences for the limitation of armaments and the general pact for the renunciation of war."

Department's Work Cited.

Mr. Wynne gave a series of instances in which the department has contributed to the maintenance of harmony between nations, and analyzed the day-to-day labor of the department's personnel.

The luncheon meeting at the Hay-Adams House heard Dr. Stephen P. Duggan on "Justice to Foreign Scholars." The migration of scholars, he said, is a phenomenon ages old, but the coming of foreign scholars to the United States is hindered at present by two conditions—the immigration restriction and the legislation prohibiting the employment of foreign scholars in American institutions receiving State aid.

Bogota Theaters Reopen.

Bogota, Colombia, May 5 (U.P.).—Bogota's motion picture theaters reopened today, ending an 18-day strike by the Theater Owners Association to force the municipality to reduce taxes. The owners said they would continue their efforts to have the taxes reduced.

PRINCESS' FLOAT IN APPLE PARADE

125,000 WITNESS HUGE PARADE AT CLOSING OF APPLE FESTIVAL

1755 George Washington constructed Fort Loudoun as a protection for the western frontier town of Winchester against the Indians, Queen Shenandoah and her court rode in triumph over the same thoroughfares where Washington led American colonial troops to war against the Indians and on which the polling places were situated when he was elected a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses.

Following the royal division, the Greenbrier Military School Band, of Lewisburg, W. Va., led a division composed of clubs in Winchester and the Shenandoah Valley whose special purpose was the portrayal of the beauty of apple blossoms.

A third division depicted the continuance of the military spirit in modern times, which was exemplified by George Washington as a protection for American independence. Headed by the drum and bugle corps of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, battalions of cadets filed by in full dress, including representatives from Alexandria High School, Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal; Handley High School, Winchester; Shenandoah Valley Academy, this city; Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, and Washington-Lee High School, Clarendon, Va.

Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the Washington National Bicentennial, arrived here to view today's parade, and festival officials presented a full division honoring the noted American.

Other Features.

Beginning with a prelude depicting the Indian transportation of the Shenandoah Valley, local civic clubs portrayed the entrance of Alexander Spottswood and his "Knights of the Golden Horseshoe" into the Shenandoah Valley, which was in turn followed by a representation of George Washington, the youthful surveyor, employed by Thomas, Lord Fairfax, to survey his vast domains. Fort Loudoun Chapter, Daughters of the American Revoution, this city, sponsored this feature.

Washington was also portrayed as a colonial militiaman from whom the people of Winchester were begging protection against the Indians. The final episode in the life of the patriot was presented by the Girls Athletic Association, who represented Washington's first inauguration as President of the United States.

Numerous industrial and commercial floats completed the line of march, a feature of these exhibits being a depiction by the Valley Marble & Granite Works of the death of "Old Man D. E. Pression" by the City of Winchester, the result of producing an apple blossom fete in spite of world-wide economic depression.

Queen Reviews Parade.

After completing her triumphant march through the city, Queen Shenandoah and her court reviewed the parade in front of the grand stand at Winchester Fair Grounds. With her was Representative Bloom and a group of fete officials, including Director General Richards.

While half of the fete throng of 125,000 people immediately made their exodus from the city after the parade, thousands of visitors gathered on local plazas for band concerts by cadet military and school bands.

Tonight the grand finale of the festival got under way in Shenandoah Valley Academy Gymnasium, when the queen's ball started. Queen Shenandoah IX wore American roses, the special gift of Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, brother-in-law of her mother, who last year crowned Miss Patricia D. Morton, of Winchester, England, as Queen Shenandoah VIII.

In a half dozen other dance halls orchestras blared forth music for apple blossom balls which were scheduled to carry the final round of festivities far into the morning.

Queen Shenandoah IX had planned to take an aerial tour of local apple orchards in the Goodyear dirigible Reliance, but stormy weather conditions prevented that ship from making the trip here from Aberdeen, Md. Instead, she spent the morning strolling through the orchards in full bloom.

Prizes Awarded.

Upward of $1,000 in prizes were offered the participants in today's parade. The winners were:

Artistic floats—First, $150, Lions Club, of Winchester; second, $100, State Teachers College Glee Club, Harrisonburg; third, cup, Northern Virginia Power Co., this city.

Commercial floats—First, cup, Winchester Cold Storage Co.; second, cup, Jersey Packing Co., Bridgeton, N. J.

Boy Scouts of America drum and bugle corps—Cup, Washington County Council Boy Scouts Drum and Bugle Corps, Hagerstown, Md.

HUGE POSTAL LEASE PAYMENTS ARE TOLD

Some of Charges Much More Than Purchase Value, Senators Informed.

(Associated Press.)

Evidence that some of the Government's postal leases had called for payment of sums which totaled several times the purchase value of the property was put yesterday before a Senate committee.

Chairman Blaine of the Senate committee investigating postal leases brought out during the questioning of J. R. McCarl, comptroller general, that the Government had agreed to pay $120,000 annually for twenty years for rental of a commercial station post-office at St. Paul which later was condemned and appraised at $325,254.

McCarl denied he had approved the lease.

Chairman Blaine then turned the questioning to the Quincy station in Chicago.

He said the owners fixed the cost at $700,000, but that a committee appraisal had put the value at $435,000.

McCarl said his office appraised the station at $350,000.

Blaine said the lease was at an annual rental of $125,000, which was reduced to $123,000 in return for making the contract noncancellable.

"It is interesting to note," Blaine added, "that an alleged consideration for elimination of the cancellation clause was an option for the Government to purchase the property at $1,450,000."

McCarl then identified reports made by his office, one of which showed the owners of Station D, Chicago, estimated the value of the property at $60,000 and received an annual rental of $18,000.

The report pointed out this was annually 31 per cent of the value fixed by the owners on their property.

Another report found that the lease of the parcel post station at Cleveland, if applied to the whole building, would yield 25 per cent a year.

McCarl's investigators also found an annual rental netting 16 per cent on the postal service station at Los Angeles, and a rental of $126,000 a year on the $418,000 Arcade station at Los Angeles, which was estimated to yield 27 per cent.

The investigators reported "an unbusinesslike method of securing quarters under the leasing methods" and that the rentals in many cases ranged from 10 per cent to 17 per cent of the property value.

INCOME TAX RATE BOOSTED BY COMMITTEE IN SENATE

law is 3 per cent on the second $4,000 and 5 per cent above $8,000.

The committee increased the 1922 surtax rates. The new schedule begins with 1 per cent at $6,000 and goes on up, as in the 1922 schedule, to 49 per cent on $200,000, thereby increasing 1 per cent each $100,000 to $500,000, an additional 1 per cent on the next $250,000, reaching the maximum of 55 per cent at $1,000,000 or more.

Exemptions allowed were $1,000 for single persons and $2,000 for married persons if their income exceeds $5,000. If it is below an exemption of $2,500 is allowed.

Evidence of the care with which the committee has been voting on the various proposals which it has alternately approved and disapproved and changed was to be found again in the acknowledgment by some of the members that they did not know that the new schedule eliminated the existing 25 per cent allowance on earned incomes.

The new schedule was adopted on motion of Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, after a motion by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, to adopt the 1918 rates with a 65 per cent maximum surtax, was defeated. The Couzens motion was voted down, 12 to 7.

Those voting for the Connally motion were: Republicans, Couzens, Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin; John Thomas, of Idaho; Wesley Jones, of Washington; Democrats, William E. King, of Utah; Walter F. George, of Georgia; David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts; Connally, Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado, and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee.

Would Add $100,000,000.

Those voting against the Connally motion were: Republicans, James E. Watson, of Indiana; David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania; Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire; Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut; Jesse Metcalf, of Rhode Island, and Chairman Reed Smoot, of Utah. Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, was the sole Democrat, voting against the increased income tax rates.

The new schedule, it was estimated, would add $100,000,000 to the revenue to be derived from individual income taxes, bringing the estimated total from that source to something like $250,000,000, or approximately one-fourth of the total revenue it is estimated the bill will raise.

A proposal by Senator Reed to substitute for the special excise taxes in the bill a general manufacturers' sales tax of 1 per cent with food, clothing, medicine and farm machinery exempted, was voted down, 12 to 8. The outcome of the vote had been expected, but Senator Reed found consolation in his defeat because his proposal received a larger number of votes than had been expected and he announced his purpose to take his fight to the floor of the Senate.

Based on House Action.

Those who voted for the sales tax were: Republicans, Smoot, Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Keyes, Bingham and Metcalf; Democrat, Walsh. Those who voted against it were: Republicans, Couzens, La Follette, Thomas and Jones; Democrats, Harrison, King, George, Connally, Gore, Costigan, Hull and Barkley.

"The action of the committee in rejecting the sales tax," Senator Harrison said afterward, "was based largely on the action of the House. It was believed that to put a general sales tax in the bill would be useless and make it impossible of passage. The House has rejected it twice by some 70 votes and from investigation made by some of us there seemed to have been no change in sentiment in the House. To have incorporated it would have caused confusion and delay."

The committee rejected a proposal to increase the tax on tobacco, to impose a tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline and to change again the taxes on automobiles by adopting the Treasury schedule instead of that approved by the House. Senator Jones proposed the higher automobile taxes, but his proposal was beaten, 9 to 4.

At the end of the day there was doubt about the total revenue the bill would raise. Arthur Ballantine, Undersecretary of the Treasury, met with the committee yesterday and this morning Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills is to meet with the committee in a sort of final summing up meeting to see if the bill will provide requisite revenue.

Indicative of the tension under which the bill has been rewritten in the committee were frequent references to taxes every time any matter was discussed about the Capitol.

At present the bill is without benefit of leadership, Senator Walsh said in a statement.

"There are three groups of thought in the committee and in the Senate, representing different points of view," Senator Walsh said.

Make Enumeration.

He enumerated them as follows:

"First, those who think the revenue necessary to balance the budget in addition to income taxes, corporate taxes and gift and estate taxes should come from a widespread distribution of so-called nuisance, admission and luxury taxes. Second, those who favor instead of nuisance and luxury taxes a manufacturers' sales tax, and, third, those who support a combination of tariff duties and luxury taxes.

"At the present time the bill is without any definite leadership. It is becoming apparent that a situation may arise where no tax bill may pass the Senate unless one of these groups assumes leadership. Up to the present time the leadership has been directed by those who sought to draft the bill along the lines of the House bill, which made up the balance of the deficit through nuisance and luxury taxes.

"The action of the Senate finance committee in including tariff duties has shifted the leadership from the first group to the so-called tariff group. It looks to me now as if the fate of the bill depends upon shaping the bill by the tariff protectionist group and that they will have to pick up the necessary votes and assume the leadership.

"In any event, some one of these groups will have to find a leadership backed by a majority of the Senate."

BIG DRIVE LAUNCHED TO MAKE AUTOS SAFE

Motor Vehicle Officials to Seek Abatement of Speed Emphasis.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Motoring in the United States is going to be made safer if the Nation's leading motor vehicle officials have anything to say about it. That they do is indicated in the program looking toward immediate improvement of the highway situation which was adopted yesterday by the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators, meeting here in a two-day convention which will close today.

As a first step in the most aggressive campaign of its kind ever launched, the conference voted unanimously yesterday to go direct to the motor vehicle manufacturers for abatement of the hazard created by excessive emphasis upon the speed and power of passenger cars. Alarmed at the unfavorable "driver psychology" thus developed, the conference voted to appoint a committee to meet with the automobile manufacturers. The study to be undertaken jointly by the two groups will include the whole relationship of car design and construction to traffic safety.

Two agencies of the Federal Government, the United States Bureau of Public Roads and the Bureau of Standards, will be brought prominently into the conference's drive for safety.

Elaborate Traffic Survey.

Another unanimously adopted resolution yesterday requested the former bureau to undertake one of the most elaborate traffic surveys ever conducted. Through it the motor vehicle administrators hope to get accurate data on a number of specific accident factors. Among the subjects which the Government experts are asked to determine are:

The relationship of automobile design and construction to safety when driven by the average operator at high speed.

Effect upon safety of new accessory developments for passenger cars, such as "doughnut" tires.

Brake efficiency, expressed in correct stopping distances, as related to present traffic conditions.

Relationship of traffic lane and intersection capacity to traffic safety.

The effect of the development of free-wheeling as it may be applied to trucks and buses.

Headlight Glare Studied.

As for the Bureau of Standards, the conference will seek to make use of its research data in protecting the motor car owner from ineffective devices to remedy the problem of headlight glare. The bureau has studied a number of such accessory developments, among them caps and shields for headlamps and "dipped bulbs" and has found them generally falling short of the claims made for them, according to the discussion at yesterday's session.

The lighting advisory committee of the conference, as a result of another resolution, will study means of making this and similar information available to the motoring public.

Sixteen of the nineteen States, the District of Columbia and the Province of Ontario, comprising the conference membership, are represented at the meeting here. The sessions are presided over by George R. Wellington, Rhode Island, president of the conference. Harold G. Hoffman, New Jersey motor vehicle commissioner, is secretary.

The conference will come to an official close with this morning's session which will include an address by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads. Delegates will be entertained at noon at a luncheon given by the American Motorists Association and the American Road Builders Association at the Hamilton Hotel, headquarters of the conference. W. A. Van Duzer, director of vehicles and traffic of the District of Columbia, will be host to the visitors this afternoon on a sight-seeing tour of the Capital, which will include a trip over the new Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard.

C. R. DEAN FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

International Lawyer's Rites Will Be Conducted in Glenwood Cemetery.

Funeral services for Charles Ray Dean, prominent international lawyer, who died Wednesday following a long illness, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock from Speare's funeral home, 1823 Connecticut avenue northwest. The Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers at the services will include George R. Kennedy, Dr. William K. Butler, William Herd Hill, Judge W. R. Turner, H. Prescott Gatley, A. Coulter Wells, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan and Dr. W. R. DuBose.

Mr. Dean was born in Chicago in 1857. He came to Washington following his graduation from the University of Illinois and entered the State Department. Mr. Dean attended The Hague Peace Conference and was a member of the Root South American Commission.

Mr. Dean was a member of the Lawyers Club, the University Club, the Chevy Chase Club and Psi Upsilon Fraternity.

Lillian Roth Scott Sues For Divorce in Mexico

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Catherine Roth said today that her daughter, Lillian Roth Scott, vaudeville and radio singer, has instituted suit for a divorce in Mexico from William C. Scott, of Pittsburgh. They were married in April, 1931, and have no children.

The action, which was not contested, was brought on the grounds of incompatibility, Mrs. Roth said. She declared her daughter expects to receive a decree in a week's time.

Man Loses Life in Leap As 'Chutes' Fail to Open

Sacramento, Calif., May 5 (A.P.).—Sergt. Alfred Miller, 25, of the Army Air Corps, plunged 2,500 feet to his death in a practice parachute jump today.

He wore two parachutes, neither of which opened. Army officials said the rip cords had not been pulled.

FIVE IN MASSIE CASE QUIT HAWAII SUNDAY

Massie Transferred; Wife Intimates She Will Not Press Attack Trial.

Honolulu, May 5 (A.P.).—The living victim of Hawaii's most famous episode of crime, Mrs. Thalia Massie, and the four persons who took a life to avenge her honor prepared today to leave the islands forever.

And while they made ready to say "aloha," Clarence Darrow, aged attorney for Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three Navy men, convicted of manslaughter in the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, conferred with Gov. Lawrence M. Judd regarding a full pardon for the quartet.

The convicted society matron and her codefendants, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, were given their freedom yesterday when each was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and their terms were commuted to one hour by the governor. The commutation, however, did not restore their citizenship.

To Make Earnest Plea.

Yesterday it was a question of liberty for the defendants. Today it was the matter of restoration of their citizenship, which they automatically lost when convicted of taking the life of Kahahawai, one of five men accused of participating in a criminal attack upon Mrs. Massie, wife of the naval officer and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue, last September.

"There is no reason in the world," said Darrow, "why a person deserving punishment of no more than an hour should lose his citizenship. They ought to have a full pardon, and I shall urge to the fullest extent before the governor that this should be done."

Mrs. Massie said she and her husband, as well as Mrs. Fortescue, Jones and Lord, would sail for San Francisco Sunday on the liner Malolo. This followed word from Washington that Massie had been transferred to the California city and that orders were expected which would take Jones and Lord, enlisted men, back to the mainland.

The young victim of the brutal attack which led to the killing of the native thus indicated she would not remain here to appear once more against the four remaining men still facing criminal assault charges. Darrow previously had said he would advise her not to go through another ordeal in court.

Only Signed Plea.

Reminded the four convicted persons had signed a petition to the governor asking executive clemency instead of a pardon, Darrow said:

"They wrote that; we didn't. We just signed it. When you are in a hole and somebody offers you something, you don't stop to ask for more, do you?"

By "they" Darrow referred to the office of Territorial Attorney General Harry P. Hewitt, which prepared the petition signed by Mrs. Fortescue and the Navy men. It was made public by the governor immediately after he had commuted their sentences.

Hewitt countered by saying the petition was prepared by his office, but that it was done at the instance of the defense.

With finality Darrow indicated Mrs. Massie would not remain to act as prosecuting witness in the retrial of the four remaining men accused of attacking her—Henry Chang, Horace Ida, David Takai and Ben Ahakeulo. Darrow said he believed Mrs. Massie would be willing to stay if advised, but that he would recommend that she leave.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley indicated late today the four men would not be retried.

Obviously intent upon concluding the Fortescue-Massie slaying case, Secretary Adams yesterday said no disciplinary action would be taken against naval personnel involved and Lieut. Massie was ordered to another station.

NORRIS BOLTS G. O. P. TO BACK ROOSEVELT

ond highest post in the Nation, and that the occupant of this office holds more power than the Vice President. The latter is a presiding officer only, while the Speaker is the head of his party and directs legislation.

Champ Clark in 1912 turned down offers to run with Woodrow Wilson, holding to his Speakership.

Senator Norris previously had expressed a desire to see Mr. Roosevelt nominated, but had withheld his definite statement that he would not support President Hoover for reelection.

The shift of Senator Long, leader of his party in Louisiana, is expected to throw that State's twenty votes to the New Yorker, adding to his dominant total. It is now uninstructed, pending a preconvention caucus, but will vote as a unit.

Senator Long passed through Atlanta late yesterday en route from Washington to his home in New Orleans. In a prepared statement he said the "Roosevelt candidacy is the most probable outlook for results at this time."

His statement in full:

"Yesterday afternoon before leaving Washington I had a long talk over the presidential situation with Senator George W. Norris, the Progressive whose ideals and support are highly respected in all parties and circles.

"Senator Norris has recommended that we of Louisiana support Gov. Roosevelt and he will support Roosevelt as the Democratic nominee against Hoover. Only with such support has the Democratic party a chance to win. Senator Norris sees no other prospective Democratic nominee to whom he would now make such a commitment

"This stand and other developments makes the Roosevelt candidacy the most probable outlook for results at this time

"It looks like Louisiana's delegation will stand for Roosevelt; that is, if the delegates see these matters as I now see them. Some of them have already expressed themselves for Roosevelt. We are bound by the unit rule for the 20 votes.

"I recognize that only through the progressive influence can the Democrats win this fall and that, after winning, it is only with the help of the Progressives that the people can be assured of a Government operating in their interest.

"Up to this time I have committed myself to no candidate, but have from time to time thought well of a number of them. Developments are now such as to make my present course the only one at all possible under the circumstances."

Heflin Is Nominated For Justice of Peace

Clamton, Ala., May 5 (A.P.).—Chilton County Republicans have nominated former United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin for justice of the peace in Beat 4.

The political subdivision, with approximately 200 Republican voters, is entitled to two justices, and J. L. Wilson, of Clamton, was nominated for the other candidacy along with the former Democratic senator.

ROOSEVELT IS FAR AHEAD IN ALABAMA

Black Is Nearing Majority Required in Contest for Senate Nomination.

Montgomery, Ala., May 5 (A.P.).—Senator Hugo L. Black tonight was within striking distance of a majority in his race for renomination as United States senator, with 1,740 of the State's 2,126 ballot boxes tabulated from Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Senator Black, with 79,098 votes, topped his nearest opponent, former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, by slightly more than 29,000, but he was a little more than 4,000 shy of the needed majority to forestall a run-off on June 14. The other three candidates were far behind.

A Roosevelt slate piled up a large majority both in the State at large and in the districts, with delegates pledged to the New York governor far out in front.

In the State at large former Gov. W. W. Brandon, of Tuscaloosa, topped the entire field with 98,198, and if he is chosen chairman of the delegation, his "24 votes for Roosevelt" will open the first roll call in the national Democratic convention in Chicago in June.

A run-off for representative from the Fifth District between Representative W. B. Allgood and Representative Lafayette L. Patterson was certain. Allgood led the four-man field with 191 out of 245 boxes in the district tabulated with 5,786 votes to 4,920 for Patterson. E. Burns Parker, of Heflin, was third with 3,881, and W. M. Rayburn trailed far behind with 1,765.

Shreveport, La., May 5 (A.P.).—Ernest R. Bernstein, vice president and general manager of the Louisiana & Northwest Railroad and one of the leading capitalists of northern Louisiana, died today.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS NOMINATE TWO DRYS

Larrabee Wins by 145 Lead; Ludlow Is Renominated; Woman Wet Is Victor.

Indianapolis, May 5 (A.P.).—Renomination of William H. Larrabee by Democrats of the Eleventh Indiana Congressional District was indicated today by an unofficial tabulation of returns from Tuesday's primary election.

Larrabee, supported by the Indiana Antisaloon League, was given a close race by Willis S. Ellis, of Anderson, who said that if nominated and elected he would vote to change the prohibition laws. The unofficial figures gave Larrabee a margin of only 145 votes. Larrabee's total was 11,470. Ellis had a total of 11,325.

The unofficial tabulation of another contest between a wet and a dry was also completed today. This contest, in the Twelfth District, resulted in renomination of the Democratic incumbent, Louis Ludlow, approved by the Antisaloon League, over Thomas D. McGee, an avowed wet. Ludlow's margin of victory was 3,542 votes. This district includes most of the city of Indianapolis.

A one-plank platform—abolition of the prohibition laws—carried Mrs. Virginia E. Jenckes, Terre Haute widow, into the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Sixth District.

"Get rid of prohibition and you will have a market for your corn," she told farmers. "Get rid of prohibition and reduce your taxes."

On that issue alone, and acting as her own campaign manager and her only campaigner, she polled the largest single vote in the history of Vigo County—sufficient with the support she got from nine other counties to defeat Representative Courtland C. Gillen, of Greencastle, for renomination.

Mrs. Jenckes will oppose the veteran Republican representative, Fred S. Apurnell, of Attica, in the November election.

Kaslov, Gypsy Chief, Sentenced for Robbery

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Steve Kaslov, hailed by some tribes as king of the Gypsies in the United States, was sentenced to a term of 15 to 21 years in Sing Sing Prison today.

Kaslov was convicted last month of robbery in connection with the holdup of Rose McGinnis, daughter-in-law of Tene Bimbo, who has questioned Kaslov's leadership of the Gypsies. It was charged that in the holdup the woman lost ten $100 bills and a necklace of fifteen $20 gold pieces.

HOOVER IS CHEERED BY NEBRASKA G. O. P.

His Record Is Indorsed at Parley; Platform Built on Law Enforcement.

Lincoln, Nebr., May 5 (A.P.).—President Hoover and Senator George W. Norris, insurgent who opposed his election, were indorsed by Nebraska Republicans in State convention here today.

Delegates cheered Hoover's name and the platform praised him for "courageous leadership to maintain American standards of living."

Norris was commended for his lame duck amendment and anti-injunction labor bill, recently enacted.

The convention rode roughshod over an attempt by a minority group of the Omaha delegation to delete reference to prohibition from a law-enforcement plank.

The keynoter, Harry Sackett, Beatrice attorney, urged the party to rally behind Mr. Hoover and to support the State ticket headed by Dwight Griswold, nominee for governor. Sackett also praised Senator Norris.

"The party," he said, "has faith and reliance in the wisdom, the courage and the uprighteousness and the justice of the President. Mr. Hoover has done everything humanly possible to relieve the distressing conditions caused by the World War."

Griswold urged a change in the State's taxation system to permit abandonment of property tax as a source of revenue. He said if elected he would appoint a committee to study the taxation problem and make recommendations for a change.

The platform opposed any action tending to lower standards of living, opposed bond issues or property taxes for highway building, and advocated forceful enforcement of all laws including the prohibition law, and recommended a "reasonable reduction" in the motor vehicle license fees.

6 Leonardtown Holdups Are Laid to 4 Men

Four Baltimore men, accused of holding up six places in Leonardtown yesterday afternoon, were arrested by Maryland State police as they approached a town whose banker said he was afraid they intended to make a clean sweep of all the business places along the road.

Barbecue stands, filling stations and stores along the Leonardtown road reported that four men had held them up in quick succession. Policemen C. C. Serman and J. R. Miller arrested the four men near Great Mills. The prisoners gave their names as John Dollard, 32; Leonard Rapp, 23; Ralph Harris, 17, and Herman Schmidt, 29, all of Baltimore.

G. O. P. Primary Votes Cost County $2.40 Each

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 5.—The Republican primary in Allegany County last Monday, with the registration incident thereto, cost the county more than $6,000, or slightly more than $2.40 a vote, it was announced today. Contests for presidential preference, United States senator, to fill a vacancy in the House of Delegates and for State convention delegates made the primary necessary. There was no Democratic primary.

While the county school authorities cooperated in allowing use of school buildings for polling places to save rental, election officials and voters at many points found them impractical, as school work was interrupted and essential furniture was lacking. In the county 2,527 votes were cast, a small percentage of the Republican registered strength.

Robert B. Kimble, who received the nomination for House of Delegates, will be opposed by Howard P. Loughrie, insurance agent and World War veteran, who has been indorsed by the Democratic organization.

DEMOCRATS REJECT NEBRASKA WET PLAN

Prohibition Referendum Is Defeated in Convention, 486½ to 427½.

Omaha, Nebr., May 5 (A.P.).—Nebraska Democrats, in State convention here today, rejected a platform plank asking for a referendum on prohibition. The vote was 486½ to 427½.

The platform commended Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, to whom the Nebraska delegates have been pledged.

The referendum plank was sponsored by William Ritchie, jr., whom Gov. Charles Bryan defeated in the recent gubernatorial primary. Mr. Ritchie is a cousin of the Governor of Maryland.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Wyoming Governor and now vice chairman of the national committee, charged the Hoover administration with "reckless extravagance," said Farm Board policies have been "wasteful and destructive" and declared many Republicans, "thoroughly disillusioned," are deserting their party.

ROOSEVELT CLAIMS 313 OF DELEGATES

Has Total of 277 Pledged and Instructed Out of 708 Already Named.

Citizens Ask Speed On Market Farm Sheds

A delegation of interested citizens yesterday called on the District Commissioners to urge speed in the erection of sheds at the farmers' market in the Southwest section. The Commissioners also were asked to permit parking on a portion of the property pending completion of the construction.

The Commissioners instructed the delegation to submit its request in writing and indicated favorable action would be taken.

Alma Rubens' Narcotic Orders Shown in Trial

Los Angeles, May 5 (A.P.).—Thirty slips of paper, described by the Government as prescriptions for narcotics supplied the late Alma Rubens by Dr. I. Jesse Citron, Hollywood physician, were introduced as evidence today in Citron's trial on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

The Government charged Dr. Citron prescribed narcotics for the beautiful film star and used the name of the actress' mother and three other women in filling illegal prescriptions.

THE HOUSE REBUKED.

President Hoover has voiced the resentment that every citizen feels at the failure of Congress to meet the emergency confronting the United States in a business-like and courageous manner. Without enmity or undeserved criticism he charges Congress—particularly the House of Representatives—with destroying the confidence of the people and thus retarding recovery from this unprecedented economic convulsion. Every citizen knows that "fear and alarm prevail in the country because of events in Washington which have greatly disturbed the public mind". It is a national disgrace that the President is constrained to bring such conditions to the attention of Congress.

The President's indictment was not a partisan utterance. It falls upon both Republicans and Democrats who have surrendered the national welfare to political influences. If the castigation of the President's message falls with special weight upon the Democratic party, it is because the leadership of that party in the House of Representatives has broken down. Most of the damage that has been done originated in the House. It was the House which vitiated the economy bill, which upset the tax program, which voted extravagant doles to the States for road building and pensions to widows and orphans of veterans. Agitation for inflation of the currency centers in the House. In short, it is the House, which theoretically is under control of the Democrats, which has gone wild. Aside from the ping-pong tactics of the Senate finance committee with the revenue bill, virtually all of the present chaos arises from the lower chamber.

Democratic leaders themselves are saying virtually the same things that President Hoover included in his message. In a radio address last night Representative McDuffie, chairman of the House economy committee, was even more severe with his colleagues than was the President. The economy bill as passed by the House, he said, "was a hollow mockery, a sham and a farce." He too appealed for genuine economy, declaring that the "costs of government must be ruthlessly cut". Democratic leaders recognize the seriousness of the revolt against them, but they are powerless to hold members of the party in line.

President Hoover pleads for reconsideration in a calmer mood. The budget must be balanced to afford a new footing for public confidence. Gold is being exported, the exchange value of the dollar is beginning to sink and Government bonds show the effects of liquidation because of the sophomore performances on Capitol Hill. In the last few weeks Congress has been a liability to business. All of the ballast that was provided by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the credit expansion movements has been washed away by the flood of cheap panaceas that has surged through the House.

Retrenchment in Congress is the demand of the hour. The tax bill is still in a state of flux, and economy has not been achieved. The threat that 50,000 to 100,000 Government employes may be added to the pool of unemployment and destitution because of congressional ineptitude is a disquieting influence. The possibility that uncertainty will be prolonged by a continuance of the present session after the national conventions in June is a menace to business.

Congress ought to devote every ounce of its energy toward the correction of these conditions. The whole country cries out for Congress to cut its way through the chaos it has created and then adjourn.

SOCIALISM AMONG BANKS.

Even before the public has had time to recover from the last blow against confidence administered by the House of Representatives, the Democratic leadership brings forth another measure which sends a shiver down the spine of the whole financial structure. This time the House leaders propose to socialize banks. Representative Steagall's masterpiece awaits only a favorable rule from the "gag" committee before starting on its way through the legislative rapids.

This measure would guarantee bank deposits. A fund of more than $1,000,000,000 would be set up through assessments against member banks in the Federal Reserve system and contributions from the Treasury, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve banks. From this fund the Secretary of the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Currency would be directed to pay in full the deposits in failed national banks within 15 months of their failure.

The potential disaster in this bill may not be fully understood by the public, but it is nevertheless real. Congress would undertake to make good the poor business and frauds of every petty bank with a national charter. The incentive for careful and prudent banking practices would be removed. Bankers would be able to dole out money for any venture with inadequate security, knowing that if they should go to the wall the Government would pay all their debts.

If the Government is to guarantee bank deposits, why should it not guarantee investments in stocks and bonds? The Steagall bill rips the foundation out of the present banking system. It creates a delusion of security for depositors, while opening the door to reckless and negligent banking and possibly widespread fraud. Ultimately the burden of this bureaucratic policy would be transferred to taxpayers.

The effect of the measure upon banks that are now in a precarious condition because of business stagnation should also be considered. This measure would draw funds from all national banks to pay the deposits of defunct institutions, thereby weakening the whole system. Hundreds of small banks might be driven to the brink of receivership by the requirements of this bill.

It seems incomprehensible that such a measure has the approval of the House banking and currency committee. Mr. Steagall's bill is a fit companion for the Goldsborough blunder which the House passed as a gesture toward price stabilization. Together they represent pitiful ignorance of the delicate financial structure underlying all of America's economic activity. Both are pious hopes erected on purely fanciful foundations. In its furious efforts to do something to stem the tide of hard times the House is simply striking out blindly in any direction, regardless of whether the suggestion comes from a statesman or a quack.

Fortunately, the Senate is in a more deliberate mood. Against these silly gestures in the House the Senate probably will set up the much-revised Glass bill, which now represents the best judgment of banking experts. Advocates of the measure might be content to let it wait until more settled times, except that the stampede in the House makes it necessary to erect a bulwark against fanaticism. The Senate would do well to pass the Glass bill as evidence of its continued sobriety in spite of the commotion at the south end of the Capitol. Some action firmly based on common sense is needed to offset the confidence-destroying rampage of the House.

THE "HOOVER DOCTRINE."

Peaceful prevention of war—a powerful sanction without the use of force! Thus in a word Acting Secretary of State Castle characterizes the new principle of nonrecognition of territorial gains secured in violation of the Kellogg pact. Speaking before the American conference on international justice, Mr. Castle reviewed the brief history of this policy, making plain that it is the embodiment of a course of action President Hoover has cherished ever since he has been in office.

The first application of the policy in connection with the Far Eastern trouble was contained in the note dispatched to Japan and China by Secretary Stimson on January 8, notifying them that the United States "does not intend to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement which may be brought about contrary to the covenants and agreements of the pact of Paris."

This position was amplified in the Secretary's letter to Senator Borah, including the following comment: "If a similar decision should be reached and a similar position taken by the other governments of the world, a caveat will be placed upon such action which, we believe, will effectively bar the legality hereafter of any title or right sought to be obtained by pressure or treaty violation."

The new American doctrine was accepted by the League of Nations on March 11, in resolutions which maintained that "considering that the principles governing international relations and the peaceful settlement of disputes between members of the league are in full harmony with the pact of Paris, which is one of the corner stones of the peace organization of the world and under Article 2 of which 'the high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature and whatever origin they may be which may arise among them shall never be sought except by pacific means.'" Proclaiming the binding nature of these principles and provisions the league declared it to be incumbent upon all members "not to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement which may be brought about by means contrary to the covenant of the League of Nations."

Thus within the brief space of two months after its first pronouncement a new measure of international law was generally adopted by the nations of the world. As indicated by Secretary Castle the "Hoover Doctrine" has been welcomed because it accomplishes as nearly as may be humanly possible the purpose of peaceful prevention of war. It should become a keystone of international law.

The new doctrine is highly preferable to proposals for "putting teeth" into the Kellogg pact by adding boycott or embargo provisions. President Hoover's policy is the most important contribution to the machinery of international justice since the Kellogg pact was signed.

RUSSO-JAPANESE TENSION.

As Japan and China finally sign a peace pact at Shanghai disorders increase in Manchuria and hostility is growing between the Japanese and Russian forces on the Siberian border. Japanese writers express the opinion that war with the Soviet is inevitable. The situation has become serious for Japan in various ways, but apparently there is no possibility or intention of retreat. Japan considers Manchuria as vital to her existence, and it is evident that she will risk the displeasure of the world and flout the orders of the League of Nations whenever necessary.

Just as Japan took over the Chinese railways, it is now reported that she is preparing to seize complete control of the Eastern Manchurian line, jointly operated by Chinese and Russians, but largely manned by Russian officials. Japan is charged with having elaborate plans already perfected to eject the Soviet railway officials under allegations of conspiracy. This action, it is claimed, will be followed by a general roundup of directors and managers of all Russian enterprises in Manchuria.

The Soviet government alleges possession of information that the anti-Russian campaign will be preceded by the searching of homes and offices for "evidence" already prepared to implicate Soviet officials in plots of terrorism and designs to blow up the railways. Russian authorities deny the authenticity of these documents, which, they say, are already in the hands of Japanese military leaders.

It is evident that Japan intends to dominate Manchuria for her own exclusive use. Russia, on the other hand, needs and has never abandoned the expectation of having a winter port on the Yellow Sea. There arises an irreconcilable conflict of interests. Japan has found a war with bankrupt, decrepit China most costly. She must realize, too, that a contest with the present forces of Russia will not offer the comparatively easy victory it did the last time. The Soviet appears loath to interrupt her vast economic program, and at the same time lay her European flank open to possible attack from unfriendly nations that might take advantage of a conflict in the East. Yet the Manchurian-Siberian border land contains many of the elements of danger that lead to war. Unless a more conciliatory spirit is developed on both sides constant irritations may readily develop incidents that will sooner or later result in a conflict.

It's a pity that President Hoover did not propose a furlough for congressmen.

The House votes to keep up vocational training for everybody but Congress.

The Congressional Record suffers from chronic appendicitis.

THE GO-GETTER'S DELUSION

From the New Bedford Standard.

One thing the depression has done—it has laid at rest the contention, widely supported a few years ago, that when a man reaches the age of 40 he ought to be laid on the shelf. It is needless to point out the absurdity of asking forced retirement at that age, when so many able-bodied persons from 20 to 40 are undergoing an enforced retirement through lack of jobs.

For that matter, the idea was unsound even when it looked as if it was winning general adoption. Its origin goes away back to a jocular after-dinner remark by Dr. Osler. Nobody took that seriously, however, until the big boom got going prior to the fall of 1929. Under the conditions that existed then, youth found it so easy to make money that it had no difficulty in reaching the conclusion that it knew everything worth knowing.

A writer in the Houghton Line elaborates this thought in a most delightful manner. The great bull market, he says, is miscalled the Coolidge market. Actually, it was a young man's market. "The new economic era was a young man's era. There was no safe or stable place in it for any poor devil much over 30. In those gay days a man over 40 was supposed to have outlived his usefulness in business, finance and industry. Forty-five was the age of senility. The fashion then was to assume that nothing mattered but pep, whatever that may be. I never met any one who knew. * * * In the young man's new economic era, as you may remember, unbridled energy was almost universally accepted as a superior substitute for skill, knowledge, sober judgment and honor—qualities that come to us only after years of labor and hard experience in the work of the world. Mature minds and mature judgment weren't worth a d— in the open markets of the new economic era. And this fact, I should say, explains the inflation, the revolt against honest labor and honest thinking, the October smash, the secondary smash, the jumpings from windows, and the newer drift of the former younger princes of finance to shelter under the roofs of their wives' parents."

There is more in the same vein—some hard digs at youth and an ill-concealed satisfaction in the thought that the youngsters who were clamoring for the doddering old men of 40 to get off the road eventually got their "come-uppance." The writer may be unduly hard on the youngsters; undoubtedly the mature and the supposedly prudent were caught in the mad whirl. All the same, the era of the bull market, viewed in retrospect, emphasizes the need of seasoned judgment, and the fact that man can not live by pep alone; and it has done much to bring into disrepute the idea that there is no place in the working world for those who have passed 40.

It must be somewhat disappointing to Speaker John to find his Golden Gate victory overshadowed by Gov. Frank's loss.

Federal clerks facing pay cuts should kindly be relieved from expressing excessive sympathy with New York bricklayers, striking to retain $20-a-day wages.

Since Roosevelt hasn't half enough votes for a nomination and Smith hasn't one-third enough to stop him, the race may still fairly be considered a free-for-all.

Members of the House who object to the movement for reducing its size should be content, in view of prevailing sentiment, if the word used is not "abolishment." PAUL HUDSON.

Machinery Doing the Work of a Million Men Empties Customers' Pockets.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is a law of diminishing returns that fixes the limit of man's ventures.

It determines the height of an office building. Forty or fifty floors may pay a profit, but as the building climbs higher it reaches a point where many factors combine to make costs greater than possible returns.

It is this law, also, that determines the maximum tax rate. Normally, increased rates mean increased revenues; but there is a point at which the taxpayer rebels and looks about for a way of escape. Any further increase of the rate serves only to encourage evasion and lessen returns.

The same truth holds in the matter of punishment. Since the purpose of punishment is to prevent crime, it is argued that all crime can be prevented if the punishment is made sufficiently severe. But at a certain point this theory breaks down. If the punishment is too severe, juries will not convict. The effort to make punishment too great serves only to make it too little.

In short, there is a point at which all effort reaches its maximum of accomplishment and beyond which it can not go without defeating its own purpose.

America is near that point in the effort to mechanize industry.

The purpose of machinery is to lessen man's labor and multiply his power to produce wealth. So long as it does that and nothing more, it justifies itself and proves a blessing.

But the worth of production depends wholly on the world's power to consume.

There would be no profit or good in producing a million automobiles in a world having only 500 inhabitants. And the same production would be equally unprofitable in a world where only 500 inhabitants were able to afford cars.

It isn't production alone that improves civilization. It is production plus consumption.

And since machines can not consume, and the men displaced by them are deprived of their income and made incapable of consuming anything, there is a point at which the very efficiency of machinery defeats its purpose and makes it a detriment.

Civilization is facing a new era.

When machinery displaces all labor, the owners of the machines will be taxed to provide a dole for the millions deprived of their jobs.

The only alternative is to limit machine production and thus provide work for all men, so that in the final adjustment the worker's ability to consume will match the machine's ability to produce.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Smith Takes Connecticut.

Los Angeles Times.

Another overwhelming defeat of Gov. Roosevelt on his home ground is registered in the Connecticut vote, where most of the delegates instructed to the State convention are instructed for Smith. Since Connecticut, though it has important industries and interests of its own, is, residentially speaking, largely a suburb of New York, the result lends emphasis to the opinion that those who know Roosevelt best are not, to put it mildly, his most enthusiastic admirers.

These Smith victories are probably accurately regarded as anti-Roosevelt rather than pro-Smith. That Smith would be pleased with another nomination is likely enough, but that he has any real hope of obtaining it is not likely. He has been too long in politics to have illusions, and knows the breadth and the depth of the opposition to him. The Smith candidacy, even if he does not so regard it in his heart, is a mask to obtain a block of delegates for trading purposes, and to stop Roosevelt. It begins to look as if the effort might be successful.

The Tax Issue.

Judge Wilkerson's Appointment.

Atlanta Constitution.

The Senate should confirm without delay the nomination of Federal Judge Wilkerson, of Chicago, to the Circuit Court. To do otherwise would strengthen the hold of gangsterism on the whole country and further impede the courts in their effort to mete out justice to those who have for so long been openly flaunting the law.

For many years Judge Wilkerson has been the particular nemesis of Chicago's gansters. He has struck many telling blows at gang rule, and it is chiefly due to his courage and vigor that Capone came to the end of his vice reign with the imposition of a stiff jail sentence, now confirmed by the Supreme Court.

It is unthinkable that the Senate should refuse to give an able and fearless judge a richly deserved promotion.

If he should fail of confirmation, gangland would be surer of its hold on Chicago and the balance of the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Harriman Believes Goldsborough Inflation Bill Ignores Facts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Goldsborough bill, passed by the House, charging the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury with the duty of fixing the dollar's purchasing power at its average between 1921 and 1929, although expressing a widespread popular desire, ignores two essential facts.

The first fact is that gold prices in any country are not under the control of the government of that country. If gold prices are lifted above the world level, the effect is to drive out gold, and if a sufficient amount of gold is driven out of the country, the gold standard is threatened.

The second fact is that gold prices in this country, although they have fallen greatly, are still above the world level, with the result that gold has been and still is being exported.

It is assumed that those who voted for the Goldsborough bill wished to maintain the gold standard, but failed to distinguish between the power of a government to raise paper prices and its power to raise gold prices.

Mr. Lyle Has Joy in Pinchot Defeat and Al Smith Threat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Though I am one of the little fellows that the Progressives claim to favor in their fruitless efforts to find some sensible plan to end this depression, I am greatly pleased to hear of the defeat of Pinchotism in Pennsylvania, and I hope that the Brookharts, La Follettes and Norrises in other States will meet the same fate at the hands of the voters this year or whenever they come up for reelection.

If Al Smith should cause a split in the Democratic ranks my joy would be complete, for that would mean certain victory for the conservative element of the Republican party, led by President Hoover, restoring confidence in the minds of the financial and business leaders of the country. Our business men now are actuated by the fear of a Democratic victory, which would give us a Democratic administration trying to restore prosperity by lowering the tariff and enacting other legislation equally stupid. E. D. LYLE.

Mr. Weber Discusses Nepotism of Senator Whose Daughter-in-Law Is "Assistant Clerk."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest the article in The Post about a senator whose daughter-in-law is carried on the Government pay roll as "assistant clerk" to one of the senator's own committees, although she does not even reside in Washington. This same senator has a son who is, or was, on the pay roll as a "parliamentarian." And this is the very same senator who wrote a letter to one of his constituents, a Federal employe here in Washington, stating that civil service employes should be glad to take a cut in salary or to share their jobs on a part-time basis with others, and that he, for one, was going to see that they did it. HARRY WEBER.

Reader Pleads for Rural Carriers and Farmers They Serve.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a rural carrier and have been for the past 27 years. This branch of the Postoffice is the greatest and most useful of them all. I have seen this branch grow from its infancy to the lofty and dignified place where it now stands.

If there is any class of people who deserve a good mail service, it is the farmers and their families. Will the farmers sit idly by and let their congressmen lower the standard of their mail service by cutting down the salary of the carriers or placing this high-class service on a contract basis? This would be a disgrace to the Postoffice Department.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

PIONEERS.

The pioneers of early days were men of courage rare.
They battled long with hardship and with suffering and care.
They felled the forest for their wood, and plowed the land for grain.
From day to day and week by week
they coped with hurt and pain;
But looking back across the stretch of life which we have known,
I'd say the grit of pioneers we, too, have often shown.

We parents of this modern age have lived as pioneers.
With mental suffering and pain we've built these better years.
We pioneered the telephone. In days when that began
On messages of love and haste the owner of it ran.
His home became a bureau for his neighborhood daily news,
And strangers came from blocks away his telephone to use.

We pioneered the phonograph! The first recorded speech
Brought to our tender eardrums nothing sweeter than a screech.
"The ravings of McCullough" which commenced: "They say I'm mad!"
Was a record filled with horror which all gramophoners had.
We were a brave and patient race until the ills were cured;
With all the pluck of pioneers great tortures we endured.

We pioneered the motor car! Oft in the evening gloam
Brave men were seen along the road pushing their cars toward home.
We motored into mire and mud! Ours was the faith to go
When would the engine last the day no living man could know.
So thinking of the horrors borne and braved along the years,
There isn't any doubt at all that we've been pioneers.

POLICE SAY MEANS NOT IN KIDNAP GANG

Lindbergh, Absent More Than Week, Is Still Away on Secret Trip.

Hopewell, N. J., May 5 (A.P.).—The arrest of Gaston B. Means in Washington, D. C., elicited from New Jersey State police tonight a statement that Means had no direct connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf said he had been in contact with Federal authorities in Washington and that he found that there is nothing that definitely connects Means with the crime. The Department of Justice has assured him, he said, of quick communication in case anything develops relative to the investigation.

Earlier, a high official said Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been absent from his home for more than a week and was still away on his mysterious mission. At least once during the week, the official added, he made a trip somewhere near Norfolk, Va., home of three intermediaries in the case.

Contacts Believed Made.

While an air of mystery pervaded the Lindbergh estate, the official said he believed the colonel had been consistently establishing contact with the kidnapers of his son.

He also said followers of Al Capone had been working feverishly, especially around New York, in their efforts to find the missing child since it became certain their leader had to serve his penitentiary sentence. They have been represented as hoping that if they were to find the baby, public sentiment would induce Federal officials to lighten Capone's prison term.

Norfolk, Va., May 5 (A.P.).—Bound presumably for some secret rendezvous with the kidnapers or their representatives, John Hughes Curtis was engaged tonight in still another trip by water to seek the recovery of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr.

Are Still Hopeful.

The cruise was arranged by the Norfolk negotiator after returning from another trip aboard the yacht Marcon last night. Results of the repeated trips continued tonight to be closely guarded in secrecy. The Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, associated with Mr. Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, as the intermediaries, would comment no further than to say, "We are still hoping for the best."

The Ledger-Dispatch today said it learned that the Marcon was seen yesterday afternoon on the inland waterway about 12 miles from Norfolk, and that an unidentified yacht made a contact, later leaving to go southward toward Currituck Sound, North Carolina. The paper said it was told by an observer that one of the passengers was recognized as Col. Lindbergh.

Two planes left the naval air station this afternoon shortly after the Marcon sailed.

Memphis Man Loses $125 to Holdup Trio

Three men last night held up and robbed Charles J. Crocker, of Memphis, Tenn., while he was walking on D street northwest between North Capitol street and New Jersey avenue. They escaped with $125.

Mr. Crocker, who is stopping at the Annapolis Hotel, said the three men drove up beside him in a light sedan and that two of them got out. The other man remained at the wheel of the car. One of the men who had gotten out of the car produced a pistol and forced him to hand over his cash.

GASTON B. MEANS JAILED

wise composed prisoner. He grinned and greeted reporters.

"I wasn't surprised," he said. "I had been told they were discussing taking me."

He kept his big black hat on until the arraignment began. He smoked continuously, finally offering to buy cigarettes for anybody who would go get them. He grinned agreeably at questions, but once, asked whether he had been negotiating in the Lindbergh case, he said: "The warrant answers that."

Whisked to the deputy marshal's office, where he failed to make bond, Means paced the floor and announced he is writing another book.

The former Justice Department investigator was escorted to the jail after professional bondsmen declined to go his bail. Just before he started to jail he was granted permission to telephone his wife.

When he got the connection, he said, "It looks like I've got to go to jail—keep Frank at home because he can drive you to the jail."

Aparently, Mrs. Means said some one called there this afternon, for, after a pause, Means asked who they were. Another pause, and he said: "Don't you move in connection with any matters until you see me. Keep in touch."

Questioned later, Means said he could not disclose whether he had been working on the Lindbergh case, as that would "violate a confidence."

"A good many people have said a good many things about me," he added, "but you will always notice I always stand pat and I never break a confidence until they do—then I do, quick."

Means was released from the Atlanta Penitentiary July 19, 1928, after serving terms for conviction in New York of prohibition conspiracy and of attempted bribery in connection with the operations of the Craeger Glass Casket Co.

After his release he published a book, "The Strange Death of President Harding," which caused a furore. The book recently was repudiated by a coauthor.

Means first gained notoriety as an alleged confidential agent of Count von Bernstoff, German Ambassador, and Capt. Boy-Ed, of the German secret service, prior to America's entrance in the World War. In 1917 he was indicted in Salisbury, N. C., for the murder of Mrs. Maude A. King, widow of a Chicago philanthropist, whom Means had been employed by relatives to "investigate." He was acquitted.

In 1921, he became a special agent of the Department of Justice and later a confidential agent to the late William J. Burns, then with the department.

Means was a prominent witness in the Senate investigation of the administration of Harry M. Daugherty as Attorney General during the Presidency of Warren G. Harding.

In her statement, Mrs. McLean said she conferred with Capt. Emory S. Land, attached to the Navy Department here and a cousin of Lindbergh, and the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and "arranged to place the ransom money in the custody of an intermediary whom I employed to make the ransom payment in case the Lindbergh baby were found." She added:

"My plan was carried out without the knowledge of my closest friends and without the knowledge of my attorneys. When it became evident that no clew of any value had been discovered, I realized that the plan had failed.

"With respect to Gaston B. Means, who acted as intermediary, that is a matter which is now in the hands of the authorities."

Capt. Land said in a statement, also issued through Fox, that, after a conference with Mrs. McLean early in March, he visited Col. Lindbergh and Col. Henry Breckenridge, the flier's personal attorney, and "explained to them that Mrs. McLean had offered to help" in the search.

"Col. Lindbergh and Col. Breckenridge," the statement added, "both gave their approval and authorized me so to inform Mrs. McLean. This I promptly did early in March."

Means was arrested as he was driving from his home in Chevy Chase, Md., to Washington. Department of Justice agents received the warrant Wednesday and camped in the vicinity of the house. When he left the house they followed and arrested him inside the District of Columbia to avoid possible extradition proceedings.

Father Hurney told newspapermen he had witnessed the transfer of money at Mrs. McLean's home. He issued the following statement:

"On Sunday, March 6, 1932, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean told me that she was endeavoring to obtain the return of Col. Lindbergh's baby and that the intermediary engaged by her had brought a message from the alleged kidnapers demanding that a Catholic priest be brought into the case for their protection.

"This appeared to me as reasonable and I agreed willingly to associate myself with Mrs. McLean in her laudable effort to secure the return of the infant. She told me that the intermediary was Gaston Means.

"I knew in a general way of the unfavorable light in which he had appeared in the public press, but I felt that perhaps in this instance he was acting in earnest, a feeling that was strengthened when he told me that if he could accomplish the return of this baby it would mean the wiping out largely of his past, and that he would begin life anew with a very favorable prospect of succeeding in business as an investigator.

"All through this case I worked with Mrs. McLean and Capt. Land, of the Navy Department. I am very sorry at the unhappy conclusion of the affair, but I have no regret that I aided to the best of my ability Mrs. McLean in her very worthy endeavor to restore the child to its grieving mother."

Mr. Fox said that shortly after the kidnaping Mrs. McLean went to Means and asked him if he would aid in recovering the baby. He told her, the attorney said, he was sure he could because he felt certain he knew the identity of the kidnapers.

Means was represented as having explained that a former cellmate at Atlanta had made him a proposition prior to the kidnaping to join in such an abduction plot, but he had refused. Means, Fox added, later said he had been in touch with this man and had verified he was one of the kidnapers.

Mrs. McLean, the attorney continued, went to the president of a Washington bank and obtained $100,000 in $100 and $50 bills which she turned over to Means at her home in the presence of Father Hurney.

Was Own Money.

A source close to Mrs. McLean said last night the money involved was her own, and that she had no arrangements with Lindbergh regarding the money. She is prepared to testify either at a hearing before the United States Commissioner or a grand jury.

The story of Mrs. McLean's activities in the case was related by the same source as follows:

That she turned over the $100,000 on March 7, at 2020 Massachusetts avenue, previously having become interested in the kidnaping and communicated with Means to ask him what he knew about it.

He told her he happened to know who had kidnaped the baby, because some time before he had met in a New York speakeasy a man who had been with him in Atlanta and this man had suggested that Means go in with him in kidnaping a prominent baby. Means also told Mrs. McLean the kidnapers were demanding $100,000 and because of this story she gave him the money, after which he ostensibly was negotiating.

Went to South Carolina.

In mid-March Mrs. McLean, with a maid, chauffeur, butler and a nurse, Miss Elizabeth Nelson, went to an Aiken, S. C., cottage occupied by her son, Edward McLean, jr. There Means joined them and said he was in contact with the kidnapers, later saying the infant was in Mexico.

After a week or more, Means and Miss Nelson went to El Paso at his suggestion, where Mrs. McLean joined them subsequently. They stayed at a large hotel. He is said to have told of more contacts with the kidnapers and representatives of them, and of quarrels.

It was there, according to this version, that Mrs. McLean began to fear she was being duped, and she left.

It was in mid-April that Means is said to have been asked by Mrs. McLean to return the money. He promised to do so, saying it was at Concord, N. C., his former home. He was to have been in Washington with it on April 21.

Gave Money to "No. 11."

That day Father Hurney went to his house, and Means is said to have informed him that he started driving to Washington from Concord but near Alexandria, Va., a man signaled him to halt.

Mrs. McLean and he are supposed to have used the number "11" as a code for recognition. The man, as the account goes, is said by Means to have given that number, whereupon he turned the money over to him.

After hearing of this explanation, Mrs. McLean took her case to the Justice Department, and department investigators since have been working on the case.

Police Guard Home of Rich Ohioan After Death Note

$25,000 Is Demanded of Ellsworth H. Augustus Under Penalty of Violence to Family; Phone Call Follows Extortion Letter.

Cleveland, May 5 (A.P.).—Guards patrolled the estate of Ellsworth H. Augustus, wealthy real estate man and amateur golfer, tonight as an answer to extortionists who have threatened death to the Augustus family.

Augustus revealed today that he received a note last Monday demanding $25,000 under penalty of death. The threats were repeated by telephone yesterday after he failed to pay the money.

Private detectives have been guarding Augustus as he goes to work, guards have been stationed at his 80-acre estate in exclusive White Heights Village and other men have been detailed to the two of his three small children who attend school.

The extortionists directed Augustus to leave $25,000 in small bills at a fence post at his estate between midnight and 1 a. m. Tuesday, but they failed to appear. The note, written in a schoolboy's hand on a paper bag, said "it will be bad for your whole home" if he refused to pay. It was signed "poor families."

The note was followed by a telephone call to Augustus' secretary yesterday in which a man, speaking in dialect, ordered a secretary: "Tell Mr. Augustus he didn't keep his word."

"He'll get it for this—tell him that. If that isn't enough, we'll get his children, too."

A half dozen detectives were on duty at the Augustus home today, turning away all strangers. Two children, Daneen, 9, and Albert Anthony 2d, 7, were accompanied to school by guards.

Two Panamans Absolved.

Panama City, May 5 (A.P.).—The Supreme Court of Panama today absolved former presidents Rodolfo Chiari and Florencio Harmodio Arosemena of all charges in connection with their administrations, which preceded the revolution of January 2, 1931.

JAPANESE TROOPS READY TO EVACUATE

Action Ordered at Once After Armistice Is Signed at Two Sickbeds.

Shanghai, May 5 (A.P.).—The Japanese high command announced tonight that evacuation of the troops that fought the battle of Shanghai already had been ordered in accordance with the terms of a formal armistice signed earlier in the day by emissaries of the Chinese and Japanese governments.

The signing of the truce was a most unusual procedure. It was necessary to carry the document to two sickbeds.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, affixed his signature in the hospital where he has been a patient since the sanguinary Hongkew bombing last week—and a short time after he had written his name he was taken to an operating room where one of his legs was amputated.

Quo Tai-Chai, the Chinese representative, signed in his home, where he is recuperating from wounds inflicted by a group of students who attacked him Tuesday because they thought he was going to approve a peace in which China would be the loser.

The closest thing to a ceremony such as usually marks the signing of such an international agreement took place at the British consulate, where Sir Miles W. Lampson, British Minister to China and leader among the peace negotiators, and the representatives of other neutral parties, affixed their signatures.

But there was no great formality—just as there was no formality in the conflict that started here last January.

Life and property loss in that conflict was heavy, but there never was a "war" in the formal sense of international law.

An unofficial version of the armistice indicated that both the Japanese and Chinese had compromised. Japan apparently avoided any definite commitment concerning the date for completing evacuation, although it was understood that the Japanese negotiators undertook to get their troops out within a month.

The Chinese succeeded in winning their demand that the Japanese retire from their present positions into the International Settlement, although certain exceptions were made, notably in regard to Hongkong and Woosung.

Woman Is Duped Into "Deed" Fraud

Man Collects $15 in Fees for Lawyer and Leaves "Blank" in Envelope.

The official-looking envelope which was to have brought Miss Minnie Jordan, of 1775 Lanier place northwest, $3,000, yielded only a blank piece of cardboard when she opened it yesterday morning. Then she started police searching for the man who charged her "fees" to obtain the money under a "deed of trust."

Miss Jordan told police a middle-aged man appeared at the house Tuesday and told her he was a son of the former owner of her house, now deceased. As executor of the estate, he said, he held a deed which entitled the present owner to $3,000.

He was anxious to close the affairs of the estate and wanted to turn the $3,000 over to Miss Jordan, the man told her. However, it was necessary to have papers signed and to bring lawyers in to make the contract binding and he asked Miss Jordan for $15 fees. Then he gave her the envelope with instructions not to open it until he returned with a lawyer. When he failed to come back Miss Jordan ripped open the envelope yesterday and found only the blank cardboard inside.

Many Film Stars Broke As Jest of Capricious Fate

By JOHN J. DALY

IN MAKING a plea for poor, broken down movie stars, the chairman of the relief committee said: "If I were to tell you the names of these people, now penniless, you would indeed be surprised. Once their names glittered in electric lights, their work hailed as the greatest achievement and contribution to the screen. Now they are forgotten and in need of aid."

Alas, poor Yorick, I knew him well. Their names were in electric lights—and they were stars.

Then, suddenly, some mischievous god of fate, stalking one night behind the switchboard, pulled a lever and the lights went out.

Such, of course, is fame.

Their work—and it is work—was hailed as the greatest achievement of the cinema world—and now, alas, they are out of work. There is no more work to be done. They are out, so to speak, on the bricks. They have gone the way of the world, the mad, dashing, relentless world that rolls on and on and on, and stops not even for its stars to catch up with it.

WELL, in the long chase down the corridors of time, the dethroned kings and queens of Hollywood will find Valhalla a place probably more serene than all their glorious existence on this mundane sphere, where a fickle public runs first after one novelty and then after another. That "ole davil" Public. It leaves even the movie stars of yesterday in the lurch.

The thing to do is to look at it all objectively. There is plenty of work to be done by movie stars and others, even though there is not always a spotlight shining upon the work.

It may be very fine to have names up in electric lights, but with all the Edison power behind them electric lights go out—and the greater the candlepower while they are shining the vaster and deeper the darkness that settles immediately after.

Friendship House Plans Mothers' Day Program

Members of the Girls Club at Friendship House, 326 Virginia avenue southeast, will celebrate Mothers' Day Sunday by entertaining their mothers at a musical tea given at the Settlement House. Miss Mary Apple, well-known Washington contralto, will sing several selections and the various clubs will also give musical numbers.

There will be an "Around the World Tour," sponsored by the Girl Reserves Club at Friendship House Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at which time the guests will visit the various "countries," returning to America for round and square dancing.

Telephone Plant to Be Inspected.

The members of the shad bake committee of the Washington Board of Trade will be the guests this evening of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. on an inspection trip through the dial and long-distance offices of the company's equipment display room. The committee will hold a business meeting in the telephone company's office prior to the inspection trip.

Southern Gas Society Convenes Here in 1933

The Southern Gas Association will hold a convention in Washington during the first week of May, 1933, it was announced yesterday by the Greater National Capital committee.

J. M. Stone, Central States Power Co., Birmingham, Ala., is secretary of the association, and Edgar Morris, 130 G street northwest, and G. A. G. Wood, 411 Tenth street northwest, are the local representatives.

Washington Glider Club Will Meet Tonight at 8

A meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Thomson School, Twelfth and L streets northwest, by the Glider Club of Washington.

New members who have joined the club from other like organizations that have died out in the past few years will be inducted into the club at the meeting tonight. They will also start work on a new glider, having acquired all the necessary tools and materials.

IRISH OATH ACTION UPSETS COMMONS

Baldwin Restores Order on Question of Submitting Issue to Court.

London, May 5 (A.P.).—Considerable disorder was caused in the House of Commons this afternoon by the troublesome controversy over the Irish Free State's effort to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British Crown.

Geoffrey Mander, National Liberal from Wolverhampton, repeatedly questioned dominions secretary, J. H. Thomas, about whether the government would submit the oath issue to a specially constituted imperial court of appeal or to the World Court at The Hague.

Mr. Thomas did not answer directly, and when the member pressed him there were howls from all quarters of the house. An argument developed between the speaker and George Lansbury, Labor opposition leader, with peace being restored only when Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and acting prime minister, suggested that Mr. Mander again put his question.

This time Mr. Thomas replied that Ireland had not asked for consultation with the British government and that for the present all the government could do was to inform the Free State that its unilateral action against the oath constituted violation of the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921.

Educators Visit Nursery Schools

Delegates to Convention Later Greet President at White House.

Nursery schools, kindergartens and the first three grades of the elementary schools were visited yesterday morning by delegates to the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Association for Childhood Education.

President Hoover received the delegates at the White House at 12:30 o'clock, where a group photograph was taken. Following the White House reception, the delegates were divided into four groups which met in conferences to consider various phases of childhood educational work.

An "all States" tableau was held last night at Central High School at which the Interhigh School Festival Orchestra furnished the music.

It's worth the Time it takes

To Make CLICQUOT

Six months is a long time to wait for flavor to ripen, but really, it is worth it! So we blend the choicest flavor ingredients very carefully and let them AGE 6 MONTHS before adding the sugar and the sparkling Clicquot water. Don't you like the idea of ripened flavor? Millions do! That is why Clicquot Club is so popular . . . why it has pleased three generations. It's all a matter of taste.

Early American Dances To Feature in "Levee."

Picturesque early American dances will be a feature of the ball and reception on the east plaza of the Capitol, which is being arranged in honor of the Bicentennial year by the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, with the cooperation of State societies and other patriotic groups in the Capital City, to take place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

With the "President and Mrs. Washington" impersonated by two members of the Virginia State Society (Mr. I. C. Buchanan and Mrs. Richard A. Allen), the roles of Vice President John Adams and Mrs. Adams will be portrayed by the President of the Massachusetts State Society, Mr. Frank E. Hickey, with Mrs. Hickey as Mrs. Adams. Mr. Robert H. Kempton and Miss Eleanor Carleton, also of the Massachusetts Society, will appear as Gen. and Mrs. Hancock. And Mr. George Robertie and Miss Loretta Ryan will likewise appear in prominent roles in the "presidential party," which will make its formal appearance from the rotunda door, and proceed down the wide steps of the Capitol to greet the costumed throngs dancing on the east plaza.

Dr. Albert S. Davidson, of the Virginia State Society, will appear as Chancellor Livingston, who assisted in the administration of the presidential oath of office to George Washington in Federal Hall, New York City. Miss Lillian B. Fleming will appear as Mrs. Livingston. Others who will appear in the reenactment of the famous "levee" of the first President will be Mr. E. Lodge Hill, as Thomas Jefferson; Mrs. Lena Epperly MacDonald as his daughter, Martha Jefferson; Mr. Shirley Meyers as Gen. Henry Knox, with Mrs. Ralph Wiggin as Mrs. Knox; Mr. Guy Marlowe as Alexander Hamilton, with Miss Frances Carter Linfoot as Mrs. Hamilton; Mr. Carter Harrison Hites as Justice John Jay, with Mrs. I. C. Buchanan as Mrs. Jay; Mr. John Hodges as Edmund Randolph, of Virginia, with Miss Gene Lovelace as Mrs. Randolph; Mr. Edward Nance as Samuel Osgood, the Postmaster General of the first administration, and Mrs. Marvyn Gorman as Mrs. Duane, wife of Mayor James Duane, of New York.

Presidents of the societies representing the fifteen States in the Union at the time of Washington's first inauguration will take part in the pageant processional on the steps of the Capitol and will assist in the reception of the guests by the First President. Among those who have accepted the invitation of Dr. George B. Havenner, of the Bicentennial Commission of the District of Columbia, to assist at this colorful event of America's early history are Capt. Thomas J. Jackson, of the Georgia Society; Mr. John M. Boteler, vice president of the Maryland State Society; Maj. Ely P. Denson, of the North Carolina State Society; Mr. Frank Hickey, of the Massachusetts State Society; Mr. Claude W. Parker, of the New Jersey State Society; Mr. John H. Bartlett, of the New Hampshire Society of Washington; Mr. William B. Child, of the Rhode Island State Society; Mrs. Mabel R. Peirce, of the Vermont State Society; Mr. Thomas S. Settle, of the Virginia State Society, and Mr. Elmer E. Field, of the New England States Society.

It is expected that practically all State society presidents who are in the city Saturday evening will be present. The members of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission will likewise attend the reception and ball as the "official" hosts and floor committee for the general dancing on the plaza throughout the evening.

The Woman's National Democratic Club will entertain at a dinner this evening in compliment to Senator Thomas P. Gore. Senator Gore will speak on "Rugged Individualism." Mrs. Charles Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick are among those who plan to attend the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kenny, jr., of Plainfield, N. J., will return to their home Sunday after a week's visit in Washington, where they have been guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Bride, at their residence in Spring Valley.

Mrs. Winifred H. Artaud, of this city, has moved to Wardman Park Hotel, where she has leased an apartment and will make her home in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jerome Sheffield, of New Rochelle, N. Y., arrived here by motor yesterday from their home in Miami, where they have been staying since the first of the year, and they have taken a suite at Wardman Park Hotel for the week-end. Their son, Charles, jr., who attends school here in Washington, has joined them there for the duration of their visit.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Bridge Party Is Tonight.

The annual bridge party of Washington Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority will be held this evening at the Dodge Hotel. Members of the sorority will entertain their husbands and friends who are not members of the chapter. Mrs. Thomas L. Stokes, the retiring president, will head the receiving line, assisted by the newly elected officers.

Members and guests attending the tenth annual meeting of the American Law Institute and the accompanying ladies have been invited to a reception and tea to be given at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the Chinese room of the Mayflower.

Those on the reception committee are Mrs. Robert G. Dodge, of Boston; Mrs. Frederick F. Faville, of Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. Herbert F. Goodrich, of Philadelphio; Mrs. William B. Hale, of Chicago; Mrs. William V. Hodges, of Denver; Mrs. William Draper Lewis, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Victor Morawetz and Mrs. George Welwood Murray, of New York; Mrs. Atlee Porerene, of Cleveland; Mrs. Arthur P. HELP YOURSELF BY HELPING OTHERS

"If only I could get a few days' work, it would help." That's what the man said as he sat down beside the interviewer in the District employment office.

Of course it would help. It would help this willing worker forget his troubles while at work. It would help him earn a few dollars to buy necessities for his wife and children. It would help give him new courage to go on. It would help give him new confidence in himself.

Suppose YOU were the person who would invite this willing worker to do some needed odd jobs around your home, YOU would be helping this man, but you would do more, you would be helping yourself. The jobs done would improve your home.

The dollars spent would buy more for you than they could buy in a long time. But more than that. Every dollar earned by a man who is taken out of the class of involuntary idlers and put into the class of workers helps men on a job remain on the job.

Business can go on as dollars are circulated. By putting your dollars into circulation you are ultimately benefiting yourself.

SPRINGTIME IS CHICKEN-PIE TIME.

BAKED BEANS tonight, but we shall digress. Baked beans, as we all know, spell, for the writer of this little column, the old familiar New England style with which childhood has so well acquainted her. But not so for Saturday's supper this week—we shall take a short journey south of the Mason-Dixon line and find there—baked beans, Virginia style. And a strawberry pie as well—this by way (and to use our new word) of "dessaiment" of our menu.

Now, as to Sunday's plan, for a fine May week-end is almost upon us, and chickens are to be found in the markets at less than winter's prices, since spring and an abundant chicken supply from the country are synonymous. It's to be chicken potpie, however, with light fluffy dumplings to be added at the last moment. This to the end of making Sunday's repast an easy one to prepare with less work for Madam the Housewife.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Green Soup
Radishes Spring Onions
Chicken Potpie with Dumplings
New Whole Boiled Potatoes
Creamed Peas and Carrots
Apricot Whip
Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Baked Beans—Virginia Style
Raw Vegetable Salad with Dressing
Strawberry Pie
Tea or Coffee

Baked Beans—Virginia Style.

¼ pound bacon
½ cupful celery, chopped
¼ cupful peanuts, chopped
1 can baked beans
2 tablespoonfuls pimiento relish.

Fry bacon slightly. Remove from pan. Add celery and peanuts to remaining fat. Fry 10 minutes. Add beans and mix well. Grease a casserole with bacon fat. Fill with bean mixture. Garnish top with pimiento relish, arranged in diagonal lines about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 30 minutes. About 5 minutes before taking from oven lay half-cooked bacon between lines of pimiento relish to become crisp and brown.

Stawberry Pie.

2 cupfuls milk
¾ cupful sugar
2 tablespoonfuls flour
1 tablespoonful cornstarch
¼ tablespoonful salt
½ tablespoonful butter
¾ quart strawberries, hulled and cut in half

Mix flour, cornstarch and salt with a little of the cold milk. Add the sugar and remaining milk. Cook in double boiler until thick. Add the butter. When the mixture is quite cold stir in lightly the strawberries; put into a baked pie shell and cover with a meringue made of two egg whites, beaten stiff, with 2 tablespoonfuls granulated sugar. Place in 300-degree oven for about 15 minutes or until meringue is delicately browned. Serve cold.

Plain Pastry.

1½ cupfuls flour
½ cupful shortening
½ teaspoonful salt
3 to 4 tablespoonfuls ice water

Have all the ingredients, the mixing bowl and utensils as cold as possible. Sift the flour and salt together, then cut in the shortening with two knives, leaving the shortening in thin slices or small pieces which will give the desired flakiness. Add sufficient ice water to hold the mixture together. Handle the dough quickly and roll out lightly, taking from the bowl only half the mixture at a time, which will be enough for one crust. Prick or score the top crust to permit the steam to escape, thus preventing sogginess. Bake all pies in the lower grate of the oven, reducing the heat after 5 minutes.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Unduly Cold Weather Has Left New Need for Oil Treatments

EVEN Florida and southern California had a cold spell last month, and the unduly chill weather left in its wake a new need for oil treatments. Dry, drawn and chapped skin, dry hair, scaly patches on the body, dry and broken cuticle around the nails; all these are the woes of women who are not prepared.

Elsie Pierce

If the skin is at all dry, a spring overhauling should begin with an oil facial. First cleanse the skin thoroughly. Cleansing cream is preferable, but if the skin is not extremely sensitive this cleansing may consist of a rich lather with a bland soap and complexion brush. This is permissible because the oil you will later apply will counteract any drying effect of the soap. Be sure to rinse very thoroughly in clear, tepid water. Do not use very cold or very hot water.

Now, using plain olive or mineral or sweet almond oil (or a ready prepared muscle or wrinkle oil if you have one) dip a pad of cotton into the oil and pat over your entire face and neck. To increase the penetrating qualities of the oil, heat in a small pan or tablespoon over a small flame. Do not have the oil too hot or it will scald the skin. Having patted the oil over face and neck use the same pad and a few additional pads, one thin and long one to fit as a compress around the neck, another to fit under the chin and on it, another to fit over the entire face, cutting holes to permit breathing and holes for the eyes. Keep soaking the pads into the warm oil as soon as they begin to cool. Repeat this treatment for fifteen minutes. To further increase its effectiveness, apply towels wrung out of hot water over the hot oil compresses. Lie down and rest, if you can.

If you are giving yourself the treatment at bedtime (and that is the best time to do so if the skin is very chapped, scaly and sensitive from the cold) remove the excess oil with soft cloth or tissues, but leave a thin film, and over it pat your favorite nourishing skinfood. In the morning pat with your astringent or skin tonic and go over skin with ice swathed in cotton.

Your hair will need several hot oil treatments, too. These hot oil treatments are excellent for everyone, particularly for the scalp inclined to dryness or for the woman who is contemplating or has had a permanent wave.

Your hands should have an oil massage, too, and the cuticles be soaked in warm oil every night for a week and then every few days until they no longer show ragged edges, hangnails, &c.

Once or twice a week, if the skin of your body feels rough, dry, or scaly patches appear, give yourself an oil rub before the warm bath. Use the oil generously. Add a little of your favorite perfume if you wish. Allow the oil to remain as long as possible. Then into your bath. Allow the oily-surfaced water to flow out and keep drawing fresh water until water is quite clear. After the bath, massage a little cream or spray a little oil over the dry spots, then pat with rubbing alcohol and dust with talcum powder. A delightful treatment, and helpful, too.

If you wish my hair bulletins, outlining hot oil treatment for scalp and hair, also massage movements, send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Where, When and How?

DEAR Frances McDonald:—I for one do not care for the way you answered Nan-C, who complained to you that every date ended in a fight over petting, for while it may be the way some men go out and spend an evening, it is not the way that everyone does, and you can not judge all of us by the way a few act. I must say that I admire Nan-C's stand on the subject, for a girl still can go out to a movie, dance or whatever she cares to call it and have a good time and still not subject themselves to petting. I myself know a few decent young men who can take a girl out and not ask anything like that of them, and I myself am one of these. I know from my experience of working in a shop. I have heard fellow shopmates tell the following morning of how they treated girls they were out with the night before, and I must say it was disgusting to hear them talk and boast over it.

There is one thing that is hard for me to understand, and that is why you being a woman wouldn't stand for it. As it is, some of the girls have made men think that they are cheap enough for anything and why come out and advocate it for all of the girls to do it? It would only make the girls seem cheaper still if she has to be a subject of kissing and petting in order to have a good time. I can take a girl out to a dance or show and have a good evening of pleasure and then escort her home without asking her to be necked. A whole lot depends on the girl herself, for ones that don't smoke or drink are the ones I consider to be real ladies and I might ask them to go out, but once I find that they do these things I am never seen the second time with them.

A GENTLEMAN.

So, we have been advocating the practice of paying for popularity by promiscuous "petting!" Would you be so kind as to tell us when and where? Of course like every other intelligent person, we fully realize that one of the amazing things in life is the number of persons who can read, but have not the faintest idea of what they have read when they have finished. A young woman in a store recently suggested to us a certain book saying she had just read it. We inquired what it was about. She did not know. It happened the heroine abandoned her husband and children for "one year of life" with a young man who had one year to live. But the girl in the book department who had sat up all night to read about it, did not know what it was all about—except that the woman's name was Judith. Which was no doubt important. But not to us.

We have discussed so-called "petting." Thousands have read whatever we said on the more than moth-eaten subject, and you believe we advised the ambitious maiden of the day to adopt it as part of her technique! So much for the art of reading. And knowing what we have read when we have done!

We consider that the activity known as "petting" is as disgusting as the word that describes it and the people it describes. We have never told anyone to "accept the advances" of anyone. And there are times when we become utterly despondent at the hopelessness of trying to make ourselves understood—with only the English language as a medium.

Can any reader of this column enlighten us as to how to become succesful in our effort to be intelligible Will Nan-C kindly tell us whether she gathered from our advice that she was henceforth to "accept advances" and pet for popularity? Just as an experiment we would like to know.

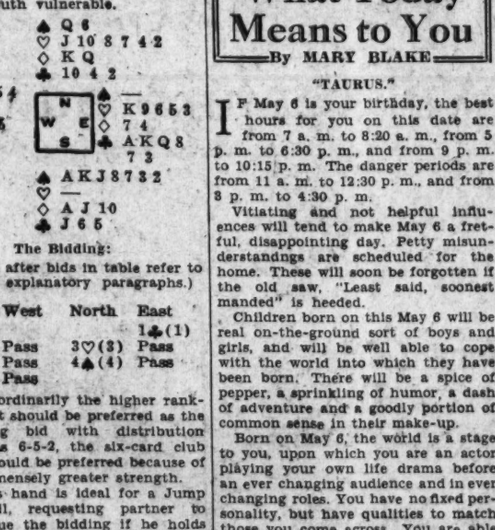
THE JUMP OVERCALL AND RESPONSE.

PARTICIPANTS in the World Bridge Olympic, the world-wide Duplicate Bridge game conducted by the National Bridge Association, were confronted in Hand No. 9 with the use of the Jump Overcall as an effective means of reaching a game contract, after opponents had opened the bidding. This bid, in the Approach-Forcing System, discloses a very strong hand, containing more than 3 honor-tricks, and a strong two-suiter, or a powerful single suit. In other words, it shows a hand with which the overcalling player is justified in asking his partner, with a weak, but not a bust hand, to give him another opportunity to bid, even in the face of an adverse Opening bid.

The par for the East and West players was a contract of three spades, made by the opponents. The par for the North and South players required a bid, with their strong holdings, of four spades, regardless of the outcome.

The hand and bidding were:

East—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
			1♣(1)
2♠(2)	Pass	3♡(3)	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠(4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—While ordinarily the higher ranking suit should be preferred as the Opening bid with distribution such as 6-5-2, the six-card club suit should be preferred because of its immensely greater strength.
2—South's hand is ideal for a Jump Overcall, requesting partner to continue the bidding if he holds as much as 1 honor-trick.
3—North shows his six-card heart suit in preference to an immediate Raise in spades.
4—North's hand now clearly calls for a Raise to game in spades, in view of partner's very strong bidding.

If the hand is played at four spades, an opportunity is afforded the West player for an extremely interesting, if somewhat spectacular, discard. Opening his singleton club, which is won by his partner with the Queen, and the suit returned, West cannot discard his worthless diamonds, otherwise South will make the contract of four-odd. Therefore, West was expected to realize that his hand defensively required unusual treatment, but the logic of the situation clearly dictated what that treatment should be. On the second round of clubs, West should discard the heart Queen, and on the third round of clubs, the heart Ace. Thus played, the contract of four spades must be defeated 1 trick, as South cannot so play his cards as to prevent West from eventually winning a trump trick with this line of play.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Even the most difficult problems of attack or defense are frequently capable of satisfactory solution. In order to discover the best method of attacking or defensive play, careful study of each lead, play and discard should be made.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:20 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Vitiating and not helpful influences will tend to make May 6 a fretful, disappointing day. Petty misunderstandngs are scheduled for the home. These will soon be forgotten if the old saw, "Least said, soonest mended" is heeded.

Children born on this May 6 will be real on-the-ground sort of boys and girls, and will be well able to cope with the world into which they have been born. There will be a spice of pepper, a sprinkling of humor, a dash of adventure and a goodly portion of common sense in their make-up.

Born on May 6, the world is a stage to you, upon which you are an actor playing your own life drama before an ever changing audience and in ever changing roles. You have no fixed personality, but have qualities to match those you come across. You are able to assume at will a professional manner or a company voice. It is difficult for others, or even for yourself, to know when the real "you" is on the stage. You throw yourself into all parts with so much heart and soul that your pseudo-selves assume very realistic proportions. At all times, in all places, with all people, and in all moods, you never forget your "savoir vivre."

You are very intelligent, although not in the least intellectual. You are too earthly-minded to ever be a high-brow. Your mind is full of plans and schemes, both practical and impractical. Your serious energies will be applied to their promotion. It is not likely that you will ever "stay put" for any length of time. You are inclined to count your chickens before they are hatched, and are sometimes let down through overoptimism.

It is more important for you to be loved than to love. You must absolutely be everything to a man or woman or else be nothing. In this respect you are much the egoist.

Successful people born on May 6: William Bowie, engineer.
Oscar W. Underwood, senator.
William Edmund Scripps, president Scripps Motor Co.
Jeff Davis, United States senator.
Edward Thomas Devine, lecturer and author.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A summer resort dance frock for the sophisticated woman has black organdy skirt flounces over a pink organdy slip, matching pink blouse and pale blue collar with embroidered edges. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, May 5.—When women start wearing bows, look for the end of any blues! Because you just can't wear a bow in all its perky crispness, without mentally smiling when you see yourself in it. There just is something so irresistibly droll about a bow!

Dame Fashion says bows for this spring and summer, and doesn't care whether you tie the bow or just perch it on something, somewhere. Oh, discreetly, of course—at just the right angle—and just the right place—which makes all the difference between being style-wise and not, comprenez?

I sketched a few bow ideas for you today. Some tied and some perched, some important, and some seemingly just added as the proper accompanying note. Like 'em?

• • • •

I think it was simply genius that added the wee black bows to the sleeves of the summer dance frock I designed for you today. Of course, the frock itself is not so dusty—black organdy panels which billow after properly hugging the hips, and which show thin strips of the pink organdy slips between them when Miladi dances. And a pink organdy top to the frock, with, guess? Yes, pale blue collar! The sleeves, being all cut in one piece with the top as they are, are naturally of the pink organdy. And the sleeves are edged with embroidered scallops, pink thread. Then the little black bows tie them. But the collar is edged in blue embroidered scallops! If you try to picture this frock, you will like it as I do, I think—for the more sophisticated woman, of course, and one who has enough poise to be able to "get away" with such an unusual dress.

• • • •

Going to the mountains or maybe to a desert ranch this vacation with the kiddies? And what will little sister wear? Not heavy, dull camping suits, nor dresses—to wash and iron and mend—for mother wants a vacation, too, but sun suits and play suits made the Dah-ray way. This week's leaflet just about solves this problem to perfection. For a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post you will receive complete and simple directions for making a play suit and a romper-sun suit combination that is the only thing to wear for vacations, or after school and everything; also a pajama suit and several different types of sun suits that are so easily and economically made with this week's leaflet. And here's another priceless hint for vacation materials—seersucker or Japanese crepe hung very wet after washing do not need ironing!

• • • •

Vivid girdles are chosen to give color to street costumes. That is a bit new, when you stop to think of it.

And chalky crepes are regarded as a late summer success—and predicted as a trend for the fall season. Remember that, yes?

Russet colored accessories with navy blue are something new and very chic and lovely—one of those odd, unexpected color combinations which meet immediate favor, you know? Shadow blue stockings are worn with the russet colored shoes, navy blue frock and russet gloves and bag. Very nice!

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Nothing is smarter than a navy blue sheer woolen bolero dress for spring.

A polka-dotted red and white crepe silk bodice with puffed sleeves made this model darling of the mode. Tiny blue bone buttons add interesting trim.

You can copy it exactly for an unbelievably small sum.

It's a dress you can wear and wear and always feel so smart in.

Style No. 2795 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Printed crepe silk would be charming, too. The bodice could be of plain toning crepe.

Then there are many rayon novelties, crinkle crepe silk, tweed-like cottons and linen that are all lovely for its development.

Size 16 requires 2¾ yards 39-inch, with 1⅝ yards 35-inch contrasting.

Beautiful styles covering the complete range for the woman, miss, child and the stout, articles showing what hats will be worn, hairdressing hints, afternoon wear, subdeb frocks, &c., &c.

It points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

SOME TRAINING TABLE RULES.

DR. RUBNER, the German authority on nutrition, thinks men in training for sports need not live on a diet that differs greatly from that of other people, according to a Berlin newsletter in the Journal of American Medical Association.

The diet on which he reports is as follows:

Breakfast, a large cup of coffee with a liberal amount of hot milk, 2 slices of bread with butter or marmalade.

Lunch, 3 to 5 ounces meat, 5 or 6 potatoes, a vegetable or salad, fruit.

Supper, 3 slices bread with cold meat and fruit.

This supplies something over 3,000 calories and is enough for a man weighing 154 pounds and engaging in reasonable physical exercises.

Another investigator, Dr. Pickert, of Hamburg, had a group of 24 young policemen in training for a month. They were given a diet of substantially the same sort. It consisted of meat, bread, fresh vegetables and salads, and yielded 4,300 calories. The men gained in weight, kept in excellent health, were always in fine physical condition and performed their training tasks well.

These experiences indicate that men in training commonly overeat. If we are to accept the reports that come from the training camps of prize fighters, the prospective contestants not only eat far more meat than they need, but they also overeat in general.

These German reports indicate that a training table should not differ materially from the ordinary dinner table. The outstanding characteristic is that the foods served are simple in kind and in preparation. They are the ordinary foods that everyday people find wholesome. There are no heavy meals and no appetite-inviting cooking.

There are many office workers who regard one cup of coffee and two slices of bread as a light breakfast. Three to five ounces of meat is about one-fifth to one-third of a pound. I have seen an alderman eat two double porterhouse steaks at a single sitting. Five or six potatoes, however, would prove formidable. One cup of coffee a day would be regarded as a deprivation by some.

OPERATION OFTEN NEEDED.

G. P. H. writes:

1. Is operation the only remedy for inguinal hernia?
2. Is the operation dangerous?

REPLY.

1. I presume you refer to closing the canal permanently. Some canals are closed by exercises that develop the abdominal muscle walls; some by wearing trusses. In most cases operation is the only method.
2. Not very.

DAMAGE IN X-RAYS.

A. S. writes: If a man takes many X-rays in a short period, would it affect his health in any way?

REPLY.

X-ray is a most powerful measure. Any measure that is powerful for good is also powerful for harm. How much harm it does depends on such circumstances as the dosage, where given and so forth.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

DIVIDING PERENNIALS.

MANY of our well-known perennials such as perennial asters, tall phlox, peonies and irises, will not come true to variety or color if propagated from seed. Plants of this sort are always propagated by the division of the roots, by cuttings or by layering.

The commonest way to increase your stock of such plants is by the method known as "division." Any growing shoot with a piece of root attached will, if you give it proper care, grow and produce a new plant. However, a large clump is rarely cut up into such small pieces. Usually a large clump is divided into three or four pieces, each with a good top and an ample root system.

Just how you go about the work depends on the variety you are planning to divide. Some plants can be easily separated into proper sized pieces with your hands. Others having large, fibrous roots, must be cut apart with a knife or even a spade. Plants with close, tight crowns had best be divided with a knife. The work must be carefully done. The delphiniums particularly require careful handling.

Early spring after growth begins is the time to divide most perennials, although those which bloom quite early may be divided after blooming. The bearded irises are examples of this. Where the divisions are large you can plant them in a permanent place in your garden, but where the pieces are small it is best to pot them and wait until they have become established or have had a good start before planting them in the open ground.

Many perennials, as I said before, can be propagated by cuttings taken from the terminal shoots or even pieces of stem. These, if planted in damp sand and kept shaded, will in two or three weeks put forth roots and form a new plant. When making a cutting use the end of a branch and make the cutting only 2 to 4 inches long, with the bottom cut just below a leaf node. When the cutting has developed 2 inches of root growth transplant the seedling to a pot or a seedbed.

A few plants like tall phlox and poppies can be propagated by cutting the root up into small pieces.

Layering is done by covering the stems with soil. The plants put forth roots at the place where the node is covered with soil. Climbing roses may be easily increased by layering.

COMMONS WILL GET DEBTS ISSUE AGAIN

Will Not Interfere With Next Payment of Interest on U. S. Obligation.

London, May 5 (A.P.).—Great Britain's war debt and reparations policy will get another airing in the House of Commons before another payment of interest is made on the British war debt to the United States.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, made a promise to that effect to a questioner today.

The chancellor made it plain, however, that the sanction of Parliament would not be sought before any further payment was made on the American interest.

The next payment is due on June 15, but was postponed by the Hoover moratorium. The next thereafter is due December 15. Mr. Chamberlain said:

Reduction Report Discounted.

"There will no doubt be an opportunity of discussing the government's policy regarding reparations and war debts before the last named date."

Simultaneously responsible government officials characterized published reports in the United States that Great Britain will ask a 25 per cent reduction in war debts and reparations at Lausanne next month as "an invention."

It was reiterated that Great Britain's fundamental debt policy is total abolition of war obligations along the lines of the Balfour note.

Mr. Chamberlain outlined this in effect in Parliament this afternoon as he had previously done in his budget speech last month.

View of Lloyd George.

David Lloyd George, Great Britain's "war premier," raised the same point in an address today before the members of the foreign press at their luncheon.

The little Welshman, whose speeches are a rarity now, blamed postponement of the war debts issue when Great Britain signed her unilateral settlement with America some ten years ago, as the greatest obstacle of settlement of this issue now.

He noted that the postponement came soon after the rejection of the principles of the Balfour note. He said:

"I wonder whether there is enough courage in the statesmanship of the world even now to propose the only remedies that will put the world right."

G. W. Benefit Carnival To Be Opened Tonight

A two-day carnival for the benefit of the George Washington University Band will be staged by the university, beginning tonight. The college yard has been transformed into a midway, where various carnival amusements will be in progress. An outdoor arena has been constructed on a tennis court and will be the scene of vaudeville acts presented by sorority and fraternity members.

A baseball game between faculty and students will take place tomorrow afternoon on the Monument Grounds and the culminating event of the carnival will be the coronation of Ruth Molyneaux as queen of the cornival at 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

Zeta Tau Alpha Wins in Debate

Takes George Washington Prize; Theta Upsilon Omega Also Victor.

The intersorority debate championship of George Washington University was won last night by Zeta Tau Alpha. The interfraternity championship was won by Theta Upsilon Omega.

The winning sorority, represented by Olivia Watkins and Jean Kardell, successfully contended against Phi Sigma Sigma, represented by Charlotte Dubin and Sylvia Nelson, in arguing against the dismissal of married women in Government positions.

Theta Upsilon Omega, represented by Harry Clayton and James Hobbes, defeated the Acacia Fraternity, represented by William Pierson and Perrin Lowry, in defending the proposition that the crime of kidnaping should be punishable by death. Cups will be presented the winning teams at the class night exercises commencement week.

Company Is Loser In Insurance Case

Policies of Sidney West to Be Paid to Widow and Business Associate.

Two verdicts, one for $25,000 and the other for $20,000, were gained in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Eugene C. Gott and Mrs. Florence H. West, widow of the late Sidney West, in suits filed against the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Mrs. West was given the smaller amount, while Mr. Gott, a business associate of Mr. West, was awarded the larger amount. Both suits were based on life insurance policies carried by Mr. West in favor of his wife and his business associate.

Mrs. West's suit claimed that the insurance company had failed to pay to her as beneficiary of one of the policies the amount due. She alleged that she had made demands for the payment of the policy following Mr. West's death in 1927.

Cosmopolitan to Go To Baltimore Parley

W. G. Stockhausen, who will be the next governor of the Capital District Federation of Cosmopolitan Clubs, headed a Baltimore delegation to Washington yesterday to urge Washington Cosmopolitans to attend the annual convention of the federation at Baltimore next week. The delegation, consisting of Mr. Stockhausen, Raymond Jones, Harold N. House and Edward Jester, were guests at the Cosmopolitan luncheon at the Carlton.

Judge Michael M. Doyle, international president of Cosmopolitan Clubs, will head the Washington delegation to Baltimore next week for the convention on Friday and Saturday. About 40 from Washington will make the trip. Mr. Stockhausen said that the program committee has arranged a banquet and dance for Friday night, a dinner and dance for Saturday night and for seats at the running of the Preakness at Pimlico.

GERMAN BLOCS WIN IN MEMEL ELECTION

Lithuanian May Surrender Governorship of Autonomous District.

Memel, May 5 (U.P.).—The complete collapse of the pro-Lithuanian policy of Gov. Antonas Mertys, whose resignation is considered a possibility, was indicated tonight by the overwhelming victory of German parties in the Memel Diet election.

The final returns, showing the German parties had held or increased their strength despite the vigorous Lithuanian campaign, was believed likely to force the resignation of the Memel directorate under Richard Simmet.

Memel is an autonomous district under a Lithuanian governor. Last February 6, Otto Boettcher, the German president of the council, was arrested on Lithuanian orders. The territory, which was formerly German and which Lithuania attempted to seize after the war, was then placed under a pro-Lithuanian president and new elections were called.

The results of the election were:

	Votes	Net Deputies	For Diet
German Peoples party	18,371	8	8
German Agrarians	22,029	10	10
Luthuanian Socialists	5,785	3	2
Communists	5,481	3	2
Lithuanian Economists	7,123	..	3
Lithuanian Peoples party	4,819	..	2

There was a record breaking turnout in the balloting which gave the German parties an unexpected victory. About 97 per cent of the electorate participated in the election.

Education Council Will Hear Wilbur

Medical Man's Viewpoint of Policies to Be Given by Cabinet Member.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur will today address the fifteenth annual meeting of the American Council on Education, which will begin today in the Brookings Institution, 722 Jackson place. Secretary Wilbur will discuss the medical man's viewpoint in a general discussion of "Who and What Determine the Major Educational Policies of Professional Education in the United States."

Others who will participate are Assistant Secretary of State James Grafton Rogers, discussing the legal viewpoint; W. E. Wickendon, of the Case School of Applied Science, the subject from the standpoint of engineering school, and Dean Luther A. Weigle, of Yale University, from the standpoint of theology.

Tomorrow morning Dr. John C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution, and Prof. John J. Coss, director of the summer school at Columbia University, will discuss "Education for Leisure."

USE OF SUBMARINES AROUSES ARMS TILT

Swanson Urges Restriction in Verbal Clash With Nippon Delegate.

Geneva, May 5 (U.P.).—With another verbal clash between United States Senator Claude Swanson and the Japanese delegate, the naval commission of the disarmament conference today ended ten days of debate which completely frustrated any hope of immediate agreement on which war vessels are "offensive" and which are "defensive."

The committee, which is attempting to define offensive sea weapons so they may be abolished or internationalized, succeeded only in establishing that each nation has its favorite type of warship and that every type of warship has a stanch defender.

As a result, it was decided the commission would meet privately Saturday in an attempt to prepare a report which can be unanimously approved and submitted to the general commission.

"The report will outline the maximum agreement reached in our discussions," Erik Colban, of Norway, announced.

The delegates smiled broadly, recalling that so far not a single proposal has been unanimously approved. The only solution will be to report to the general commissions the conflicting attitudes of the various nations.

The United States and Britain alone have defended battleships and aircraft carriers as defensive while Japan and other nations subjected them to a bitter attack. Japan and France have defended submarines as defensive while America, Britain and other nations have demanded their abolition, or restriction.

Swanson's vigorous plea ended the debate when he stigmatized submarines as having "a worse record than any ship ever invented as a menace to civil population."

Home Near Rockville Destroyed by Flames

A two-story frame tenant house on the J. Somervell Dawson property, near Rockville, Md., on the Potomac road, was destroyed by fire last night. Origin of the fire could not be immediately determined.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11 o'clock and the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department called. Hampered by lack of water, the firemen were forced to confine their efforts to prevention of the spread of the fire. The damage was estimated at between $500 and $1,000. The house was occupied by a colored couple, James Timbers and his wife, who were not at home at the time of the fire.

MONTGOMERY SEEKS HIGHER GRADE MILK

County Official Is to Meet With Dairymen to Discuss Standards.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Montgomery County dairy farmers have been invited to attend a meeting at the Rockville Courthouse, May 4, at 7:30 p. m., to discuss means of cooperation between the county health department and the farmers in maintaining a milk supply of high quality, according to an announcement by Dr. V. L. Ellicott, county health officer.

"Montgomery County should have a milk supply of which its citizens and its milk producers can be proud and which is equal to, if not better, than the excellent supplies of Washington and Baltimore. There is no reason why milk which is retailed a few miles from the cow can not be as good as milk shipped into and out of a city," Dr. Ellicott said yesterday. "To maintain a good county milk supply, there must be agreement as to standards of practice, equipment and control tests and adequate supervision. If the absence of standards, some milk sold is likely to be inferior in quality and this inferior milk lowers the reputation of county milk as a whole. Agreement on standards should be reached jointly by health officials and milk producers, with ample opportunity for discussion and expert advice."

All dairymen of the county are invited to attend.

Public hearings on the applications for change in zoning classification of the property of the Chevy Chase Land Co. on Wisconsin avenue at the District line, and at Chevy Chase Lake on Connecticut avenue, will be held June 9 at the office of the Montgomery County Commissioners in the Rockville courthouse.

The hearing on the application for apartment house zoning for Wisconsin avenue will begin at 10 a. m., and that for apartment house and more classification for Chevy Chase Lake at noon.

The county commissioners yesterday awarded the contract for widening the right of way on Blair road between Sligo and Flower avenue to 20 feet in connection with the extension of Piney Branch road from Washington into Maryland. The contract was awarded, on advice of County Engineer Harry B. Shaw, to Cain & Co., of Washington, whose bid of $2,774.30 was the lowest offered.

A meeting of Greater Montgomery County, Inc., an organization composed of delegates from the principal business and civic organizations of the county, which is preparing a booklet setting forth the advantages of Montgomery County, business and residential, will be held tomorrow night at 8 p. m. in the Bethesda County Building.

The booklet is expected to be ready for distribution next week. Curtis Bridges, executive director of the Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade, has volunteered to aid in the distribution, according to Walter L. Funkhouser, chairman of the group.

Creation of separate zoning districts for the Sandy Spring neighborhood has been proposed to the community council of Sandy Spring by several constituent bodies. A committee of the council is studying the plan.

Several conferences have been held between Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland Park and Planning Commission, and leading citizens of the community. Mr. Root said the planning commission would be glad to cooperate in preparing the plan.

Bids will be received May 16 by the mayor and council of Takoma Park for paving Hodges lane and Holly avenue. Holly avenue will be paved from Philadelphia avenue to Bridges lane, while the lane will be paved the entire 1,000 feet of its length.

Trial of a damage suit removed from Prince George County was begun yesterday in Circuit Court at Rockville before Judge Robert B. Peter. Albert W. Wells is suing the American Oil Co. for $10,000 damages for injuries received when a gasoline tank alleged to belong to the company exploded.

Final Rites Today For Mrs. Pollard

Virginia State Offices to Be Closed in Tribute to Governor's Wife.

Richmond, Va., May 5 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Mrs. John Garland Pollard, wife of the governor, who died here yesterday, will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from the executive mansion in Richmond.

The Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, D. D., rector of Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg, will officiate. Burial will take place in the Phillips family plot at Portsmouth, where Mrs. Pollard was born.

State departments will be closed both 10 to 12 o'clock this morning in tribute to Mrs. Pollard. The only officials who are expected to motor to Portsmouth are Brig. Gen. S. Gardiner Waller, adjutant general of Virginia, and Col. John W. Williams, the governor's personal aid.

Man Gets Four Months For Liquor Possession

Walter Oliver, who pleaded guilty to charges of possession, was fined $100 and given a jail sentence of four months in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday. Joseph Nicholson, charged with assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on William Wilson, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction.

W. P. Plumley, of Greater Capitol Heights, pleaded guilty to charges of possession and was given a suspended sentence of a year in the House of Correction. George Armstrong, on a similar charge, was fined $50 and given a suspended sentence of six months. Buck Cole and Herman Proctor were freed by a jury on charges of assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Graham Hardesty.

SCHOOLS IN FAIRFAX TO HONOR MAY DAY

Program Today to Include Athletic Events, Games and Class Visits.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST, P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Fairfax 166.

May Day will be celebrated in all the public schools of Fairfax County today. The program is being held in conjunction with Child Health Day and Patrons' Day. The schedule planned by the county school authorities calls for regular classes during the morning session. Parents and patrons have been urged to visit the classrooms and observe the pupils at work. Picnic lunches will be held at noon.

Child Health will be observed in the afternoon with playlets, May day games, and athletic events. The five-point health certificates will be given the pupils who have conformed with the State Health Department requirements as to weight, hearing, throats, sight and teeth. The winners of the athletic events at the schools today will represent their school tomorrow at the county health and athletic field day in the fair grounds at Fairfax.

An athletic program for the county meet tomorrow has been arranged by the school supervisors and principals, and the health program will be under the direction of Mrs. Fannie Low Seamons, county health nurse.

The health program tomorrow will open at 10 o'clock with a parade of the school children from the county courthouse to the fair grounds. The children will be grouped by schools and demonstrate some particular achievement of the year. Those who have won five-point health certificates will wear a green headband with a large five-point star in the front.

The field meet will be held in the afternoon and the events have been arranged for boys under and over 90 pounds and for girls under and over 80 pounds. The contestants must be above the fourth grade and not over the seventh grade in school. The events for boys less than 90 pounds are a 50-yard dash, standing broad jump and baseball accuracy throw. The events for boys over 90 pounds are a 75-yard dash, running broad jump and the baseball throw.

The events for girls more and less than 80 pounds are the same in each class—the 50-yard dash, a four-girl relay for 120 yards and the baseball accuracy throw at 30 feet.

The rules of the meet preclude any school from entering more than one pupil in each event, and any pupil can only participate in any two events. Ribbons will be awarded to the winners in each event. The large health certificate given to the school having the largest per cent of five-point health children on its rolls will also be awarded tomorrow during the group assembly.

The Masonic lodges of the Virginia District No. 59 will meet this evening in Manassas to plan for participation in the dedication of the George Washington Masonic Memorial in Alexandria next week. The lodges from Herndon, Clifton in Fairfax County and from Manassas and Haymarket in Prince William County are included in district 59.

The Herndon Lodge has made plans for a Henry A. Johnson memorial night next month. Mr. Johnson, who is now 88 years old, was the first master of the Herndon lodge more than 50 years ago, and now resides in Washington. Recently he made a large gift to the lodge.

Mrs. George O. Coberth, newly elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Herndon Volunteer Fire Department, has appointed the following committees to assist her in the work:

Ways and means, Mrs. R. S. Crippen, chairman; Mrs. Theodora Filly, Mrs. Calvin Kidwell, Mrs. Arthur Hyde Buell, Mrs. Mary Higdon, Mrs. John Hurst, Mrs. George R. Bready, Mrs. Bernard L. Poole, Mrs. Allan H. Kirk, Mrs. Harry Breckenridge, Mrs. Bently Harrison, Miss Estelle Holden and Mrs. L. E. Berger.

Membership, Mrs. W. W. Taylor, chairman; Miss Virginia McFarlane, Mrs. Allan Bready, Mrs. Daisy Rooney, Mrs. Walter Farr, Mrs. C. W. Kelly, Miss Leonhardt, Miss Virginia Lang, Mrs. Mack Crippen, Mrs. Polly Nalls and Mrs. Mildred Kidwell. The auxiliary has given the firemen $125 to assist in making the payment on the Herndon fire engine.

FAIRFAX MAN, 75, COMMITS SUICIDE

Anthony Crowley of River Bend Kills Himself After an Alleged Quarrel.

Anthony Crowley, 75 years od, living at River Bend on the Potomac River above Great Falls in Fairfax County, Va., shot and killed himself early last night with a revolver.

According to Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, who investigated the shooting, Crowley became mad at dinner and threatened to shoot his wife and then commit suicide. He got up from the table, went upstairs, took a large roll of money from his pocket and placed it under a pillow.

He took a revolver out of the dresser drawer, went outside, crossed the road from the house and went into an old vacant house. Going upstairs in this house he laid down on the floor, placed the gun behind his right ear and pulled the trigger.

He was found some time later by a neighbor, Harry Houckens, who had stopped at the Crowley home and made the search at the instance of Mrs. Crowley, who had become alarmed at her husband's continued absence. Dr. Ford Swetnam, of Fairfax, acting county coroner, conducted the inquest and gave a verdict of suicide.

Crowley is survived by his widow and two married daughters who live in Washington.

Democratic Organizer Is Named.

James L. Phoenix was elected to fill the office of District organizer at the meeting of the Washington Democrat Negro Central Club last night at 1007 U street northwest. I. W. Bennett presided.

DUNCAN ABATEMENT PLEA THIS MORNING

Counsel to Give 14 Reasons for Claimed Illegality of Indictment.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Attacking the legality of the indictment returned by the grand jury in the Arlington County Circuit Court on Monday, April 18, against former County Clerk William H. Duncan, who was charged with grand larceny of public funds, counsel will argue the plea of abatement before Judge Walter T. McCarthy this morning at 10 o'clock.

Attorneys Amos C. Crounse, of Arlington County, and Leo P. Harlow, of Washington, and Alexandria, will appear for Mr. Duncan, while Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas will represent the Commonwealth.

Counsel for Duncan will give fourteen reasons why they believe the indictment illegal. Of this number, five reasons will be why Lyman M. Kelley, a member of the county board, is disqualified.

In April 322 deeds were recorded in the Arlington County clerk's office, according to the monthly report yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $688.88.

Other items in the report are: Wills, 12; State tax, $26; chancery suits, 10; State tax, $15; actions at law, 19; State tax, $30. Fines collected for violation of the prohibition law during the month amounted to $205, with costs totaling $173.40; fines collected in cases other than prohibition amounted to $140, with costs totaling $282.95.

Delinquent real estate taxes collected during the month, going to the State treasurer, amounted to $16.37, and those to the county treasurer amounted to $142.97.

Mrs. William T. Cole was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Robert E. Lee School last night. Other officers elected are Mrs. P. E. Smith, vice president; Mrs. William Holiday, secretary, and Mrs. E. L. Redfield, treasurer. They will be installed at the June meeting.

Arrangements for a benefit card party on the evening of May 13 at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Smith, were completed.

At a meeting in Moose Hall at Clarendon last night the newly elected officers of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Arlington County Master Plumbers Association were installed by Mrs. Elmon J. Ewing, president of the District of Columbia Auxiliary.

Those installed were: Mrs. A. B. McGonegal, president; Mrs. H. C. Messner, first vice president; Mrs. C. P. Nicholas, second vice president; Mrs. Paul King, secretary; Mrs. Stephen E. Childs, treasurer, and Mrs. William E. Wolff, sentinel.

The Parent-Teacher Association of Patrick Henry School will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

2 Drivers Held as Man Is Killed Near Savage

Louis Henry Haslup, 52 years old, of Savage, Md., was killed last night when, according to a police report, he was struck by one automobile and run over by a following car on the Baltimore boulevard near his home.

According to Corpl. J. T. Knight, of Maryland State police, Haslup was walking along the road when he was struck by a car driven by Frenk E. Kaufman, of Baltimore, Md. Following Kaufman's car was one driven by Lawrence A. Hasibeck, also of Baltimore, who was unable to avoid running over Haslup's prone body. Both drivers were held pending outcome of an inquest before Justice of the Peace H. W. Gosnell, of Savage.

ALEXANDRIA TROLLEY LINE MAY POST BOND

City Council Studies Plan to Insure Removal of Rails From Streets.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 123.

The city council yesterday considered the advisability of requiring a bond of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Electric Railway, which recently abandoned its service between Alexandria and Arlington Junction, to insure that the company would remove its rails and other equipment from the streets and restore them to the same condition as other streets. A meeting of the council with Mr. May will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of arranging a bond.

Application of B. B. Exine, V. Ward Boswell and James Murphy for rezoning certain property on South Washington and Jefferson streets were denied. These applications were opposed by E. E. Lawler, jr., as owner of property at 815 South Washington street, and Mrs. Ida M. Hill, of the 700 block South Washington street.

Attorney Frederick G. Duval appeared before the council in behalf of the manager of a grocery store on King street asking permission to sell soft drinks, ice cream, &c., on May 12 on a stand. This was granted with the proviso that the stand should not obstruct the sidewalk.

A resolution appropriating $1,302 to pay for advertising the new city charter was introduced and held over.

Grant Food Stand Permit.

Carroll Pierce, in behalf of the First Baptist Church, asked permission for the church to conduct a food stand on May 12 on King street, which was granted.

John Talbott Haslett requested that permission be granted for a Washington hotel to distribute advertising cards at the intersection of Patrick and Franklin streets, the cards to be placed in passing automobiles. After considerable discussion it was decided to deny this request, and to revoke all previous similar permits.

Application of Chester G. Pierce for permission to erect an iron fence in front of his property at 314 Duke street was referred to the city attorney for further information.

A communication was received from Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, asking that the council take steps to have the broadcasting studio of Station WJSV retained in Alexandria.

A communication was received from the Washington & Old Dominion Railway notifying the council that it would, on May 17, apply to the State corporation commission for authority to discontinue its passenger service between Rosslyn and North Alexandria Station, and to revise its schedule betwen Rosslyn and Bluemont.

Room Building Permit.

C. W. Entwistle was granted a permit to build a room on the rear of his store at 437 North Columbus street.

Application of Gardner L. Boothe, attorney for Mrs. Lillian Leadbeater, for refund of $33.81 paid as taxes on certain property in George Washington Park, which taxes had previously been paid by Henry Wildt, was referred to the city attorney.

Request of Dr. E. A. Gorman for permission to repair wooden cellar doors on his Duke street property was referred to the city attorney. The city manager was authorized to take steps to relieve conditions at Russell road and Lloyd avenue, where corners of the intersection are not hard surfaced as are the intersecting streets.

An ordinance was introduced and held for consideration requiring the owners of all vacant lots on which there is an accumulation of rubbish to remove it on receipt of notice from the city manager. In the event of failure to do so, same would be removed under the direction of the city manager and the cost should constitute a lien against the property. Authorized junk yards are exempted from the provisions of the proposed ordinance.

A mass meeting of the women of Alexandria interested in prohibition was held last night in the Virginia Public Service Auditorium, sponsored by the Alexandria Unit of the Organization for National Prohibition Reform. Mrs. Ben B. Cain, jr., is president of the local body, with Mrs. Albert A. Smoot as treasurer, and Mrs. Eugene Lindsey, secretary.

Miss Julia Sully, chairman of the Richmond branch, and former Representative E. J. Jones, of Pennsylvania, spoke.

Alexandria Council Hears Commuters Rap Bus Law

Petition Signed by 3,000 Urging Repeal of Ordinance Is Presented; Foes Charge Edict Creates Monopoly; Session Called Today to Act.

A special meeting of the Alexandria city council, held last night in the corporation courtroom to hear protests against the recent ordinance regulating bus traffic between Alexandria and Washington, was attended by approximately 350 persons and lasted more than two hours, during which a large number of commuters expressed their disapproval of the ordinance.

Harry F. Kennedy, president of the Alexandria Commuters Association, presented the case, and handed to the council petitions, containing approximately 3,000 signatures, urging that the ordinance which, it was claimed, created a monopoly in bus passenger traffic and legislated out of existence one of the competing lines, be repealed. A resolution adopted by the commuters at a mass meeting last Saturday night urged that an ordinance be substituted which would place all competing bus lines on an equal footing as to routes and schedules, and not stifle competition.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Councilman Michael T. Dwyer moved that a special meeting be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at which the question of repealing the ordinance would be disposed of. This was adopted, and prompt action promised.

A large number of commuters detailed their experiences with bus transportation since the advent into the field of what is known as the Blue Line, in competition with the A. B. & W., or Red Line, owned and operated by Robert L. May. Among those who favored the repeal of the ordinance, and the retention of the Blue Line, were Councilman-elect E. C. Davison, J. William May, representing the Travelers Protective Association, who stated his organization was interested only from the standpoint of personal safety; Mrs. Harold Abbey, who asserted the rights of the Alexandria citizens who patronized the bus lines were at least equal to those of the owner of one line; C. C. Dunn, who spoke of the lack of service between certain hours of the day, and voiced the fear that this condition would become worse if competition were eliminated; Mrs. Charles Astryke, who called the attention of the council to the fact that the voters and taxpayers of Alexandria pay for the roads traversed by the bus lines and should have a voice in their use; Mrs. Alfred S. Mason, Miss Mary Shaver, Mrs. Gilliam, Harold Abbey, who assured the council that the demonstration against the ordinance was not caused by any animosity toward Mr. May, but in the interest of good service and fair play; Mrs. Daisy Davis, who referred to the fact that the southeastern section of the city had never had bus service until the advent of the Blue Lnie; Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, who referred to the fact that the ordinance was adopted without previous notice to the public; James Trinkle, who called attention to the fact that the Red Line was granted a classification which is now denied the Blue Line; Harvey Janney and Sidney Weil, who asked for prompt consideration of the request of the commuters. A communication urging repeal of the ordinance was also received from the Cameron Club of Alexandria.

The only speakers who favored the retention of the ordinance and were in favor of the Red Line were Edward Birrell and Leslie Ryder.

President Kennedy, in his talk, expressed himself as certain that the council did not intend any injustice or unfairness to the commuters, and would, after careful consideration, rescind its former action, having in mind the needs of the community as well as the sentiment of those opposing the ordinance.

GEN. H. P. BIRMINGHAM RITES.

CHARLES WILLS DUFFEY.

Alexandrian, 78, Dies Suddenly; Survived by Relatives Here.

Charles Wills Duffey, aged 78 years, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 203 South Fairfax street, Alexandria. He was taken sick about 6 o'clock with what was supposed to be an attack of indigestion, but was later found to be a heart attack, and died about 7:40 o'clock.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Josephine Duffey, and a daughter, Miss Cora Duffey; a sister, Mrs. Millard Padgett, all of this city, and a brother, J. L. Duffey, of Seat Pleasant, Md. Mr. Duffey was for many years employed as a machinist at the Washington Navy Yard, and retired about ten years ago. He was about the youngest member of Robert E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans. Too young to enlist, he served the Confederacy when a boy in making ammunition. He had been a member of Columbia Fire Co. for 56 years. The deceased was also a member of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, and of Mount Vernon Chapter, No. 14, Royal Arch Masons.

REAR ADM. CHESTER BURIAL TO BE TODAY.

Noted Retired Officer Will Be Interred in Arlington National Cemetery.

Funeral services for Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, 68, retired naval officer who died Wednesday at his home in New York, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and H streets northwest. Services will be in charge of the Navy Department. Burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery.

Rear Admiral Chester, second oldest officer on the retired list of the service, was born in New London, Conn., February 29, 1844. He is survived by two sons, Arthur T. Chester and Colby M. Chester, jr., president of the General Foods Corporation of New York, and a number of grandchildren. While in Washington, in recent years, he lived at 1828 T street northwest and at the Cosmos Club.

The rear admiral was the principal in the "Chester concession" affair in the Near East, involving oil and rail developments by American capital in the Ottoman Empire. The concession, which at one time threatened international complications, was valued at $2,000,000,000. For fifteen years following his retirement in 1906 after 47 years' service, he was occupied with establishing American trade in western Asia.

During his naval career he participated in the Battle of Mobile Bay and held a number of posts, including the high command of the South Atlantic Squadron in 1897-99.

CLARENCE E. MORGAN DIES.

Funeral Services Will be Held Tomorrow Afternoon.

Clarence E. Morgan, 43 years old, a resident of Washington since 1907, and an employe of the Ajax Roofing Co., died Wednesday at Emergency Hospital.

Mr. Morgan was born in Wisconsin and educated at Pittsburgh. He is survived by the widow, formerly Miss Caroline Blick, of this city. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Hysong's funeral home, 1300 N street northwest. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

MRS. ALICE M. JOHNSON.

Late U. S. Official's Widow to Be Buried in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Alice Moore Johnson, widow of Ellis C. Johnson, who was solicitor of Internal Revenue during the Wilson administrations, will be buried today in Rock Creek Cemetery, it was learned last night.

Mrs. Johnson died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. P. Zerbee, in New Rochelle, N. Y. She was the daughter of Leander Moore, of Wilmington, N. C., and had been a resident of the District for the last 30 years.

JAMES IRA SCOTT RITES.

Burial Will Be in Cedar Hill Cemetery in Washington.

The funeral of James Ira Scott, who died Wednesday at his home, 208 East Windsor avenue, Alexandria, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home, with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Washington.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Frances Scott, he is survived by a son, A. Reynolds Scott, and a daughter, Miss Bonnie A. Scott; also two sisters, Mrs. H. B. Zirkle, Petersburg, Va., and Mrs. G. C. Wood, Salem, Va., and two brothers, E. W. Scott, Salem, Va., and E. C. Scott, Ashland, Ky.

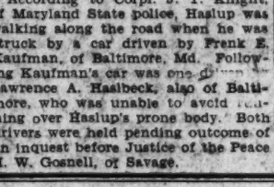
The B & O

leaves you nearer your doorstep in

NEW YORK and BROOKLYN

YOU may not be planning a trip to New York today or tomorrow. But sometime soon, undoubtedly, pleasure or business will take you there. When that day comes, remember that the B & O makes it unusually convenient for you.

After a train trip which we sincerely believe you will enjoy, you will be met directly at trainside in Jersey City by a fleet of Motor Coaches. They take you and your hand-baggage via ferry across the Hudson River. This is a very pleasant way to enter New York—refreshing, unhurried, and entertaining. The most sophisticated traveler is fascinated by the skyscraper-skyline of Manhattan Island, the thrill of seeing huge trans-Atlantic liners idling at their piers. Your Motor Coach whisks you smoothly through the streets of New York—past shops and famous business buildings—and delivers you at any one of 13 points in the city (or in Brooklyn, if that's where you are bound). Regular stops are made at many of the most popular hotels. The Wall Street section, theatre district, mid-town, up-town—whatever your final destination—a B & O Motor Coach lands you nearer your doorstep.



Ten B & O trains leave Union Station for Philadelphia and New York every day. At 7:15 A.M.; 8:00 A.M.; 9:00 A.M.; 11:30 A.M.; 1 P.M.; 2:40 P.M.; 4 P.M.; 5 P.M.; 12:35 A.M. and 3:30 A.M. (last two trains ready for occupancy 10 P.M.)

We urge you to try our railroad on your next trip. We are confident that you will enjoy a pleasant, restful journey, good meals at reasonable cost, the courteous attention of our train personnel. And that you will find our Motor Coach arrangement in New York extremely convenient. D. L. Moorman, Assistant General Passenger Agent. Tel. District 3300.

LEGAL LEADERSHIP URGED BY HUGHES

Law Institute Is Told That "Grave Responsibility" Rests on Profession.

An appeal was made yesterday to the American Law Institute by Chief Justice Hughes, who called upon the legal profession to furnish expert guidance and leadership in dealing with problems arising from this "time of many anxieties."

"Discouragement pays no dividends," he said to the gathering in the Mayflower Hotel. "It is not a time for relaxing effort, but for redoubling it, for increased activity on every front." He urged the members to strengthen the foundations of the law, saying, "What does it profit to attempt to perfect the superstructure if the foundations are left insecure?

"How is society to protect itself against the corrupting influences which tend to render it impotent to perform its primary obligations? That is the paramount problem of today. The bar, with its special knowledge, has a grave responsibility to furnish expert guidance and determined leadership in dealing with this problem."

Supreme Court Work Reviewed.

Reviewing last year's work of the Supreme Court, the Chief Justice said that despite changes in personnel one "unceasing purpose" runs through the court—"to maintain the integrity of a constitutional system designed to keep government within its assigned limits and, in the interest of an ordered liberty, to establish the rule of reason, recognizing and applying declared principles."

"This year will be especially memorable in the history of the Supreme Court," he said, "because it marks the retirement of Justice Holmes, beloved and revered, thus bringing to a close a career unique in judicial annals, and the coming of Justice Cardozo in the full tide of exceptional powers."

George W. Wickersham, president of the institute, in his annual address, asked that the law be studied in its entirety to see whether it meets conditions arising from adversity as well as those growing out of prosperity. The study of the law in its social concepts and the placing of less emphasis on mere definitions were urged by the former Attorney General.

Present Laws Discussed.

"That our present laws fail to prevent a large and varied amount of crime must be obvious to all intelligent observers," he said. "Too often, the only result of punishment is to create and saddle professional criminals as life-long burdens on society. The modern systems of probation and parole, when properly administered, have yielded results much more favorable to the protection of society than reformatory treatment or long-term imprisonment."

Eleven men were elected to membership on the institute's council of 33 members.

Those elected are Benjamin N. Cardozo, vice president of institute and associate justice of United States Supreme Court; Frederick F. Faville, judge of Supreme Court of Iowa; William I. Grubb, Federal judge, Alabama district; William Brown Hale, Chicago attorney; Learned Hand, Federal judge, New York district; Orrin K. McMurray, dean of University of California Law School; Emmett N. Parker, judge of Washington State Supreme Court; William D. Mitchell, Attorney General of United States; Edgar Bronson Tolman, Chicago attorney and editor of American Bar Association Journal; George W. Wheeler, retired Chief Judge of Connecticut; George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney General, chairman of President Hoover's committee on law observance and enforcement and president of American Law Institute.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

MME. ERNESTINE SCHUMANN-HEINK, America's beloved prima donna and foremost of the Wagnerian artistes of this generation, has accepted the invitation of the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission to sing in Constitution Hall on next Monday evening at the concert which will inaugurate Bicentennial Music Week in Washington.

The Philadelphia Harmonica Band, which has volunteered its services, will be on the same program with Mme. Schumann-Heink. This is one of the outstanding musical organizations of the country and the undisputed leader in its field.

The internationally famous Paulist Choir of New York, conducted by Father Finn, which, I believe, has not been heard locally for almost a decade, will give a concert in Constitution Hall on Tuesday evening, May 10, which will be the second special program of the Bicentennial Music Week celebration.

The third offering arranged by the commission will be the cantata, "Washington," by a massed chorus with the Marine Band Orchestra, Capt. Taylor Branson conducting. This will be given on Wednesday evening.

Subsequent programs will be made public in due course.

A letter from Robert F. Sisk, just plain Bob to a lot of people, brings some surprising information relative to the supposedly defunct institution of vaudeville.

"Vaudeville," says Mr. Sisk, "considered more or less as a 'dying duck' by picture producers last year, represented an investment of more than $11,000,000 on the part of Radio-Keith-Orpheum alone, and will exceed that figure by $9,000,000 this season.

"Another item: Hundreds of screen stars, of the talking as well as the silent era, are returning to vaudeville. Grand opera and the legitimate stages are represented every week in our bookings."

Well, of all things!

Joseph Schildkraut, who has been idling about Europe since he closed in "The Affairs of Anatol," will be back in the fall to join Eva La Gallienne's repertory troupe. Naturally his first part will be the title role in the revival of "Liliom."

Schildkraut played this part when the play was first produced by the Theater Guild, and he also had Miss La Gallienne as his leading woman.

Not that it especially matters.

Ace Berry, formerly division manager for RKO in this territory, with headquarters in Washington, is again a visitor in the Capital, being here in the nature of an exploiteer de luxe for the "road show" engagement of "Grand Hotel," at Loew's Columbia, beginning, as you may have heard, on Friday, May 13.

Norman Pyle, another former villager, stopped off yesterday en route from the Baltimore road show presentation of the same picture, at the Auditorium Theater, to Charlotte, N. C., where it is felt the natives can do with a little high-pressure ballyhooing.

E. Heiber, manager of the Interstate Film Co., with offices at 924 New Jersey avenue, will attend the annual sales convention of Universal Pictures, to be held in the Park Central Hotel, New York, Sunday and Monday, May 8 and 9.

More than 100 district managers and salesmen of the company will be acquainted at the convention with the program of pictures to be released during the fall and winter.

Although the full list of 26 pictures will not be divulged until Monday, Universal has purchased during the last year such well-known properties as the two Elmer Rice current plays, "Counsellor at Law" and "The Left Bank;" the Pulitzer prize book by Oliver La Farge, "Laughing Boy;" the J. B. Priestley novel, "The Old Dark House," and the famous Broadway play satirizing Hollywood and the movies, "Once in a Lifetime."

That supposedly inexorable law precluding a person's being in two places at the same time has been largely undone this week by Maxine Doyle, the Earle Theater's mellifluous mistress of ceremonies.

While Miss Doyle has been princessing on behalf of her native California at the Winchester apple blossom festival these past few days, she also has been announcing the acts at the Earle, as usual, through the medium of a talking trailer flashed upon the screen. She will resume her stage duties in person today.

Speaking of the Earle, one of the important acts on the vaudeville bill closing tonight is the interval of dance offered by Theodore, Enrica and Novello.

It may or may not be recalled that when Senorita Enrica last appeared in Washington the team was simply Enrica and Theodore—or maybe it was the other way 'round—and their turn consisted of the most violent sort of adagio daring. Senorita Enrica, I am reminded by Mr. Franklin W. Marsh, who reviewed her performance for The Post at the time, was stricken desperately ill during the Washington week and languished for many days in a local hospital.

The act now, with Novello added, is an exposition of graceful, though intricate, ballroom and Spanish numbers from which the hazards of the adagio form of divertissement have been largely eliminated.

Chico Marx, whose first name I invariably write "Chicago" the first time, has left the Hollywood hospital, where he has been confined by a fractured kneecap suffered in a motor car accident, and will convalesce at his Hollywood home until able to resume his part in "Horse Feathers," the production of which was suspended by his mishap.

It will be several weeks before the fractured bone will have completely knit. He is the one who plays the piano, in case you can not identify him any other way.

It just goes to show what they will do to get a little paragraph like this in print!

It seems that one of the extra girls in "Vanity Fair of Today," opening today at RKO-Keith's, is Ruth Tucker, a young woman who boasts that her great-great-granduncle—and you will have to figure that one out for yourself—was William Makepiece Thackeray, upon whose novel, "Vanity Fair," the picture is based.

Miss Tucker presented herself for a part in the picture upon no other claim than that of the remote relationship to the famous author. When documentary proof was presented to substantiate her claim, studio officials took advantage of the coincidence—if that is what it was—to secure just such items as this here now one. It seems to have worked pretty well!

And now, if you will pardon me, I shall hurry down to the Union Station and miss that train for Baltimore!

Southwest Spring Festival Opened

Procession by Children of Neighborhood House First-Day Feature.

The thirtieth anniversary spring festival of the Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest, was opened yesterday afternoon with a spring procession by the day nursery children of the house.

This was followed by a "Holiday in Make-Believe Town," by the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, in the natural open air theater of the Neighborhood House, with a song festival by the music school chorus following.

Last night's program consisted of "The Mayers Song," by the Girls' Club, "Bringing in the May," by the Boys' Club, and "Hansel and Gretel," by the Girls' Club. The program will be repeated today and tomorrow night. A May procession will be held on N street tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

QUOTA AT ANNAPOLIS DEFENDED BY BOARD

Cut in Appointments Hit in Report to Congress and President.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 5.—Curtailment of the number of appointments of midshipmen allowed senators and representatives which has been the subject of much controversy during the last year furnishes the basis of pointed comment in the report and recommendations of the board of visitors to the Naval Academy which was made public today. The board completed the annual inspections of the institution just a week ago, and copies of its report now go to the President and both branches of Congress.

On the matter of midshipmen appointments, the board says that even if the service may not require the full number of ensigns who would be turned out at the school under present arrangements, it would be advantageous to the Government to have a large force of reserve officers, especially when the creation of such reserve force would entail no great additional expense.

In this connection Congress has about decided not to reduce the number of appointments to less than three for each senator and representative, although for a time it was proposed to make the allotment two for economy's sake as well as the fact that the Navy's rolls are filled. During the last score of years the number has fluctuated between three and five.

Concerning personnel of the teaching staff of the academy, the board expresses its belief that the professional subjects, such as seamanship and flight tactics, navigation, engineering and aeronautics and electrical engineering, can be more effectively handled by officer teachers than civilian instructors and the reverse is true as regards mathematics, English, history, government and economics and modern languages.

The board points out that a distinct service to naval efficiency is being rendered by the postgraduate courses here, but adds that "In view of the larger classes to be organized, it is realized that the quarters available at the Naval Academy will be inadequate for the instruction and accommodation of the students." The board puts this question up to the Navy Department for further consideration. Incidentally, the department several months ago proposed the transfer of this school to the West Coast, but the plan was halted at the instance of a number of members in Congress.

The board makes a number of recommendations along the line of construction work, chief among which is immediate provision for living accommodations for at least 60 officers.

FRIDAY MAY 6, 1932 SPORTS

PITT TO MEET SHOREY IN ARMY-NAVY SEMIFINAL

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE White Sox are in town for a three-game series with the Nats, starting today, and reports have it that the Chicago players are sleeping on their uniforms these nights.

Manager Lou Fonseca evidently counts that day lost whose rising sun doesn't look down upon another deal by the White Sox. Fonseca, since he assumed the management last winter, has engineered four deals with rival clubs involving seventeen players and completely renovating the appearance of the Sox on the field.

Lu Blue, the only member of the 1931 infield still with the team, has accepted 779 chances at this early stage of the season, including handshakes with newly-arrived members of the Sox.

Fonseca might have been operating on the theory of relativity when he procured Seeds from the Cleveland club. With Caraway already on his staff, Seeds' acquisition is appropriate, to say the least.

The series starting today in Washington will be in the nature of a second trial for Jack Rothrock and Charley Berry, of the White Sox. Rothrock and Berry recently figured in six games against the Nats while with the Red Sox and can be pardoned for thinking that this year's schedule is just a case of Washington against the rest of the country.

Monte Weaver's masters degree in mathematics didn't help him to locate the plate against the Yankees the other day when he passed four batters in one-third of an inning. It couldn't help him to locate first base either in his only fielding chance, for his throw pulled Judge off the bag.

Looking at the standings of the National League, with the Braves leading and the Phillies and Reds also in the first division, this department is beginning to wonder if the law of gravity has been suspended.

The Polo Grounds has been a protracted pain in the neck to Manager John McGraw, whose Giants have won only one game at home, but doubtless the pain has been aggravated by the fact that McGraw has had to stretch his neck and look up constantly for a glimpse of his rivals in the National League race.

The Tigers have lost six games this season by a one-run margin, and the difference between Bucky Harris' teams of 1924 and 1925 and his current cast is that the Nats used to win these close ones.

The office statistician has just figured out that those 16 walks given the Yankees by the Nats' pitchers the other day would, if placed end to end, netted the Yankees 13 runs. And Gehrig's two raps that day, if placed end to end, would have stretched only to second base. He hit to the pitcher twice.

The slump of the Cardinals dates from the day that Gabby Street declared he had implicit confidence in his team because of the fact that it was "fundamentally sound."

Classic Tomorrow Is Thrown Wide Open by Withdrawals.

Tick On 2-1 Choice in Field Reduced to Dozen.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5 (A.P.).—The prospects of a wide open race in the Kentucky Derby this Saturday were heightened today by a final decision to withdraw another of the well-supported entries, the bay colt, Universe, winner of the Wood Memorial and owned by Thomas M. Cassidy, of New York.

Universe, which had been quoted around 6 to 1, developed a wrenched "coffin joint" or ankle socket after a workout. The Eastern colt failed to show sufficient improvement, after some heroic treatment this morning with ice packs, to warrant the risks of racing.

17 of 23 Stake-Winners Withdrawn.

This development was just another sample of the jinx that has pursued many of the star entries for the fifty-eighth running of the Blue Grass classic and robbed the race of much of its expected color. It follows the withdrawal of the filly Top Flight, winter book favorite, and the injury that forced out the main hope of the Midwest, Burning Blaze.

The casualties have been so extraordinary that no less than seventeen out of 23 stake winners in the original entry list have been withdrawn in advance of the actual starting nomination, which will be pulled out of the box tomorrow.

The chances are that not more than a dozen or thirteen horses will answer the bugle call for the $50,000 classic Saturday around 5 p. m., Central standard time.

Meanwhile the experts, lacking any standout to rely on such as Gallant Fox and Twenty Grand, wandered all over Churchill Downs looking for feed-box dope to back up their varying opinions or point some new clew to the probable outcome.

Aurora Daily Double Wins Player $3,100

Aurora, Ill., May 5 (U.P.).—Only one person guessed the winning combination on the second and third races here today—Tufinuf and Knockabout—and he collected $3,100 for a $2 ticket in the daily double betting conducted on those two events.

This payoff sets a new high mark for this form of betting on American tracks. Both horses were outsiders in the betting, Tufinuf paying $26.52 straight and Knockabout $111.52.

Swiss Netmen Beat Belgian Cup Team

Brussels, May 5 (A.P.).—Switzerland today made a clean sweep of its Davis Cup play with Belgium, winning the two final singles matches. Victories in the doubles yesterday and the two singles matches Tuesday sent the Swiss team into the second round of the European zone.

D. C. Boxers Eliminated At Garden

Burke, Ryon Knocked Out in National A. A. U. Bouts.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., May 5 (A.P.).—Washington's hopes of producing an additional amateur boxing champion this year were erased today when all three of the Capital's entries were defeated in the second round of the National A. A. U. tournament at Madison Square Garden, two of them victims of technical knockouts.

Kirkwood Burke, the city's 175-pound hope, lost on a technical knockout in the third round after he had absorbed a merciless beating from Tay Jeffries, of Philadelphia. John Ryon, of the American Legion, 126-pounder, was unable to answer the bell for the third round of his bout with Freddy Lynch, of Portland, Oreg. Steve Muti, 160 pounds, of the Jewish Community Center, was beaten by Johnny Riske, a hard puncher from Pittsburgh.

Muti Goes Down For Count of 8.

Muti, only one of the three to go the distance, was down for an eight count in the second round after Riske had caught him flush on the chin with a series of rights, but he got to his feet gamely and stuck it out the rest of the way. Riske was too fast and clever for Muti, who seldom could land with his long swings.

Burke, who has no club affiliation, did very well for the first round, forcing the fight and landing some good rights to Jeffries' body, but it was all Jeffries after the second chapter started. He caught Burke flush on the jaw early in the second and staggered the Washington boy around the ring, pouring in punches and bringing blood to Burke's lips. The end came after a minute and 25 seconds of the third. Burke, groggy and reeling about, was saved further punishment by the referee when it appeared another of Jeffries crushing blows might do serious damage.

Ryons' Gameness Wins Crowd's Admiration.

Although he was soundly licked, Ryon won the admiration of an early-afternoon crowd by his game stand against the hard-hitting Lynch. Jarred to his toes by Lynch's terrific lefts through the first round, Ryon could offer but little opposition when the Portland boy launched a furious assault in the middle of the second. A clean left sent him flat in a neutral corner and he still was on his back when the count reached seven, but he staggered up in time to run into another rain of blows.

Another left sprawled Ryon full length again and, despite his efforts,

Hadley Gives Six Hits; Browns Beat Red Sox

Boston, May 5 (A.P.).—St. Louis went on the rampage in the sixth and seventh innings today to beat the Red Sox, 11 to 3. Bump Hadley let the Sox down with six hits, while the Browns collected fourteen off four Boston twirlers.

Jolly collected a homer with McManus on base in the first inning.

Nats Seeking 7th in Row Today

Weaver Faces Chisox in Try for Fifth Straight Win.

Western Clubs Seen Generally Stronger Than in 1931.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

FOLLOWING a respite of two days which gave Manager Walter Johnson a chance to give his charges a brace of long batting sessions, the Nationals hope to pick up this afternoon where they left off last Tuesday, at which time they beat the Yankees for the third successive time, following a dose of the same treatment administered to the Mackmen.

It will be "Ladies' Day" this afternoon and the fair ones will be given the opportunity of seeing the revamped Chicago White Sox leading a parade of Western clubs here. Three games each will be played against the Sox, Indians and Tigers, and four against the Browns, making thirteen all told against the teams from the other sector.

Weaver Seeks Fifth in Row, Nats Seventh.

Monte Weaver will be seeking his fifth straight victory today and the Nationals their seventh in a row. Either Vic Frasier or the veteran spitballer, Urban ("Red") Faber, is expected so do the alien flinging.

Indications are that the Western clubs are stronger this season than they have been in the past, and, as a result, that a much closer pennant race is on, with more closely bunched teams battling for the money positions.

Cleveland and Detroit appear to be much stronger than they were last season—either that, or the Browns and White Sox are much weaker—for the Western teams have been playing among themselves so far this season, except yesterday, and the standings show the outfits headed by Roger Peckinpaugh and Bucky Harris to be right up there around the top of the ladder.

On their showing so far, both the Tribe and Tigers have been getting good pitching and good batting, but neither appears to be quite up to par afield. Gehringer, a big question mark on the Tiger list at the start of the season, seems to have regained the normal use of his arm and is hitting the ball hard and often, being tied with Babe Ruth for home runs, and young Davis, at first in place of the clumsy Dale Alexander, has shown quite a punch and about 100 per cent fielding improvement over his predecessor.

The Indians have been bemoaning the lack of a capable shortfielder for years and have obtained Chalmers Cissell from the White Sox and he is

Lombardi, Reds' Star As Braves Bow, 9 to 6

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Rid of the St. Louis jinx for a while, the Cincinnati Reds stepped out to defeat the league-leading Boston Braves 9 to 6, aided by the triple and homer with which Ernest Lombardi celebrated his return to the line-up.

His triple in the second bulked large in bringing in two runs. In the fifth Durocher walked, Kolp singled, Douthit singled, Grantham sacrificed, Herman snared a snap double, Lombardi cracked his home run and Gilbert's triple was only a gesture in the five-run rally.

The Braves were not downed, however. Fighting back with a flurry of singles, Spohrer, Maranville and Worthington, salted with pop-outs, they made those three hits mean three runs in the sixth.

MACKS ROUT INDIANS, 15 TO 3

Ferrell Knocked Out of Box; Foxx Gets Sixth Homer.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 (A.P.).—The Athletics' murderers' row got into action today and ruined a pitching "natural" between Lefty Grove and Cleveland's ace, Wesley Ferrell, to give the A's a 15 to 3 victory in the first game of their home stand against the Western clubs of the American League.

The defeat, Ferrell's first of the season after five victories, dropped the Indians to third place.

Grove did his full share of pitching, limiting Cleveland to six hits and fanning five. He didn't give a run until the seventh inning when Willie Kamm hit a homer with Vosmik on base.

As if to make up for the loss of a shutout, the champions fell on Ferrell in that same inning and scored seven runs to increase their lead from 8-2 to 12-2. In that frame, they batted clear around, collecting eight hits off the big right-hander and Pete Jablonowski, who relieved him after two were out and six runs were in. Grove got two of the hits.

7th Homer for Terry As Giants Beat Cards

St. Louis, May 5 (A.P.).—The New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals waged a battle today in which the number of pitchers used was more apparent than their skill. The Giants won, 10 to 6, and climbed out of the National League cellar, passing the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Cards used five pitchers, who yielded fourteen hits, including Bill Terry's seventh homer of the season in the first inning. Three Giant hurlers gave eleven hits.

CROWD IRED AS WILSON LOSES

McMillen's Victory in Feature Bout Is Unpopular.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

JIM McMILLEN, who used to be the most unfamous man in sport—the guy who ran interference for Red Grange, and got spilled on his ear while Grange ran to fame and a certain measure of fortune—did a little spilling of his own last night at the Washington Auditorium when he dumped the good Dr. Wilson after 47 minutes of expert tumbling.

It was not a very popular decision. In fact, several infuriated $3 patrons wanted to fight McMillen, and it was all he could do to keep from blowing the lot of them over. About 100 more or less rabid fans milled about the ring, and McMillen took a couple of folded-up programs on his strictly fresh cauliflower ear, but when he made ready to leave the ring most of the palukas who had been demanding that he "come outside" lost their voices and lapsed back into the drab mediocrity which is their lot in life.

It was a little out of the ordinary, the ending of the match. McMillen threw Wilson three times with flying mares. The third time Wilson landed in the ropes and became all ensnarled. He tried to stand up and

Manor Star Wins From Medalist

Lynch Beaten, 1 up; Shorey Coasts to Two Victories.

McCarthy and Carver Other Survivors in Tournament.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

A REAL golf battle is expected this morning in the semifinal round of the championship flight in the spring invitation tournament of the Army-Navy Club, when Harry G. Pitt, former Middle Atlantic champion and Manor Club champion, goes forth to struggle with John C. Shorey, his fellow-member in the Manor Club.

The two other survivors for the semifinal round are M. F. McCarthy, former champion of Beaver Dam Club and a golfer of recognized skill, who meets E. J. Carver, another Manor Club member, who is having his initial experience in the foremost ranks.

In yesterday's morning round, Pitt engaged Joseph P. Lynch, the freshman student of Georgetown University, who won the qualifying medal, and for a time Pitt seemed destined to elimination from the tournament. He was 4 down at the ninth hole but thereupon staged a remarkable comeback. He evened the match by winning the next four holes in succession and by scoring a birdie deuce on the seventeenth green became 1 up, emerging a victor when the last hole was halved.

Shorey Has Less Trouble.

Shorey had less trouble in defeating Dolph W. Atherton, 3 and 2. In the afternoon both Pitt and Shorey had walk-away matches, Pitt defeating William L. Pendergast, 7 and 5, and Shorey coming in with a score of 6 and 5 against Melville B. Bennett, the youthful star of the Congressional Club.

The contests in the consolation flight of the first sixteen this morning will not be lacking in interest. Paired against each other in the upper half are Lynch, the medalist, and M. Parker Nolan, the seige gun hitter of the Congressional Club. Lynch played against Leroy D. Sasscer, the Indian Spring Club champion, in the afternoon and when he had captured four birdies in the first five holes, Sasscer's fate was a foregone conclusion, the match ending 7 and 5. Nolan won over Atherton by the wide margin of 6 and 5. In the lower half of the bracket Luther B. Steward, Jr., who tied for low gross in the Congressional Club tournament last

CANRON, WORKMAN UP, WINS PIMLICO FEATURE BY A NOSE

Vaughan Filly Just Lasts In Stake

Sets Pace From Post to Beat Delicacy and Late Date.

Peacock Scores in Gentlemen's Race, C. K. Basset up.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 5.—Sonny Workman supplied the expert handling and Canron supplied the speed here today that accounted for The Lady Baltimore purse, but they both had to be in top form, as Delicacy and Late Date finished so close to W. W. Vaughan's filly that the group might have been mistaken for a three-horse team. A chariot was all that was needed to complete the picture. The chartmakers called it a nose and a neck, but those who bet Delicacy and failed to consider the angle called it something else.

Workman got Canron away from the barrier well, shaking off Argosie before the clubhouse turn Suntica moved up on Canron on the swinging to the back stretch. Late Date was laying close by, with Delicacy last.

Workman and Canron Hug Rail.

Except for a sixteenth, when Laura Gal moved up, there was no change in the order until the turn for home. Suntica died out. Late Date was sliding up and Delicacy was becoming a serious contender. Workman hugged the rail on Canron and both Delicacy and Late Date charged on the leader at the wire.

The crowd showed an increase for the first time during the meeting, being estimated in the neighborhood of 12,000. Close finishes marked several races while the steeplechase held interest among the early races.

Workman's victory was the first since the Washington boy underwent an operation. He had to work every minute in this race and shared the glory with the filly.

Pennywise, the property of A. H. Morris, came to the races today and took into camp the maidens that accepted the issue in the first race. Miscalculate was second, with Billnora third. For the fourth straight racing day, Jockey Bejshak had the mount on the winner of the first race. Clear Knight, the favorite, tired after running along with Pennywise to the far turn.

Gentlemen Riders Have No Spills.

The Pink Coat Steeplechase for hunters over a course of 2½ miles and involving sixteen jumps resulted in a victory for Peacock, owned by the Rams Head Stable. Bandit, Augustus F. Goodwin's gelding, was second and Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Tereus was third.

The gentlemen riders were more fortunate than the professional steeplechase jockeys. Not a fall was recorded and only one of the field of thirteen failed to finish. Langholm was pulled up at the fifteenth fence when he bled. The winner was brilliantly ridden by C. K. Bassett. This pair set most of the pace and was threatened at the finish by Bandit and J. V. H. Davis. Peacock held a length advantage. The winner was overlooked to a large extent in the betting and paid a $20.60 mutuel.

The Walker-Sage Stable entry ran one and two in the third race, with Paramour coming up to win by a half length over Brown Pet, which set the pace from the break. Boardwalker, which went wide at the stretch turn was third.

The LeMar Stock Farm's Mouthpiece won the Ridgely, booked as the fourth race.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PENNYWISE, $5.90, $3.90, $4.00; MISCALCULATE, $3.80, $3.70; BILLNORA, $9.80.

PENNYWISE, following close to CLEAR KNIGHT from the start, secured command midway of the turn, saved ground thereafter and, under slight pressure, held MISCALCULATE safe. Latter, hurried into a contending position, responded for the final drive, but could not reach the winner. BILLNORA, well placed and forced to race on the outside, closed gamely in the final issue. DAY DREAMER showed a good effort throughout. CLEAR KNIGHT weakened fast after having good speed for the first half mile. TREBOY went evenly. The others were outrun.

SECOND RACE—Two and one-half miles. Purse, $2,000 ;allowances. For hunters, 5-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:36. Off at 2:37. Winner, Ram's Head Stable's ch. g. (4), by Golden Broom—Oay Plumage. Trained by T. Morris. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 4:52 2-5. (16 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PEACOCK, $20.60, $8.70, $6.60; BANDIT, $4.90, $4.00; TEREUS, $4.00.

PEACOCK, fencing well and taking command at once, was steadied along for the first mile and one-half, shook off repeated bids from VIRGINIA LIGHTNING and, holding on stoutly for the final drive, had enough in reserve to withstand BANDIT. Latter, reserved for the first mile, moved up fast when put to a drive and closed stoutly. TEREUS, prominent for the entire trip closed willingly when the test test came. BOLTON made up ground steadily in the late stages. VIRGINIA LIGHTNING lacked ground to stand fencing boldly, but faltered in the final half mile. GOLDEN STAR II was held safe throughout. KIM was never a factor.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Howard (second division). For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:12½. Off at 3:18. Winner, Sage Stable's ch. c. (3), by My Play—Loved One. Trained by P. M. Walker. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:14 1-5.

*Field. †Sage Stable-P. M. Walker entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARAMOUR (entry), $4.20, $3.90, $3.00; BROWN PET (entry), $3.90, $3.00; BOARDWALKER, $3.90.

PARAMOUR, reserved until reaching distance of the leaders, came stoutly when placed to a drive and, securing racing room on the inside through the home stretch, wore BROWN PET down under punishment. BROWN PET sprinted into a good lead, saved ground and held on gamely until the end. BOARDWALKER worked her way on to the outside, lost ground at the stretch turn, but finished gamely. LOVELAN, a slow beginner, made up ground in the final stages.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Ridgely Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:51. Winner, Le Mar Stock Farm's b. g. (4), by Country Boy—Loving Cup. Trained by C. G. Cassar. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40, 1:45.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOUTHPIECE, $9.50, $3.40, $2.40; SUNVIR, $3.30, $2.40; PENDING, $2.80.

MOUTHPIECE, rated near to the pacemakers and kept on the outside for racing room, came with excellent speed when straightened into the home stretch and wore the leaders down to get up in the concluding strides. SUNVIR, steadied in front, was put to a stout drive when entering the home stretch and held on stoutly. PENDING, under stout restraint for six furlongs, finished in determined fashion when put to a drive. COLOSSAL saved much ground and was a keen factor throughout. DAISABURO and ANNIMESSIC went well.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $3,000 added. Allowances. The Lady Baltimore. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:24½. Winner, W. W. Vaughan's br. f. (3), by Catalan—Rona. Trained by T. Morris. Value to winner, $2,850; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $100. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:40, 1:47.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANRON, $4.80, $3.40, $2.60; DELICACY, $6.30, $4.10; LATE DATE, $4.60.

CANRON, quickest to get going, took command under steadying restraint, withstood a tenacious effort from SUNTICA when leaving the back stretch, came determinedly when straightened into the home stretch and, vigorously handled approaching the finish, just lasted long enough. DELICACY, reserved off the pace, moved up fast entering the home stretch, came very wide, but, closed strong and would have been winner in a few more strides. LATE DATE, well placed and saving ground where possible, finished between the first two and was gaining steadily.

SIXTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Trojan. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:02. Off at 5:04. Winner, R. S. Clark's ch. c. (2), by Stroiling Player—Armide. Trained by M. Smart. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 0:54 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KEGGY, $23.30, $12.20, $8.30; INDIANTOWN, $7.30, $7.10; ALEETA, $10.90.

KEGGY, kept in the first flight while under stiff urging, secured racing room on the inside during the stretch run and closing fast, wore INDIANTOWN down in the final sixteenth mile. INDIANTOWN, hard hustled from the break, raced SUBMARINE into submission and continued with good speed when challenged. ALEETA, well up throughout, came willingly nearing the finish. NEW SUN, forced to race wide from the start, was going stoutly at the end. MISGUIDE could not menace the leaders. GARDEN MESSAGE was outrun for the entire journey.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Pruse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:30. Off at 5:31. Winner, Mrs. J. M. Franklin's b. f. (4), by Dumlin—Parade. Trained by J. M. Black. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:41, 1:47 4-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FERVID, $5.10, $3.20, $2.70; LOUIS MERRYMAN, $4.70, $3.70; PAS ENCORE, $6.70.

FERVID, slow to settle in her stride, circled her opposition when moving into contention; took command midway of the turn into the home stretch and, withstanding stout drive, just lasted to stall off LOUIS MERRYMAN. Latter, a trailer early improved his position rapidly and finished with excellent courage. PAS ENCORE raced TORTWAY into submission while saving ground, but was unable to stay when challenged in the final five-sixteenths mile. STEPPING SISTER, well up and saving ground early, came wide into the home stretch.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

DEAR AL:

Danny McAuliffe, who was injured after a race the other day, was hurt yesterday before the horses got to the post. He had the mount on Crumplay and was tossed to the track when the juvenile shied. The boy was stepped on and suffered a bruised and cut thigh. They booed two decisions long and loud, but I was in position to see the finishes and can O. K. both. Pete Bostwick bought Colossal and then rode the horse out of the money.

If your money itches for action today, I recommend the following assignments.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DECANTER showed keen speed after a sluggish start at Havre de Grace and I expect Eddie Watters to get her away faster tomorrow. Unless some of the non-starters show exceptional form, there appears little in the race to beat. BORA has been to the races twice and improved the last time. May be second. NEMERC'S one test was fair.

SECOND RACE — MOONSTRUCK was a smart jumper last year and is reported fit. Finished a length behind Sun Eclipse here last fall. Pete Bostwick may ride. LEBEY, veteran timber-topper, has been a consistent horse for years. MUSKOGEE, while lacking some of the class of the others, is picked for third. He fell the other day just as he was making a move with two fences to go.

THIRD RACE—HUT came through with a nice effort at Havre de Grace. Was slow in breaking, but that may be changed tomorrow. Finished full of run and looked like a promising young filly. HAPPY ANNE has been in the thick of the fight for purses both times out. Carried Cantoria to a head decision and set the pace here before finishing third. TREMENDOUS for the third money.

FOURTH RACE — HORATIA has been scratched twice but seems likely to try this one, where her chances for victory are good. Finished close up on Broadway Lights in the last. HATTERAS ran a race at the Graw that would make him a keen contender in this test. FIFE for the short end.

FIFTH RACE—Trying to make SERGEANT DONALDSON defeat GAY PARTY, ULUNIU, BRIGHT BIRD and other fast sprinters. THE SERGEANT is as game as anything in the race and a good ride will see him take it all at the finish. BRIGHT BIRD won three out of four races and moves on top if the track is anything but fast. GAY PARTY reached his peak at the Graw but may not like this track as well.

SIXTH RACE—Sticking to CHOSEN PAL here. Did everything expected the last time. Meets faster ones here, but I believe he can come through. At least, his stretch run will have the others dizzy. GLORIA MARIS is a front running animal that CHOSEN PAL will be called upon to catch in the stretch. BOKIE B. for the show end.

SEVENTH RACE—RUANE hasn't won since last year at Laurel, but the veteran has been fighting for purses and seems to be ready for a winning effort. Finished fast the other day. YOUR FLAG will have an excellent chance if the mud comes up. STRONGHEART for the lesser award.

DUKE U. NINE WINNER OVER MARYLAND IN TENTH, 7-4

Coombs Wins In Duel of Pitchers

Wolfe and Chalmers Play Sensationally Afield.

Two Singles, Shore's Homer Break Tie; Final Score, 7-4.

MARYLAND played its best baseball of the season yesterday, but in the final analysis it was wasted effort, for Duke won out in a ten-inning game, 7 to 4. Thus Coach Shipley's hopefuls saw their winning streak snapped at five victories and their seasonal record balanced.

Given brilliant defensive support, the Maryland pitchers were unable to hold up their end of the burden, as Steve Physioc yielded two runs and five hits in the first three rames, while Bill McIlwee wilted toward the finish after four innings of fine relief pitching. McIlwee was charged with the defeat.

Jack Coombs, nephew of the former Philadelphia Athletics' star pitcher, hurled the entire game for the Blue Devils. He didn't prove to be exactly a sensation as was his uncle, who now coaches Duke, but he was steady and cool and equal to the occasions when Maryland tried to pull the game out of the fire.

Fourth Win of Season For Coombs.

The victory was the fourth of the season for Coombs and his twelfth in thirteen starts as a college pitcher. His lone defeat was inflicted this year by North Carolina State.

Each team got an unearned run and another that was merited in the early frames. In the seventh, Maryland took the lead by scoring twice with the aid of two walks, one of which was intentional. Bozie Berger, major league prospect, who had singled twice in three previous trips to the plate, drew the free pass to fill the bases with two out. But Duke's strategy failed to work, Shorty Chalmers hitting the first ball pitched for a clean single to score a pair of runs.

Then McIlwee weakened, Duke scoring two in the eighth to create another deadlock at 4-4. McIlwee contributed to his downfall with an error on an outfield throw that permitted Coombs to score on Harrington's double. Harrington initiated Duke's game-winning rally in the tenth by singling past Wolfe. A single by McKlethan and a home run by Shore followed in succession.

The fielding of Wolfe and Chalmers for Maryland excelled anything of its kind seen in college baseball hereabouts this spring.

TOMORROW'S DERBY WIDE OPEN CONTEST

The Loma Stable's Tick On, chief hope of the East, remained a 2-to-1 choice against the field and probably will go to the post the favorite, mainly for the reason that the rest of the public support is scattered among four or five other contenders.

Kentuckians, with the habit of looking to Col. E. L. Bradley's horses to uphold Blue Grass prestige, have real confidence in Burgoo King, paired with Brother Joe. If the prediction of showers for Saturday is fulfilled, Brother Joe, a mudder, may come through, but Burgoo King has looked better in the workouts. The Bradley entry's odds of 4 to 1 may shorten.

The "hunch" players are busy building up the chances of Stepenfetchit and Over Time, the entry of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, largely because Earl Sande and Buddy Ensor will be in the saddles, as well as J. H. Louchheim's speedy Economic and "mystery star" of the Three D's Stable of Texas—Liberty Limited.

Liberty Limited is the colt that has most of the experts guessing. The Texas entry has turned in some startling times for sprint distances, but shown a tendency to sulk over the mile-and-a-quarter route. Today the colt galloped 5 furlongs in 1:00 1-5, but finished the Derby distance in the mediocre time of 2:12. Its trainer as well as its backers assert it has not been let out, but will be ready to go at top speed all the way Saturday.

Hoops Earns Chance To Start.

Economic turned 6 furlongs today in 1:15⅕ and Lucky Tom, winner of the Louisiana Derby, breezed a mile in 1:43 1-5, but other workouts, including Tick On's, were confined to easy gallops.

Hoops, the chestnut gelding owned by W. F. Knebelkamp, has not been figured as likely starter, but performed so sensationally today in winning the third race at a mile, in 1:37 3-5, that it will be coupled with a stablemate, Adobe Post. The Derby this year is just the sort of a race that an added starter might find to its liking.

The mile performance by Hoops was better than any Derby contender has shown this week. Its owner, Knebelkamp, declared immediately "Hoops is a certain starter in the Derby and has a good chance to win."

Although many notables were on hand, the slimmest advance gathering of turf followers in years made the Downs look deserted this afternoon under the hottest sun of the spring.

Reds Barry, Veteran at 18, Signs to Meet Champion

Starts Training for Rosenbloom Bout on Birthday.

By JACK ESPEY.

AT THE tender age of 18, Mrs. Mary E. Berry's boy, Donald—known to local boxing fans as Reds Barry—yesterday celebrated his birthday by signing a contract to compete against a world champion.

It was the greatest May 5 in his life, Reds will tell you, but he no sooner signed the contract offered by Promotor C. E. Cornell than he began training and building plans to meet the champion, Maxie Rosenbloom, who rules the 175-pound division.

Barry and Rosenbloom will clash in a ten-round bout featuring the opening program of Twin City Arena on May 23. Rosenbloom's title will not be at stake, inasmuch as Barry can not reduce to the light-heavyweight limit.

Still comparatively an infant, but only in age, Barry has fought 42 bouts since donning the padded mittens as a professional in 1929. He is today regarded as the best heavyweight prospect developed in Washington during the past decade. Exactly 25 of Reds' battles resulted in victories, while ten found him on the losing end and seven others were declared draws.

Barry had no idea of becoming a boxer when he walked into the Mohawk Club seven years ago seeking to earn some spending money. He wanted to sweep up the gym and perform various other chores for the boxers and managers who gathered there daily.

But within three years the lure of the sport of busting beaks had Reds closely in tow and he drew on the gloves for the first time in an amateur show in 1928 with Gus Mirman, present District amateur light-heavyweight champion. Barry won in three rounds. Shortly thereafter he again met Mirman and lost on a foul. This marked the end of his amateur career. He turned pro in 1929 and lost to Walter Kirkwood in his debut at Portsmouth, Va. The same year he defeated Kirkwood. Then began a streak of successful appearances that has brought him to the top of local fistic ranks.

DEGLANE DUE BATTLE AT BOLLING

Mat Title Claimant Meets Wykoff in Feature Tuesday.

HENRI DEGLANE, claimant of world's heavyweight wrestling title, will endeavor to prove he is far removed from the "cheese champion" class when he stacks up against handsome Lee Wycoff in the new outdoor arena at Bolling Field Tuesday night.

Awarded the Bowser championship when allegedly bitten on the arm by Ed (Strangler) Lewis in Montreal a year ago, the firey Frenchman since has more than made good against the best opposition offered him.

Has Thrown Sonnenberg And George.

Ired by claims that his title was undeserved, Deglane proceeded to toss such standouts as Gus Sonnenberg, "Don" George, Marin Plestina, Joe Malcewicz and other ringleaders of his trust.

Probably the hardest struggle experienced by Deglane since assuming his throne was furnished by Joe Malcewicz, who meets Jake Patterson in a cofeature of Tuesday's card. Malcewicz recently relinquished a close decision to the Frenchman after a two-hour grapple.

Supplementaries listed on the card feature: Danny Winters vs. Pat O'Hara, August Benkert vs. Joe Cook and Louis Allaire vs. "Bull" Garnon.

Tickets go on sale today at Ahearn's haberdashery, 500 Ninth street northwest.

CAPITAL'S AMATEURS DEFEATED IN GARDEN

it was evident he couldn't get up. The bell ending the second round saved him from being counted out. His second half-carried him to a chair and worked hard over him, but Ryon's legs still wouldn't support him when the bell announced the final round, and officials declared Lynch the winner by a technical knockout.

Two sensational heavyweight giants, Fred Feary, of Stockton, Calif., and the Negro, Stanglow Slater, of the University of Michigan, guaranteed the United States a brilliant Olympic defense against the big men of all nations.

Feary, 200 pounds of cold punching power, knocked out the supposedly invincible Jack Kilcullen, burly Yale tackle, in the third round of the feature battle of the quarter-final round. Slater battered down Earl Sather, from Minneapolis, runner-up in the 1931 championships, in less than a minute of the first round.

Both Feary and Slater were making their second appearance of the day and both more than lived up to their starting performances in the height of a six-hour session this afternoon, when 52 bouts, 22 of them ending in knockouts, whittled the big field down to the last eight in eight classes. Both scored one round knockouts this afternoon.

filling the bill in fine style. Fielding has been their greatest weakness in the past, for they have an array of good hitters and the possibility of a better-than-average mound staff, headed by Wes Ferrell.

If the Western teams are stronger than last year, Manager Johnson will be particularly pleased. "We've never had much trouble with them, except that the Browns have had the jinx on us on occasions, and I hope that the reports of their general strengthening are true. We'll get our share of games from them, while I figure that they will be a big help to us in knocking off the only other two teams we fear—the Mackmen and Yankees.

"We've got a nice lead over the Athletics now, but I still respect them and pobody can tell me that they're out of the race yet. You know, the first three or four weeks of a season don't mean much. Class will tell in a long race and it takes a team that gets off to a bad start quite a time to hit its normal stride. Several teams that are up there now maybe don't belong there and within the next few weeks you will see all of the entries gradually drop into their proper niches.

"In the meantime, of course, we hope to take advantage of the good start we received and make as much hay as possible against the Western clubs. All of our pitchers are ready; with Roy Spencer back on the job, we have no injured players, and, if Heinie Manush, Buddy Myer and Ossie Bluege start hitting at their normal stride, I have no complaint to make."

WILSON DEFEATED IN MAT FEATURE

impaled his neck between the reversed middle and top rope like the Charlie Chaplin movies. His tongue hung out.

McMillan walked across the ring and poked a nice right slap to Doc's face, which seemed to irk the customers no end. They finally unscrewed Wilson. He wobbled around and walked into a flying butt. McMillan flopped on top of him and downed him, but Bennie Bortnick found that Doc had his fingers crossed, so he disallowed it. Then McMillan picked Wilson up lightly and dropped him. That was all.

It was one of the most interesting matches in recent weeks. The boys put on a great falling, jumping, diving, twisting and grimacing exhibition. Frequently they aimed simultaneous flying butts, and the midair collisions were swell.

The other bouts were not particularly hot. Howard Cantonwine was given a wofully weak opponent in Pat McKay and had trouble carrying him 14 minutes. Fritz Kley was moderately amusing with his handstands and bone melting while he beat Wankah Zelesniak in 18 minutes. George Kotsonaros took 31 minutes to beat Jim Corrigan and George Hagen beat Alex Aberg in 31 minutes.

Kley, Kotsonaros and Hagen were post entries, taking the place of Jack Washburn, Fred Grobmeier and George Manich. Grobmeier is on the shelf with a bad ankle, Manich has some sort of seven-year itch and Washburn is in jail somewhere for throwing an opponent with a left hook and kicking the referee out of the ring.

TILDEN AND RIVAL PLAY HERE

Big Bill-Kozeluh in Pro Feature Sunday at Wardman.

HEMMED in on all sides by foreign tennis aces, Big Bill Tilden, who is getting to be known as the Grand Old Man of American Tennis, gives another exhibition of his net wizardry here Sunday afternoon at Wardman Park Hotel at 2:30 o'clock.

Tilden's direst foe, now that his battles with the U. S. L. T. A. are a thing of the past, will meet him in the feature singles event Sunday. He is Karel Kozeluh, noted Czechoslovak professional, who recently defeated Tilden, 7—5, 6—1, and carried the old maestro to five bitter sets when they met here last year.

In the minds of a couple of thousand net fans, last year's meeting between Kozeluh and Tilden at Wardman was the greatest match ever played here. Tilden, down at 2—4 in the fifth set because of the superb steadiness of the rubbery Czech, fought back on even terms and won on a fine display of reserve strength and devastating service.

Kozeluh Gains Strength During Inactivity.

Since the close of last season, Tilden has been constantly on the go, playing all over Europe and the Southland of this country. Kozeluh has been more or less in retirement, gaining back the strength Tilden ran out of his last year. That Kozeluh is in great physical condition is manifested by his recent victory over the most flamboyant figure tennis has ever seen.

Hans Nusslein and Roman Najuch, Germany's best netmen, make up the rest of the Tilden entourage Sunday. They meet in a single match and team in doubles against Tilden and Kozeluh. It will be Washington's first glimpse of Nusslein, who, at 22, is professional champion of Europe and holds three decisions over Tilden himself.

Tickets went on sale yesterday at Spalding's and the hotel. Prices range from 75 cents to $2, the latter being box seats.

Chevy Chase Net Plays Starts Today

Williams-Washburn Are Seeded First in Doubles Event.

Play will start today in the annual Chevy Chase Club invitation doubles tournament. The yearly tennis party was to have started yesterday, but the inability of many of the players to arrive on time caused the opening matches to be put off until today.

R. Norris Williams and Watson Washburn, members of the American Davis Cup team of 1920, which won back the trophy from Australia, are expected to be seeded No. 1 in the two-day meeting of superannuated but still skillful netmen.

Manuel Alonso, one of the most dynamic figures the tennis courts have ever seen, may enter the Chevy Chase event. The Spaniard has not played actively since 1927. Others who have expressed willingness to compete are Henry Brunie, noted as an indoor court player of high merit around New York; Ned Herndon, Arthur McPherson and Cedric Major.

Matches will be held in both the mornings and afternoons.

Star Mermaids Here For Meet Tomorrow

Led by Eleanor Holm, one of the few bathing beauties who ever learned to swim, the New York Women's Swimming Association will send a team to Washington tomorrow night to combat the newly formed Shoreham group of tank women at the hotel pool.

Miss Holm is holder of the national back stroke championship and several other titles of note. Aiding and abetting her will be Joan McSheehy, former national back stroke champion; Susan Robertson and Lisa Lindstrom, also noted in women's swimming ranks.

The local team is dominated by Onalene Lawrence, diving and backstroke star; Lenore Taube and Rita Augusterfer.

REVENGE AIM OF OLD LINE STICKMEN

Maryland-St. John's Clash at Lacrosse Tomorrow.

ALTHOUGH the St. John's-Maryland lacrosse game that will offer the climax to field day at College Park tomorrow is scheduled to start about 4 o'clock, it will be no "pink tea."

Maryland has a "hard-riding" but clean-playing combination and the same may be said about St. John's.

St. John's, with its smaller student body, has not been able to take the measure of its old rival in football and basket ball in recent years, but has been the nemesis of the Old Liners in lacrosse, into which the Annapolis school throws all its athletic assets.

St. John's has beaten the Old Liners for the past three years in the stick game and as a result has won the national title all of these seasons. Last year St. John's won by 3 to 2.

Contests scheduled today for Capital collegiate teams are as follows: George Washington vs. Duke (golf), at Indian Spring, 2:30 o'clock; George Washington vs. St. John's of Annapolis (tennis), at Columbia Country Club, 2:30 o'clock; Maryland vs. William and Mary (tennis), at Williamsburg, Va., and Georgetown vs. Princeton (tennis), at Princeton, N. J.

Pitt Defeats Army-Navy Medalist; Meets Shorey

Wednesday, is paired against Craig McKee, George Washington University, who came within two strokes of winning the medal in the Army-Navy qualification.

The first and second round matches yesterday were remarkable for the unusually large number of one-sided contests. Only three went to the nineteenth hole and only one was carried as far as the twenty-first. In the later, J. William Harvey, jr., defeated Charles W. Cole, jr., his youthful fellow-member in the Indian Spring Club. Cole was 3 up in the first three holes, but Harvey's recoveries enabled him to square the match at the ninth and it was again all even when the eighteenth had been played.

Cole lost the twenty-first hole by taking three shots from off the green. Harvey, however, lost his afternoon round. Dr. S. T. Noland, Washington, was 1 down on the eighteenth tee against F. T. Ward, Congressional, but won the hole by running down a long half-stymied putt, and then ended the match in his favor when he approached dead to the cup on the nineteenth green.

The summary:

Gonzaga Nine Upsets Tech in 10-3 Game

Tech High's baseball team was handed a surprise yesterday when Gonzaga walked away with an easy 10-3 victory, scoring more than enough runs in the first chapter to win the ball game. The tussle went only six innings, because of the time limit on the Monument diamond on which it was played.

Maryland Women Set Two Pin Records

Two tournament records for women were set last night in the Maryland State bowling tournament at Bethesda alleys. Sue Miller and Naomi Zimmerman, both of Baltimore, established the news marks, rolling together for a 686 doubles record, and Miss Zimmerman knocking off a 360 singles standard. The doubles record consisted of sets of 353 and 333, while Miss Zimmerman had games of 122, 123 and 115 in the singles.

ST. JOHN'S WINNER.

St. John's Golf Team defeated Gonzaga yesterday, 9 to 0, over the East Potomac course. One match was close, that in which McNamee, of St. John's, defeated Sawyer, 2 up.

Ruane defeated Jarvis, 7 and 5; Stanley defeated Merkle, 9 and 7; best ball, 8 and 7; Ortman defeated C. Berberich, 6 and 5; O'Leary defeated B. Berberich, 5 and 4; best ball, 7 and 5; Ferriter defeated McMahon, 5 and 4; McNamee defeated Sawyer, 2 up; best ball, 5 and 4.

EASTERN AND BUSINESS-CLASH

Little Chance Today for Stenogs; Other School News.

ITS winning streak already amounting to twenty consecutive high school series games, Eastern High is expected to add another link to the chain this afternoon on its home diamond when Business High is met ta 3:30 o'clock.

Eastern, with its fifth championship almost in hand, needs today's victory to give it a winning record of 3 and 0 for the series. If victorious today, only Western lies between it and another title.

With a battery of splendid high school pitchers, Dick Lanahan, Francis Cleary and Cecil Hale on tap, along with a slugging threat in Eddie Fitzpatrick, whose three home runs ruined Central last week, Eastern should win handily today, even though the Stenogs are a scrappy crowd this year and occasionally a brilliant outfit.

Business Hard Hit by Garner's Failure.

Much of the sting, however, has been taken out of Business by the scholastic failure of Jimmy Garner, pitcher. This leaves only Lou Silverman in

THE GARBLE SISTERS.

(They discuss the Pulitzer awards and other topics.)

"WELL, what do you think of the Pulitzer commission?"

"I was glad to see Morrie McCutcheon get the prize for his book called 'My Experiences in Of Thee I Sing.' It was very good."

"I was surprised to see Gen. Pearl Kaufman's play win out. What was the name of it?"

"'The Flowering Earth,' wasn't it?"

"No, it was something about Theodore Roosevelt in China."

"Anyhow, they were pretty good awards this year, although I thought the poetry prize should have gone to Mrs. Hargreaves."

"Mrs. Hargreaves?"

"Yeah. She's the lady who came over from England at the age of 85 and wrote all those Alice in Wonderland stories in which Earl Carroll was the hero."

* * * *

"I never saw so much news in the papers. What do you think about that feat of Lily Pons?"

"She refused to shake hands with that Hawaiian prosecutor when the jury disagreed, didn't she?"

"You're thinking of Mrs. Keith-Miller. Lily Pons is that opera star whose voice was tried on a machine and found equal to more decibels than a street car."

"What's a decibel?"

"It's like an atom only it's harder to split it."

* * * *

"WHAT do you think of the political situation?"

"It looks to me as if Al Smith had Coolidge stopped."

"I dunno. Coolidge came right back at him by having his pictures taken landing a 2-pound trout in a Connecticut stream owned by Judge Seabury or somebody."

"Smith is all right, but I didn't like his charge to the Massie jury."

"We all make mistakes. What did you think of the defeat of Smedley Butler in Massachusetts?"

"He never should have run in that State against a man as well known there as Bossie Gillis."

"Pinchot lost out in Rhode Island, didn't he?"

"Yes. Matt Brush was too strong for him."

* * * *

"Ain't it orful the way Congress is delaying balancing the tariff?"

"All I can make out of it is that John Nance LaGuardia is holding up everything by insisting that the Army and Navy be merged with the Federal Reserve Bank so that short selling can be stopped in the Philippine Islands."

"Not only that, but he wants to make all Federal employes take two days a week off and plant home gardens instead of marching in beer parades on behalf of the forgotten man."

"I see where Henry Ford stopped at the White House recently and refused to buy 'The Red Boy' painted by Andrew Mellon."

"I thought that was Huey Long."

"No, I am surprised that you don't know who Huey Long is."

"Who is he?"

"He's the man who refused to pardon Al Capone under the Goldsborough bill, despite Tom Mooney's speech."

EARNINGS INCREASED BY DE FOREST RADIO

Larger Sales Indicate Cut in Previous Losses; Oil Reports Favorable.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Leslie S. Gordon, president of De Forest Radio Co., informed stockholders in a statement today that the company has "concrete assurance" its business was "stepping up."

The corporation's sales for the first quarter increased month by month he said and its unfilled orders at present are larger than at any time during the past eight months. February was 14 per cent ahead of January, March was 19 per cent above February and April was 18 per cent higher than March.

In the twelve months ended March 31 the company had net loss of $136,-394 after allowing for acquisition of Jenkins Television Corporation. Figures are not comparable with a year ago because of changes in the financial structure.

So far this year, Gordon said, the company has received about 95 per cent of the transmitter business placed by the Federal Government, while new patents have "materially strengthened" its position in television which promises "some interesting developments within the comparatively near future."

Associated Oil.

Axtel J. Byles, president of Tide Water Associated Oil Co., told the stockholders at their annual meeting today that the company would be "out of the red" in its first quarter of this year. Earnings figures will be published soon. The stockholders approved a reduction in the stated value of the no par common stock in the balance sheet to $10 a share from $15.

Westvaco Chlorine.

Westvaco Chlorine Products Co. reports for the quarter ended March 31 net income of $109,046 after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equal to 24 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $223,439, or 82 cents a share in the first quarter of 1931.

American Rolling Mill.

The American Rolling Mill Co. reports net loss for the March quarter of $571,917 after all charges, compared with net loss of $663,049 in the March, 1931, quarter.

Homestake Mining Co.

The Homestake Mining Co. has declared monthly dividend of 75 cents, placing the stock on a $9 annual basis, compared with $7.80 previously. The dividend is payable May 25 to stock of record May 2.

Russia Reported in Market For 100,000 Tons of Wheat

America Told Moscow Buys 40,000 Tons From Canada and 7,000 Tons in Australia; Grain Shortage Indicated, Observers Say.

London, May 5 (A.P.).—The financial district heard today that Russia had turned wheat buyer, having contracted for 40,000 tons of Canadian grain and 7,000 of Australian at "ordinary grain cash terms."

These reports had it that Russia was in the market for a total of 100,-000 tons of wheat, and this was interpreted to indicate that Siberia was short of grain.

Some authorities held that it probably would be cheaper to transport the grain across the Pacific than to send it overland from the Russian Black Sea wheat fields.

The grain already contracted for will be shipped from Canadian and Australian ports to Vladivostok.

The Vancouver Sun said Wednesday that it had confirmed the sale of 1,500,000 bushels of grain for shipment to Russia from Vancouver.

The paper added: "With Russia, three months ago regarded as the greatest menace to other wheat exporting countries, now back in the world market as a buyer, Vancouver grain men believe that possibly 10,-000,000 bushels of wheat would move through Vancouver to Siberia within the next few months.

"While the requirements of the Russian military forces in Siberia are considered the chief cause of the Canadian orders, the underlying reason for the shipments is believed to be new famine conditions in the Volga section of Russia."

Great excitement prevailed on the Buenos Aires Grain Exchange yesterday over the same reports that circulated through Russia today. Agitation began simultaneously for resumption of trade relations by Argentina with the Soviets.

(Associated Press.)

While having no authentic reports, Agriculture Department grain officials said yesterday, it is quite likely that Russia has entered the world wheat market as a buyer and may take quantities of North American stocks.

They point out that the Soviet had a short crop last year and that rationing has been resorted to to provide seed for new planting and some wheat for export.

From press dispatches, officials have been wondering if the Russian purchases are not for its army in Siberia. It might be cheaper to buy wheat in Canada and ship it across the Pacific than to bring it up from Russian points.

It was held probable that Russia is buying western Canadian wheat because it is cheaper, and that may be the means of removing a large part of the North American wheat surplus.

There is some wheat available for export in the American Northwest, but it seems Canada would benefit more than the United States from any wholesale Russian buying inasmuch as it would prove too costly for Midwestern growers to compete with Vancouver shipments. The exchange rates favor Canada.

Leslie A. Wheeler, in charge of foreign agricultural information, said "there is no question but that the 1931 Russian crop was a poor one. We know that the Soviet government has been rationing for a long time to provide seed for planting and also for export. It probably is true that when Russia exported 50,000,000 bushels at the start of the season, it overshot its mark and has had to make up its needs in other ways."

Latest figures, while not covering the 1931 crop, show that revised estimates of Russia's huge 1930 production are 989,000,000 bushels, as compared with the 1,034,000,000 estimate made a year ago.

The Commerce Department has no information on Russian wheat buying, but since some trade reports say Russia has a surplus of 10,000,000 bushels which it persumably is willing to sell, officials there said they were surprised that that country would now be buying wheat.

Market Comment

Following are excerpts from yesterday's leased wire market comment in Washington brokerage offices. These tabloid surveys will appear daily on the market pages of The Washington Post.

National City Bank—Action of the Federal Reserve authorities in determining to buy United States Government securities on a largely increased scale is probably the most important stroke of central bank policy ever made. Open market operations have never been undertaken before on the scale cited, but some way needs to be found to increase the amount of credit available, and evidently bolder and more powerful methods are called for than ever have been necessary in the past.

Westheimer & Co.—The market appears now to be fairly well sold out and stocks should be a purchase on any further weakness. The market is likely to take its cue from Washington developments, particularly with respect to tax legislation.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—We would be inclined to distrust the rally until there is a better tone to bonds and bank stocks, in spite of the fact that there has been an accumulation of good news the past few days. Those markets might furnish a better idea regarding amount of necessitous liquidation taking place. * * * There are few signs of increased business or profits, however, and prospects in Europe are no brighter. Until there is some assurance that liquidation of collateral loans is lessening we see little reason for changing the policy of cautious buying only on weak spots.

Our London office cables that a prominent newspaper is headlining the danger of currency inflation in United States.

Standard Statistics Co.—In the larger centers, particularly in New York, there are indications that institutional investors are inclined to adopt a more liberal attitude toward bond purchases, because of the rapid accumulation of surplus funds which must be employed. Enlarged buying of Government obligations by the Federal Reserve Banks is the dominant factor in the outlook and, if persistently carried out, could go far toward offsetting the bank liquidation and other factors which recently have depressed prices. Given reasonably favorable developments in other directions, definite price stimulation in the higher-grade divisions of the bond list should ensue.

United Press—Prospects that Congress would turn to a sales tax to help clear up the country's financial muddle started a rally on all security and commodity markets late today. Wall street, always a champion of a sales levy as the best medicine for Uncle Sam's sick Treasury, was cheered by indications that the proposed tax was making more friends in Congress. This feeling was first reflected by a sharp turnabout in United States Government bonds.

RESERVE BANK ADDS TO CREDITS VOLUME

Outstanding for Week Rises to $1,842,000,000 as Bill Total Drops.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending May 4 was reported by the Federal Reserve Banks as $1,842,000,000, an increase of $83,-000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $870,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

On May 4 total reserve bank credit amounted to $1,859,000,000, an increase of $74,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponds with increases of $50,000,000 in money in circulation, $33,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $4,000,000 in unexpected capital funds, non-member deposits, &c., and a decrease of $23,000,000 in monetary gold stock. It was offset in part by an increase of $35,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $7,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, $6,000,000 at Philadelphia, $4,000,000 at Atlanta and $26,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks combined. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market declined $1,000,000. Holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $16,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills $30,000,000.

Brokers' Loans in Week Total $499,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended May 4 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday as $499,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 compared to the preceding week.

The loans for the week ended May 6, 1931, were $1,699,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

For own account, May 4, 1932, $440,000,000; April 27, 1932, $427,000-000; May 6, 1931, $1,293,000,000.

For account of out-of-town banks, May 4, 1932, $52,000,000; April 27, 1932, $59,000,000; May 6, 1931, $213,-000,000.

For account of others, $7,000,000, $9,000,000 and $193,000,000.

UTILITY SECURITIES AUCTION POSTPONED

Federal Court Injunction Stops $10,000,000 Sale in Chicago.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—The auction of common stocks of three public utility companies, on which a minimum value of more than $10,-000,000 had been placed, was postponed today following the issuance of an injunction against the proceeding by the Federal court in Chicago.

While the bankers, with whom the securities were pledged by two Insull holding companies now in receivership, announced that the auction had been put over until tomorrow, it was understood the postponement was generally considered indefinite.

In the meantime it was said representatives of the banks concerned—the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co., Chase National, Guaranty Trust and Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co.—planned to go to Chicago to confer with receivers of the Corporation Securities Co. and the Utilities Investments, Inc., which pledged the stocks.

It is hoped that an agreement with the receivers can be reached which will facilitate the holding of the auction. The stocks to be sold were those of Commonwealth Edison Co., Peoples Gas, and Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois.

Back-to-Farm Aid Meets Opposition

Wholesale Placing of Idle on Lands Fought by Secretary Hyde.

(Associated Press.)

Wholesale "back - to - the - farm" movement of industrial unemployed is opposed by the national advisory and legislative committee on land use, created under the direction of Secretary Hyde.

Citing personal tragedies and group distress attendant upon such efforts in the past, the committee has requested Congress to give the Agriculture Department authority to guide the movements now taking hold in many large industrial centers, and which may react against farmers.

There is need, the committee said, "for a public policy in guiding and directing them and in preventing exploitation, resulting in the adoption of unwise types of land settlement."

Efforts to promote colonies of unemployed on undeveloped lands was frowned upon by the committee.

CORN LEADS GRAINS, CLOSING AT ADVANCE

Wheat Sags to Small Loss as Oats Sell Higher; Provisions Decline.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Corn came suddenly to the front today as grain trade leader and finished at an advance in price, whereas wheat and other cereals were laggard.

Rebounding after a fall to the lowest quotations since 1897, corn attracted unusual speculative attention owing to curtailment of receipts and improvement of cash demand. Some pit authorities said that although stocks, wheat and "what have you" had been persistently sold against corn, the market for corn was now showing a better foundation than had been seen for months.

Corn closed firm, ¼ to ⅝c above yesterday's finish; wheat, unchanged to ½c lower; oats, unchanged to ½c higher, and provisions, 2 to 5 cents down.

Reports that 20,000 bushels of corn had been sold for shipment overseas contributed to the energy with which the market rallied from early downturns. The transient weakness of corn was ascribed to sympathy with wheat market unsettlement, a result in turn of instability of stocks. While the corn market at this stage was being dominated as of late by the action of wheat and of securities, little notice was taken that shipping demand for corn was increasing in good earnest.

It was disclosed that shipping purchases here in the last few days had totaled 750,000 bushels and that country offerings to arrive were dwindling almost to zero. Upturns in corn prices followed quickly. Receipts of corn at primary points totaled but 324,000 bushels, compared with 403,000 a week ago. The maximum rise in corn values from the day's bottom was almost 2 cents a bushel.

Wheat, rye and oats responded to corn price bulges and wheat recovered most of an earlier loss of 1¾ cents. Some late buying of wheat was attributed to bullish crop reports from the Southwest. Lack of support rather than aggressive selling was largely responsible for the transient setback of wheat, together with bearish action of the market at Liverpool.

$75,000 FIRE RAZES PLANT AT CULPEPER

Public Service Power and Ice Building Destroyed After Storm Bolt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., May 5.—A lightning bolt struck the power and ice plant of the Virginia Public Service Co. here last night and destroyed the plant, valued at from $75,000 to $100,000.

During the severe electrical and rain storm, a bolt of lightning that was too heavy to be gorunded put all wires in flames. The bluish electrical light given off from the fire brightened the skies over the entire town.

The building was destroyed in less than an hour.

Much excitement and anxiety was aroused as the firemen played their hose on the large wholesale gasoline tanks which were in the adjoining lot. One tank had become so hot that it gave off steam when the water was played upon it. The company's service men were put on the job immediately after the fire and had restored electric service to the town by 8 o'clock this morning, by making direct connections to the company's main lines.

There is a large silk mill, lumber yard and steam laundry in adjoining lots and these were successfully protected by the volunteer firemen.

Layman Yowell, the night attendant at the plant, and his brother, William, were severely shocked. Layman being shocked into unconsciousness for several hours and recovered satisfactorily after medical treatment. Neither was seriously shocked.

Royal Dutch-Shell Head To Attend Oil Meeting

New York, May 5.—J. B. Aug Kessler, managing director of the Royal Dutch-Shell group, is reported on his way from Europe to attend the international conference for oil stabilization being held here.

It is understood that the Soviet representatives who arrived this week came at the invitation of Charles E. Arnott, president of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation.

Wall Street Briefs

(Associated Press.)

The total value of checks passing through clearing houses in leading cities for the week ended May 4, as reported to Bradstreet's, amounted to $5,849,561,000, compared with $4,547,655,000 in the preceding week. A considerable part of the increase was due to a 33 per cent gain in New York. Excluding this city, the gain was 9.5 per cent.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement Thursdays regarding any change in the rediscount rate of 3 per cent.

The alleged unwillingness of banks to extend credit and the tendency of the steel industry to leave untouched the huge piles of scrap iron and steel on which bank loans once were made have brought the scrap metal industry to the lowest point in its existence, according to Benjamin Schwartz, director general of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc.

The New York Stock Exchange has received notice from the General American Investors Co., Inc., of a proposed change in the authorized preferred stock to 100,000 shares of no par from 100,000 shares of $100 par and a reduction in capital represented by outstanding preferred stock to $50 a share from $100.

W. G. Stuber, president of Eastman Kodak Co., said on his departure for Europe that reports received from the company's subsidiaries indicated that business abroad is showing some pick-up. This is especially true, he said, of England and the Argentine. He declined to make any predictions as to the action of directors when they meet for dividend action on May 11.

Another steel manufacturer today added his voice to the chorus of protests against the alleged "dumping" of foreign steel products in the United States. E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Co., cites the increase of 50 per cent in imports of iron and steel products in March as compared with February, as evidencing the "urgent necessity" for emergency legislation to check the movement of foreign steel to domestic markets.

Appointment of a committee of British holders of securities of the Nitrate Corporation of Chile, the $375,000,000 Chilean nitrate monopoly, known as Cosach and its associated nitrate companies, was announced today at the local headquarters of Cosach. Bankers for Cosach have been meeting here since the end of March with a view to effecting a reorganization of the company.

General Mills Co., Inc., reports production of flour of mills in leading milling centers for the five weeks ending April 30 at 6,185,466 barrels, compared with 6,784,088 barrels for the same period a year ago.

April shipments of rayon yarn are said to have shown a considerable decrease as compared with March, and stocks are now estimated at normal. Further curtailment of yarn production is forecast in trade circles.

Indiana Standard Oil Profit Declines

Total $17,596,396 Net Shows $1.04 on Shares; $2.73 in 1930.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and its subsidiary companies made a net profit in 1931 of $17,596,396.

The annual report, released today just prior to the meeting in Whiting, Ind., showed earnings of $1.04 a share compared with $2.73 in 1930.

In 1931, 86,971,621 50-gallon barrels of oil were marketed, in comparison with 113,999,784 in 1930. The sales of gasoline this year fell off 9 per cent from those of 1930.

Edward G. Seubert, president, said this resulted "because we wouldn't take business under cost. That's why our business shrunk. We wouldn't pay the tribute to get it."

Stockholders numbered 99,426 as of December 31, 1931, as compared with 99,851 a year ago. In the first three months of 1932, the total stockholders passed the 100,000 mark. The average holding on December 31, 1931, was 170 shares per stockholder.

Seubert said all of the officers and directors would be reelected at the Whiting meeting.

On the last day of 1931, Standard of Indiana had total current assets of $243,687,228 against current liabilities of $28,789,501. This was a ratio of 8.46 to 1. The 1930 ratio was 5.4 to 1.

Listed in the current assets was $61,904,618 marketable securities, virtually all at present market values.

Seubert said he expected negotiations to be completed tomorrow for the sale to Standard of New Jersey of the foreign properties of its subsidiary, the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co.

Sugar Drop Sets New All-Time Low

Raw Sells for $2.58 Per Hundred, Decline of Two Cents.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—New all time records were broken today in raw sugar when sales were confirmed at a decline of 2 points. The business included 33,300 bags of Porto Rican and 22,500 bags of Philippines in near positions at 2.58 cents a pound to local refiners.

In the absence of any new development in the spot market, futures were comparatively quiet and price movements were narrow and unimportant.

The refined market was easier, with refiners reducing list prices 2½ points to the basis of 3.75 cents a pound for fine granulated, or the lowest level recorded since early in 1913. Demand, however, showed no signs of broadening and was still confined to nearby requirements only.

ADAM A. WESCHLER & SON, Auctioneers.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF BUSINESS PROPERTY NO. 1227 NEW YORK AVENUE NORTHWEST.

By virtue of a deed of trust recorded in Liber 6310, folio 157, et seq., of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at request of party secured thereby, undersigned trustees will offer for sale, by public auction, in front of premises, on MAY SIXTEENTH, 1932, at 4 p. m., the following-described property in said District: Part of original lot 5, in square 296, beginning at a point on New York avenue distant 28 feet southwesterly from the southeast corner of said lot, and running thence northwesterly, at right angles to said avenue, 83 feet 3 inches, to a point in the rear line of said lot, equally distant between the northeast and the northwest corners of said lot; thence southwesterly along said rear line of said lot, 33 feet 4½ inches to the northwest corner of said lot; thence southeasterly along the west line of said lot, 85 feet, to New York avenue; thence northeasterly along said avenue 26 feet to the beginning; being also known as lot 15 in Mary Moore and others' subdivision in said square, as per plat thereof recorded in the Office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia, in Liber H. B. 25, folio 181.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of purchase money to be paid in cash, balance in equal installments, represented by promissory notes of purchaser payable in three years, with interest at 6 per cent per annum from day of sale, payable semiannually, secured by first deed of trust upon property sold, or all cash, at option of purchaser. A deposit of $1,000 required of purchaser at sale. Examination of title, conveyancing, recording and notarial fees at cost of purchaser. Terms to be complied with within twenty days from sale; otherwise trustees reserve right to resell property at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser, after five days' advertisement of such resale in The Washington Post, or deposit may be forfeited, or without forfeiting deposit trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable rights against defaulting purchaser.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

AT THE advanced age of 65, "old John Y." Smith excels at lifting feats no middleweight of any age in the world can equal. Fast approaching the allotted "three score and ten," the marvelous lifter recently stood erect while holding a 370-pound weight in one hand, and 200 pounds in the other!

He did not take up weight lifting until the age of 30, and was not at the height of his strength until past 37. Many of his pet lifts, such as lifting a 210-pound bar bell from the floor with one hand, and without letting it touch his body, pushing it to arm's length overhead, have never been duplicated. On one occasion, he lifted 225 pounds with his right hand and 215 with his left in this manner.

Although a middleweight, Smith has many records to his credit that very few heavyweights have been able to equal. In Philadelphia, in 1926, at the age of 60, he set two world's records. With his right hand, he made a dead lift of 450 pounds, and accomplished 425 pounds with his left.

For a favorite training stunt, "John Y." grabs a heavy weight in each hand, and walks around, climbing stairs, &c. Once he held 240 pounds in one hand and 220 in the other and walked 75 yards. Another feat was that of lifting a 1,640-pound horse by standing beneath it.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU MAY PLACE UTILITY TAX IN MAPES PLAN

Analysis of Capper's Bill Slows Up Report on Levy Program.

SENATE UNIT'S HEARINGS ARE POSTPONED FURTHER

Measure May Bring About Lowering of Amounts on Other Sources.

The Bureau of Efficiency is considering Senator Arthur Capper's bill for $1,449,445 in increased utility levies as a unit with the Mapes income tax measure, Thomas F. Murphy, assistant chief of the bureau, disclosed last night.

The Capper bill, proposing utility companies and other public corporations be taxed on tangible personal property as well as real estate, substitutes a 2 per cent franchise fee for the current 4 per cent gross earnings tax.

Slows Up Final Report.

Analysis of the measure has slowed up the Efficiency Bureau's final report on the Mapes program, as section 22 of the Mapes income tax bill specifically exempted from income levies local corporations subject to the gross earnings tax, Mr. Murphy said.

As a result of interrelating factors, it may be ten days or longer before the two measures are in final shape for report. Both would be covered in a single report.

The Senate District committee is holding up hearings on the $4,000,000 Mapes taxation bills until the bureau's study of the income and the fiscal relations bills is completed. Hearings are finished on the Mapes estate tax, automobile weight tax and the increased gasoline tax bills.

New Source of Revenue.

In framing the new corporation tax, Senator Capper pointed out local utilities "have been getting off lightly" in the matter of taxation. He said it was his object to tap a new source of revenue. Railroad structures, long exempt from taxation, were brought into the picture by the Capper proposal.

Probability was seen that the measure would result in materially lowering additional amounts that will have to be raised from other local tax sources.

The bureau will report on the House bill abolishing the 60-40 Federal-District fiscal relation basis immediately after its income tax analysis is complete.

Special Taxation Is Urged For Financing of Schools

A threefold plan for the financing of the public school building and improvements program was advanced last night at a meeting of the Burroughs Citizens Association in the John Burroughs School. The schools committee of the association made the following recommendations:

1. That school items be segregated from other items in the District appropriation bill and that they be financed by a special tax.

2. That the money secured by this special tax be expended by District officials chosen by the people of Washington (an elected school board).

3. That a tuition fee be charged the parents of all children who are not bona fide residents of the District for one year.

The schools committee was requested to investigate complaints that substitute teachers were being used at the John Burroughs School who were not graduates of Wilson Teachers College.

Impelled by the fatal accident last night at Twenty-second and Otis streets northeast, the association again went on record as recommending that Twenty-second street be made a boulevard from Rhode Island avenue to Bunker Hill road, with stop signs on all intersecting streets.

Kane Again Wins Final Prize Debate

Alumnus of Georgetown Spoke for Gould Club in Finals.

For the second consecutive year, Al Philip Kane, of the District of Columbia, last night won the final prize debate at the Georgetown University Law School between the champions of the various law clubs of the school. Mr. Kane, a graduate of Georgetown College, is a member of the senior class at the law school, and spoke for the Ashley M. Gould Law Club. He will receive a faculty prize of $50 in gold on commencement day as well as a $25 prize for winning one of the preliminary contests to decide entries in the final.

The debate last night took the form of the trial of a legal case in an appellate court. William Joseph Rowan, jr., chancellor of the Edward Douglas White Law Club, presided, and the other contestants, besides Mr. Kane, were Lawrence Augustine Hince, '33, of the District of Columbia, for the Gould Club; John Edward Farrell, '32, of South Orange, N. J., for the White Club, and Jack Charles Morgan, '32, of the District of Columbia, for the John Carroll Club.

The judges were Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of the District Court of Appeals; Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, of the District Supreme Court, and Justice Jesse C. Adkins, of the District Supreme Court. Each is a member of the Georgetown law faculty.

Illegal Operation Laid To Two in Girl's Death

Mrs. Mamie S. Johnson, 40, of 1714 D street southeast, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergt. Floyd Truscott, of the homicide squad, and charged with performing an illegal operation in connection with the death on April 24 of Miss Mildred Rogers, 2032 Belmont road.

Later Byron S. Carson, 35, 2032 Belmont road, was arrested and booked on the same charge. Both were released on $1,500 bond. Warrants were obtained by Detective Truscott.

SENATE UNIT VOTES ON RAID BILL TODAY

Capper Will Read Report From Mitchell; Tydings to Offer Plan.

The Howell "home raid" bill will be brought to a Senate District committee vote at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, Chairman Arthur Capper will read a report from Attorney General Mitchell on the measure.

At the same session, Senator Millard E. Tydins (Democrat), Maryland, will offer his amendment for a District referendum on the prohibition enforcement bill.

Yesterday he referred to the number of minor arrested in Washington for liquor infractions in a speech on the floor of the Senate. He said five times as many have been arrested since prohibition than in the ten previous years. Police records show 1,000 places where liquor has been sold, he said.

"Why, in every household where men gather here in a social way, cocktails are offered, and wines flow and people laugh at it," he said.

Senator Tydings will offer his referendum amendment to the Howell bill on the floor of the Senate. If the District committee reports the bill without the provision.

$10 Bills Passed By Counterfeiter

Auto Filling Stations Are Victims of Bogus Money.

The counterfeiter who is working the automobile and filling station trades for a good thing with his bogus $10 bills is becoming more adept at passing them off. In the first case reported to police he only obtained a 20-cent can of shellac from a filling station attendant Wednesday night.

His next venture brought him a 60-cent spark plug and $9.40 change. The man, who is colored and about 40 years old, appeared at the Triangle Motor Co., North Capitol street and New York avenue, shortly after opening time and asked for spark plugs.

He chose a 60-cent plug and was given change. Then he walked hurriedly away. He was out of sight before the salesman discovered that the paper he held in his hand was a quarter of an inch shorter than a piece of legal tender and was a brighter green in color.

Girls at American U. To Stage May Day Fete

More than 100 girls of American University in the colorful costumes of old England will participate in May Day festivities Saturday afternoon on the outdoor amphitheater on the campus, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The campus paths will be lined with flags of the days of old England, Ireland and Scotland, leading to the amphitheater, where an elaborate program will be given under direction of Miss Dorothy Wulf.

Queen Elizabeth and her court will witness the crowning of the May queen, who is to be selected by popular vote, and whose identity is to be disclosed at the opening of the ceremony.

POLICEMAN BALKED IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT

Capt. Holmes Jerks Revolver From Yoste's Hand on Maryland Farm.

Private Julian Yoste, First Precinct policeman, was under observation at Gallinger Hospital last night after he had yesterday morning attempted to kill himself with his service revolver because of the recurring effects of a recent operation.

The policeman, who is 32 years old, was frustrated in his suicide move by Capt. William E. Holmes, of the First Precinct, who, apprised of Yoste's intention, rushed to the latter's farm near Clinton, Md. Capt. Holmes arrived just as Yoste was raising the gun to fire and wrested it from him.

The police official had been called on the telephone by Yoste and informed of the suicide project. With Precinct Detective James Kane and Sergt. C. A. Musselman, Capt. Holmes started a race to reach Yoste before he accomplished his purpose.

Yoste fought furiously for a moment and then followed a reaction of violent weeping. As the three policemen brought him back to this city, he begged their forgiveness for causing so much trouble. He was first examined by a police physician at Emergency Hospital and then transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

Yoste lives with his wife and two children at 2210 Sixteenth street southeast.

Last Sunday Private J. W. Casey, Fourth Precinct policeman, killed himself with a pistol on the farm of his brother-in-law near Drury, in Anne Arundel County, Md. Casey was under suspension in connection with charges of driving while drunk. Yoste was in good standing on the force.

Kiwanians Select Parley Delegates

President Edwin Hill and Dewey Zirkin to Attend Detroit Convention.

President Edwin F. Hill and Vice President Dewey Zirkin were elected delegates to the International Kiwanis Club convention to be held in Detroit June 26 to 30, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington Kiwanis Club held yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Raleigh. Alternate delegates chosen are James B. Edmunds and Secretary Charles R. Huff.

Kiwanians O. U. Singer and Earl D. Krewson were applauded when they were awarded a silver loving cup won by the Kiwanis bowling team in the Civic Bowling League. Kiwanian Steve Talkes reported that a series of fifteen band concerts for the benefit of children at the tubercular school will start on May 19, the fifteenth anniversary of the Washington Kiwanis Club. Chairman Archie Meatyard of the attendance committee announced that the Maryland team, captained by Edgar Morris, was leading at the end of the eighth week.

Bell and disc selections were played by Clarence Stetson, accompanied by James K. Kimball.

President Edwin Hill spent last night as a guest at the Martinsburg, W. Va., Kiwanis Club.

Cat Defies World to End Its Broadcast From Tree

A young cat, out for a tree-sitting record behind the Washington Seminary, 3640 Sixteenth street, was wrecking the peace of the neighborhood last night, and seemingly nothing could be done about it. The cat was starting on its thirtieth hour in the tree and from a vantage point about 30 feet above ground was broadcasting to an indignant and impatient world.

After listening to such a broadcast all Wednesday night, one of the teachers had appealed to police yesterday. Police decided it was a case for the Animal Rescue League. A rescue league representative appeared on the scene, but soon went away after a futile effort at bringing the cat from its perch.

Another call to the Tenth Precinct Station was transferred to the Fire Department. The firemen said they had gone out of the cat rescue business. Their last public appearance in such a role was several months ago when one of the feline family became stranded on the roof of a three-story house in the Southeast section. The cat made a contemptuous leap to the ground just as two firemen reached the roof top to take it in tow.

Meanwhile students and teachers at the seminary, their eardrums aching, were wishing something could be done to end the endurance contest.

POLICEMAN RELATES ATTACK BY KENDRICK AND HIS COMPANION

Prosecution Ends Testimony in Case of Assault on Thomas Bacon.

COURT HEARS YUDELEVIT HELD GUN ON EMPLOYE

Government Denied Right to Exhibit Sawed-Off Weapon at Trial.

The prosecution testimony in the trial of John Kendrick and Harry Yudelevit, charged with assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon, was concluded yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards.

The defense testimony, directed by six attorneys, will get under way for a short time today. If the afternoon other assignments will be on the calendar of Justice F. D. Letts and the case will be put over to Monday.

Shot in Foot.

Policeman Thomas D. Bacon, who was allegedly shot in the foot and thigh by Kendrick, occupied the stand almost all day yesterday.

He was put through a grueling examination by the defense attorneys, but he stuck to his story that Kendrick first shot him in the toe and then in the thigh, while Yudelevit held a gun on a night watchman who was with Bacon when he saw Kendrick and Yudelevit.

Shoe Is Examined.

Defense attorneys exhibited a desire to scrutinize closely the shoe that Bacon was wearing when he was shot. They questioned him closely about a small hole, and the policeman declared, in reply, that the hole was made by a bullet fired by Kendrick.

The Government was dealt a blow early in the day when Justice Letts ruled that a sawed-off pump-gun, found in the car occupied by the two men, could not be used as evidence because it was illegally seized. The Government had expetoed to use the weapon to show that Bacon had a right to arrest the two men.

Young Republicans Hear Mrs. Howard

Reports on Work Progress Made at Banquet of Membership Group.

An address by Mrs. Frances Howard, secretary of the "Little Congress," featured the membership committee supper of the Young Republicans Club held last night at the National Capital Republican Club.

During the supper reports were given by various State leaders showing a marked progress in Republican work and furtherance of party principles among the young Republican element.

The membership committee announced that the open house teas they have been sponsoring on Sunday afternoons from 4 until 6:30 o'clock will be turned over to the States, each State to be solely responsible for the tea it directs.

Sound Teeth in Child Urged in Broadcast

State governments would save more than $150,000,000 annually if grade school children had healthy mouths, the District of Columbia Dental Society told radio listeners in a broadcast over Station WRC last night.

The talk was the first of a series of ten to be given semiweekly—Mondays at 7 o'clock and Thursdays at 6:30 o'clock. Next Monday's talk will tell parents how they can be sure their children will have healthy, sound, straight teeth.

MINISTERS PICTURE PAGANISTIC WORLD; CONFERENCE OPENS

Annual Sessions Are Begun by Congregationalist and Christian Churches.

MODERN ADVERTISING ATTACKED BY PASTOR

Dr. Buttrick, New York, Hits Back to Prosperity Cry; Cites Cost of War.

A world tottering on the brink of paganism, where God has not been given the chance to perform His work and where the church has proved itself ineffective, was pictured by speakers yesterday afternoon and last night at the opening of the second annual meeting of the Middle Atlantic Conference of Congregational and Christian Churches.

The meeting, which will continue through today at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, marks the completion of the first year of the merger of the Congregational and Christian Churches of the Middle Atlantic States.

The high light of the first day's sessions was the conference sermon, last night by the Rev. Arthur J. Buttrick, pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York, in which he announced that he was one minister who considered it his duty to speak on the economic and social problems of the day.

Dr. Buttrick attacked modern advertising, the cry of back to prosperity, the theory that preparedness will end war and "the discrepancy" between wealth and poverty.

Prosperity Brought Depression.

"When we speak of bringing back prosperity," he said, "we do not realize that it was prosperity that made the depression, no more than we realize that in a wartime administration, when the platform was 'back to normalcy,' that it was normalcy that brought the war."

The New York pastor said that all the money spent by this country on the war could eradicate unemployment in the United States. He voiced regret for a system in which workers have no right to express their desires in industry as the people have in connection with the Government through suffrage. Dr. Buttrick added hastily that he is not advocating Communism, but admitted "that Communism has bred a social zest that capitalism has failed to breed."

He predicted that "we shall soon discover that the whole modern cult of notoriety is unbelievably pagan." As examples of this "cult," he cited the advertising of big names and merchandise through electric lights and signboards and radio. He asserted that in radio "big business has made an outrageous theft of the air that belongs to every one."

Centers Attention on Christ.

Through his sermon Dr. Buttrick centered attention on the lonely figure of Christ waiting to lead the world. He took as his text the words of Luke: "And He made as though He would have gone further."

The evening session was under direction of the Rev. R. W. Brooks, minister of Lincoln Temple, this city, who charged that the church has proved itself ineffective to date. Norton M. Little, director of music at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, was in charge of a musical program.

The Rev. Galus Glenn Atkins, D. D., professor at Auburn Theological Seminary, Auburn, N. Y., was principal speaker at the afternoon session. A conference dinner, at which the Rev. D. Butler Pratt was toastmaster, preceded the evening session.

Two Youths Held For 140 Robberies

Unsold Goods Thrown Into Sewers, Say Police; Gum Sticks Used.

Approximately 140 housebreakings over a period of two years were laid to two 19-year-old youths by police last night after a four-day investigation. Only about $200 worth of property allegedly stolen by the pair has been recovered. Police said goods they were unable to sell were thrown into sewers.

One of the youths, Oscar Reel, colored, who gave his address as 813 Twenty-third street northwest, was caught by the janitor of an apartment house at 800 Eighteenth street northwest, who held him for authorities, police say. The other, William Smith, who gave his address as 408 C street northeast, was arrested after Third Precinct police had questioned Reel.

The pair is alleged to have used two long sticks, one fitted with a hook and the other with a wad of gum, for removing articles from second story apartment windows.

SPEAKERS AT CHURCH PARLEY

The Rev. Gaius Glenn Atkins, of Auburn University, left, who spoke at the opening session yesterday at the conference of Congregational and Christian churches of the Middle Atlantic States, and the Rev. Walter Spooner, of Newark, N. J., superintendent of the conference.

12 MORE ARE SEIZED BY GAMING RAIDERS

Gambling Equipment Taken as Fourteenth Street Place Is Visited.

The police crusade against gambling here continued yesterday with the raiding of an elaborate establishment at 1016 Fourteenth street northwest. Harry Gordon, 24, of 1118 Thirteenth street northwest, was arrested and charged with setting up a gaming table. He was released on $2,000 bond, while eleven witnesses were held in $100 bond.

A quantity of parsphernalia, including racing slips, a radio and mechanism operating an electrically controlled door was seized by the raiders, led by Capt. James E. Bobo, of the special investigation squad.

Inspector James F. Beckett, head of vice squad forces, said last night that the campaign against gaming inaugurated two weeks ago has resulted in a considerable cessation of gambling here. He said the indictments returned against a number of persons arrested had caused a scare among the gaming fraternity.

Alaska Flying Concert Tour Is Singer's Plan

A "flying concert tour" through Alaska is the object of Robert M. Crawford, noted barytone, who flew his own airplane from Newark, N. J., yesterday and landed at Washington Airport.

Mr. Crawford was met by Judge James Wickersham, with whom he will discuss the proposed tour. The product of a mining camp, Mr. Crawford is better known among his friends as "Klondike Bob." He obtained his musical education at Princeton University and studied for some time in France. He returned to this country to head the Newark Music Foundation.

A day of recollection will be given at Nazareth Social Service Center at 200 I street northwest Sunday by the Rev. R. A. McGowan, assistant director of the social action department of the Catholic welfare conference. The exercises will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The holy hour will commence at 4:30 o'clock and conclude with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

ASCENSION SERVICE IS HELD BY MASONS

Knights Templar Parade, Then Attend Devotional Rites at Church.

Members of the Knights Templar Commanderies of the District celebrated Ascension Day yesterday with a service in the First Congregational Church after a parade in full-plumed regalia through the downtown streets.

The procession began at the Masonic Temple, at New York avenue and Thirteenth street. From there the knights marched on New York avenue to East Executive avenue, thence south to E street, from there to Pennsylvania avenue, and then up Tenth street to the church.

The service was opened by an organ prelude played by Harold V. Milligan, after which the assembled knights sang the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Then the grand prelate, the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, led in the Lord's Prayer. Choral anthems were sung by the A Cappella Choir of 60 voices. After a prayer recited by all, the Rev. Mr. Montgomery preached a short sermon.

After benediction by the Rev. John C. Palmer, the knights marched out of the church. The service was in charge of L. Whiting Estes, William H. Harrison, Roland M. Brown, Arthur M. Poynton and J. Claude Keiper.

Site of Bus Depot Believed Secured

Pennsylvania Avenue and C Street Property Being Bought for Station.

Site for the first of possibly two projected buildings offering terminal facilities for many of the 27 bus lines operating through the city was revealed yesterday by the assembling of property bounded by C and Sixth streets and Pennsylvania avenue northwest for such a structure, which will be situated near the northwest corner of the intersection of the two last-named thoroughfares.

The property being assembled will have frontage of approximately 85 feet on Pennsylvania avenue, nearly 70 feet on Sixth street and close to 163 feet on C street. It will be the site of a one-story and basement, brick and stone structure, the ground floor of which will serve as a merchandising center and the basement, a bus terminal. It is understood that practically all of the store space on the ground floor has been leased by local and foreign mercantile organizations and that several bus lines have signified their intention of using the basement.

Out-of-town interests sponsoring the project hope to make it a group terminal for various lines which will be forbidden curb terminals in the second traffic zone after August 1. Construction of the building is expected to start within 30 days.

Massachusetts Society To Hold Party Tonight

The Massachusetts Society of Washington will hold its annual May party tonight in the ballroom of the Willard Hotel. Entertainment will be furnished by Mrs. Robert V. Kempton, soloist.

Frank E. Hickey, president of the society, has announced that the annual outing in celebration of Bunker Hill day will be held on Saturday, June 18, at Olney Inn, Olney, Md.

Walker Is Injured by Hoist.

Struck by a hoist when he walked under a concrete mixer on a Government project at Tenth street and Constitution avenue northwest yesterday, Richard Gausing, 40 years old, of 416 Second street northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital in a serious condition. He suffered a brain concussion and a sprained knee.

Old British Embassy Site May Become Parking Lot

That part of the former British Embassy site at Connecticut avenue and N street northwest may follow the way of the John W. Thompson, Charles Henry Butler and other once fashionable residential locations to eventual use as auto parking space was revealed in announcement yesterday that Randall H. Hagner & Co., Inc., is offering the site for rent or sale for the property's out-of-town owners, who will erect stores with parking facilities to suit tenants. The property has a frontage of 154 feet on Connecticut avenue, 130 on Nineteenth street northwest and 234 on N street.

In 1925 title to the property passed from the British government to Harry Wardman, Thomas P. Bones and James D. Hobbs, and in 1931 from these Wardman officials to a group contemplating erection of a large building for dentists and physicians on the site. The old embassy building was torn down but the office building project has not yet been realized.

Last March Story & Co. announced the lease of the John W. Thompson property, at 1419 I street northwest, to Arthur G. Dezendorf for five years and the Thompson home was razed to make way for a parking lot. A week later Higbie, Richardson & Franklin, Inc., announced the leasing for five years with five-year renewal privilege of 1531, 1533, 1535, 1537 I street northwest, for the Lambie estate and Charles Henry Butler to Auto Gasoline & Parking Co., and these dwellings have been razed for parking space.

WIDER INOCULATION AGAINST CONTAGIOUS DISEASE ADVOCATED

Dr. G. H. Emerson Tells Medical Society Need of Preventive Methods.

SUGGESTS CAMPAIGNS FOR "SOCIAL GADFLIES"

Outlines Units Necessary to Adequate System for Community Treatment.

The need for a "social gadfly" constantly to urge communities to widen the practice of diphtheria, typhoid and smallpox inoculation was cited last night by Dr. George Haven Emerson, of New York City principal speaker at the closing session of the annual meeting of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia.

Widely Known Authority.

Dr. Emerson, widely known as an authority on community preventive systems, said the need for general inoculation was increasing. He said members of the medical profession could not, without embarrassment to themselves, advocate too strongly such practices because it might make them appear to be soliciting business.

He traced the history of preventive medicine. The black plague in 1840, he said, brought the first great social awakening to the need for preventive methods. No actual measures were begun, however, before 1870, and he said progress since then had been substantial.

Preventive System Stressed.

Five main branches of a preventive system for a city were stressed by the speaker. The necessary groups, he said, were a medical center or adequate hospital, an agency to supervise child and adult health conditions, a council of social agencies, a community chest, and a comprehensive instructive visiting nurse unit.

Dr. Emerson said a survey of 20 American cities showed that preventive methods generally were on a par in communities and that difficulties encountered appeared to be alike at all points.

Firemen Free Woman "Prisoned" in Office

A fire truck was sent to the Union Market Terminal Co., 1244 Sixth street northeast, late yesterday afternoon to release Miss Marian Ternent, 24 years old, of 1301 Massachusetts avenue northwest, an employe who had gotten locked in the place at closing time.

When Miss Ternent found she was a prisoner, she called for police, who in turn called the Fire Department. Members of No. 13 Truck Company ran a ladder to the second floor and the young woman climbed out to the street.
